FALL ON STREET REVIVES MEMORY

Accident in Chicago Loop Is fallen into the rock-studded waters. Blessing to New Yorker.

New York.-A man clad in a ragged suit and a dirty white sweater started to cross State street in Chicago one night recently. He was just another bit of human flotsam and nobody paid very much attention when he leaped from in front of a speeding automobile, stumbled and rapped his head on

The fellow got up and rubbed his head in a bewildered manner. Traffic in the loop swirled on, but the man in the disheveled clothes sought a side street-he was suddenly and unaccountably ashamed of his appearance. Faint flickers of memory began to stir in an awakened mind, writes Tom Pettey in the Chicago Tribune.

And that is why Harry G. Havery, wealthy Westchester county real estate and insurance man, who had been given up for dead after he dropped from sight on a fishing trip in Long Island sound eight months ago, was back with his family in time for a happy Christmas, Mr. Havery was haggard, his cheeks were thin, and he could remember little of his adventures in aphasia.

He Finds Himself.

He had found himself a few hours after having suffered the blow on his head in Chicago when his erratic memory told him who he was as his brain began to function normally. He immediately began hurried preparations to return home.

The Westchester man who came back from the dead is thirty-eight years old and a step-son of the late Charles Purdy, pioneer land owner in New York city's most fashionable suburban district.

Mr. Havery had lived for years with his wife and four children near White Plains. On May 2 he went fishing off Rye beach, and when he did not return home that night, a search disclosed his boat anchored 100 feet from the shore, and evidence that he had

Wires Brother-in-Law. Mr. Havery's brother-in-law, Assistant Corporation Counsel Samuel Faile, received a telegram signed with the missing man's name. A telephone call to Chicago followed and $100 was telegraphed for Havery's expenses

"I do not know where I have been nor what I have been doing all these months I have been away," said Mr. Havery at his home.

MARRYING CLERK IS PROSPERING ON JOB

New York City Official Finds Couples Generous

New York .- The job of deputy city clerk, which carries with it the duty of marrying couples in the municipal building, was disclosed as one of the city's most profitable jobs when Counsel Samuel Seabury showed the Hofstadter legislative committee, in a public hearing, that James J. McCormick has been making $16,000 a year out of it in addition to his salary of $8,500.

Almost every couple he marriesand he marries about 300 a weekmake him a little gift after the ceremony, McCormick said. They give him from $1 to $10, and rarely $20. Those gifts and his salary enabled him to bank $229,000 between 1925 and October 19 of this year.

His own estimate of his "gift" income, however, lacked $150,000 of accounting for his total deposits in that period and McCormick confessed himself unable to explain that sum,

The questions Mr. Seabury asked the deputy clerk made it clear that the counsel thought McCormick had been getting "gifts" of $20 much oftener than he did the smaller sums, and that a larger income from that source would account for the $150,000. Mc-

Cormick denied this, however, The examination of Deputy Clerk
