

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

George Felding, of Linden Hall, was a brief caller at this office, on Monday.

The large abandoned tannery at Powell, Bradford county, recently purchased by R. M. Smith and Max Herr, of town, is being dismantled by workmen employed by them.

Mrs. Edward Laughner, now living on her farm near Pottery Mills, will move to Centre Hall in April and will occupy her home at present occupied by her son-in-law, Elmer Noll and family. The Nolls, it is stated, will move to the hotel apartment.

A bed of blue flags in the yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Stoner, near Centre Hall railroad station, is showing up a few months ahead of time. The plants have made from three to four inches of growth and have every appearance of that usually in April.

Prof. J. F. Wetzel and family attended the Educational Demonstration at the Farm Products Show, Friday, and continued their visit over the weekend at the home of Mr. Wetzel's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Arbogast, on State St., Harrisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Fleck, who for a number of years lived in Caldwell, New Jersey, have moved into a home purchased recently on S. Thurmont Road, West, which place is near to their former home. The home is a three-story brick with all modern equipments, and is ideally located.

Mrs. Steve Matis and sons have leased the large VanTries farm, owned by Col. T. D. Boal, located near Linden Hall. Elwood Comley is the present tenant, Andrew Rocky, also tenant on a Boal farm adjoining that tenanted by Mr. Comley, will vacate the place next spring. He has advertised sale of his farm stock and implements for Monday, March 21st.

About twenty members of the Loyal Temperance Legion, the junior organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held a regular meeting Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Homan, their daughter Miriam being a member. The regular program was well carried out, after which an hour was given over to social enjoyment, during which time delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Homan.

The Epworth League of the Centre Hall Methodist church was reorganized on January 22. The following were in attendance at the business and social meeting on that evening at the parsonage: Estella Hosterman, Marian Smith, Gladys Smith, Roberta Smith, Louise Smith, Myla Spyster, Alice Spyster, William Spyster, John Spyster, Isabel Jodon, Doris Metz and Elizabeth Bartholomew. Miss Louise Smith was elected president of the League.

Dr. P. W. Leitzell, of Berdon, Wis., in making a remittance on subscription to the Reporter, and, by the way, advancing his date to February, 1934, made a valuable suggestion that will be followed to a larger extent than heretofore. Dr. Leitzell left Spring Mills, his home town, a number of years ago to practice his profession in what was then referred to as "the West," but which is now quite near home. Many of his companions in Pennsylvania Valley have passed away since he left here, and others like him have gone elsewhere to live, making the home surroundings much unlike what they used to be.

Eugene McClellan, who was burned when the gas in a furnace at the McClellan Garage, State College, exploded, was brought to his home from the Centre County hospital a few days ago very much improved. The burns on his face are pretty well healed, but those on the left hand will require some time before the dressings can be permanently removed. The young man is a son of H. A. McClellan, of Tusseyville and brother of Frank McClellan, the owner of the garage, where the accident happened.

Millheim borough authorities have about completed the selection of locations for the additional lights to be installed on the main thoroughfare in that town. The electric lights will be 400 watt and in the central part of the town will be carried by modern lamp posts. These will be very much more massive than those now in use. The underground wiring will also be renewed, and will conform to that used at the present time in larger towns and cities. From what can be gathered the council is aiming to improve the lighting of the borough without increasing the cost to any appreciable extent. The West Penn Power Company gives out that the improvements contemplated will cost that company close to $2000.

Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Keener are attending as two of the eight official delegates of West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed Church in the United States, the third annual State convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, held Monday and Tuesday in Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Harrisburg. Some of the more noted speakers scheduled who addressed the convention were Rev. Edwin H. Delk, D. D., of the United Lutheran Church; Rev. C. E. Schaeffer, D. D., and Rev. James M. Mullin, D. D., of the Reformed Church in the U. S.; Rev. Walter W. Van Kirk, secretary of commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches; Mr. Fred B. Smith, of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches; Bishop Wm. F. McDonald, D. D., and Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal church; Professor Paul H. Vieth, Ph. D., of Yale Divinity School, and Rev. Edmund B. Chaffer, J. D., of the Labor Temple, New York City.

BROWN ENTERTAINS HOSPITAL TRUSTEES AND SOLICITORS

At the Penn Belle hotel, on Tuesday evening, Manager W. H. Brown, of the Centre County Hospital, entertained at dinner the Hospital trustees, Hospital membership drive leaders and friends of the hospital, to the number of about seventy-five. When the statement is made that Mr. Brown was the host, it is that in fact, and it means, too, that he is a real host. Mr. Brown's idea in giving these annual dinners is to create a deeper interest in the general support of the institution of which he is the efficient manager.

Judge M. Ward Fleming was toastmaster. In naming Mr. Brown as the first speaker he paid a high compliment to his ability as a manager and like each of the succeeding speakers much of the hospital's growth, general interest being created among citizens in all sections of the county, and economy in administration was credited to him.

After Manager Brown, the toastmaster named Senator H. B. Scott. The senator dwelt on the needs of all hospitals throughout the State for extra funds, and expressed regret that the governor for no valid reason vetoed the $2,000,000 appropriation to hospitals at the extra session of the Legislature. Of this sum approximately $9,000 was allocated to the Centre County hospital. The reception given the senator clearly indicated that the diners, regardless of their political affiliations, supported his attitude in the regular and special sessions of the State Legislature.

Representative John L. Holmes was the next speaker and he was followed by Dr. Melvin Locke, Prof. W. R. Ham, J. S. Somerville, W. Harrison Walker, Robert F. Hunter, John Blanchard, former Judge Furst, J. Henry Thompson, the latter president of the board of trustees.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Q. R. Wagner, in Millheim. The father is principal of the East Penna. Valley High school.

It was pretty cold Monday, but plows kept going throughout the day, turning the under tilled soil to the top.

Mrs. Earl Grove, of Tusseyville, who has been seriously ill for some time, was taken to the Gelsinger hospital, Danville, Sunday morning. She is being prepared for an operation later.

Friday evening of last week members of Sunset club gave a party at the club house to which a number of friends were invited. The chief amusement, before and after refreshments, was cards.

Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick was elected president of the Centre County School Directors' Association at their annual convention held in Bellefonte recently, a fact which his modesty prevented him from recording in his report to this paper of the directors convention.

DEAN WARNOCK OF P. S. C. TALKS TO KIWANISANS

The "Galbraith Singers" father and daughter, B. V. Galbraith and Miss Katherine Galbraith, of Brookville, entertained the Kiwanis Club delightfully at the meeting Tuesday noon in the Penn Belle Hotel, Bellefonte.

Dean Arthur Warnock of the Penna. State College was the guest speaker and brought to the members of the Club among whom a number of Penn State students are found, a clear understanding of the present athletic policy of the institution, and the physical education program which has been put into effect. Under the present system the effort is being made to send all students out equipped for life physically as well as mentally and morally. All Freshmen receive immediately a physical examination and are given proper physical exercises to correct anything wrong and to build them up in body. This examination will be a yearly feature among the students. All Freshmen are required to take the study of hygiene and all Freshmen and Sophomores are required to have two hours of physical training a week.

Intercollegiate games are the crown of the physical education program of Penn State, Dan Warnock said. They show men how to strive, what a sound body is like, how well games can be played, the necessity and place of good sportsmanship in competition, and should exemplify the most laudable phases of hard physical endeavor. Subsidized athletics however were unjust to the athlete, who got nothing out of his college course, and were not in keeping with amateur regulations. For this reason they have been abolished at Penn State and the movement is growing among all educational institutions. During 1932 some changes will be seen in the schedules and in 1933 more changes still, as Penn State will play only such colleges and universities as have put their athletics upon this fair and better basis. With the intensive training being given all the students the prospects for teams that will show a much larger success in the future than in the past few years in intercollegiate games are much brighter and it is anticipated that Penn State will give a good account of itself.

Guests present were: Lawrence Rodding, Snow Shoe, and John Lochner, Harrisburg.

Consignment of Chevrolets Arrive.

The first consignment of Chevrolet cars received by the Miller Motor Co., successor to the Homan Motor Co., Centre Hall, arrived Tuesday, and consisted of a special sedan, two coaches and one coupe.

A Young People's Program.

On Sunday evening, the Young People of Trinity Reformed church, Centre Hall, conducted a Young People's program. It was given in keeping with Education Day and Young People's Day and in commemoration of the first issue of the Heidelberg Catechism, January 19, 1563.

The purpose of the young people's services, as explained by the leader, Robert Bradford, was at least three-fold: (1) To demonstrate to the young people of the church that they can and should have a larger part in the normal activities of the church to mutual advantage; (2) To enlist the interest and cooperation of the adults in finding opportunities for the young people to render real service in the regular program and work of the church; (3) To deepen the interest of both the young people and the adults in the young people's work of the entire denomination.

After an organ prelude, call to worship, and a response which was read in unison, the Scripture lessons were read—the Old Testament lesson from Isaiah 61:1-11 by Miss Catherine Martz; the New Testament lesson from St. Luke 10:1-9, by Miss Sara Slack. A prayer was offered by Curtis Reiber.

The congregation joined in singing a hymn, after which Miss Isabel Bradford read a stewardship essay—"Choosing My Life Work from the Standpoint of a Christian Steward." Miss Sara Odenkirk sang "Beside Still Waters."

Three messages were given by three young people of the church. The first, "We Would Serve Our Church," by Miss Fay E. Bradford; the second, "We Would Serve Our People," by Harold Bradford; the third, "We Would Serve Our Master," by Curtis Reiber. The theme of all the messages was that everyone of us can serve our church, people and our Master. Our service may appear insignificant but it can often times reach to the uttermost parts of the earth. Another Young People's program will probably be planned for a Sunday in February.

WASHINGTON AND LEE'S FANCY DRESS BALL TO BE BROADCAST

FOR the first time in the history of Washington and Lee University, the music for its Fancy Dress Ball will be heard throughout the country on a sponsored program. The music, which this year is to be furnished by Bernie Cummins and his Orchestra, will be brought to radio listeners from coast to coast through the sponsorship of the Lucky Strike Dance Hour on the evening of January 28th, beginning at 10:00 o'clock, E.S.T., over a nationwide NBC network. The orchestra will be introduced from New York by Walter Winchell, famous newspaper columnist. Washington and Lee's Fancy Dress Ball, which was started 26 years ago, in celebration of the birth of George Washington, whose name coupled with that of Robert E. Lee has been the name of the University for the last 62 years, takes on added significance this year because it marks the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of the country's first President. The fame of these fancy dress balls has spread so widely since they were started 26 years ago that they are now the best known college dances in the South. One of the features of the broadcast on January 28th will be the playing of the University's famous

SCHOOL NEWS OF INTEREST

GREGG TWP. VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NOTES.

William Campbell, a graduate of G. T. Vocational School, in the class of '31, who was president of the Keystone Branch of the Future Farmers of America, presided at the regular annual meeting of the organization which was held at Harrisburg during the State Farm Show. He had the privilege of awarding the Keystone degree to twenty other Future Farmers, who were selected as candidates in a State-wide contest for this degree. They were all members of Vocational schools throughout the State. Four of these boys were members of the Gregg Township Chapter of F. F. A. They were Ellis Rearick, Russell Mark, Eugene Zerby and John Zubler. William also had the privilege of conferring honorary degrees upon Dr. Ruie Supt. of Public Instruction; L. H. Dennis, State Director of Vocational Education; C. D. Carey, of York; T. C. Y. Ford, of Washington, Pa. William did commendable work as president of the Keystone Branch of Future Farmers. He is now enrolled as a freshman at the Penna. State College.

In addition to the above honors the boys from the Gregg Twp. Voc. School won fourth place as a school in the State Project contest. It will be remembered that these boys won first place in 1929, and second place in '30. Hence this is a good record for a small school when considering a contest with approximately 140 schools competing, which includes several thousand boys and girls.

Farmers Evening Classes Planned—The Agricultural teachers of G. T. V. S. are planning to hold evening classes where subjects relating to the study of the major breeds of dairy cattle, judging cows, testing of milk, characteristics of good cows, feeds and feeding, records, etc. A class in crop may be considered if the demand for this subject is sufficient. These classes will be planned for the farmers of the community. They will be made as practical as possible and everyone interested is asked to attend whenever convenient. The first meeting is planned for Jan. 26 at 8 P. M. at the Vocational School.

Basket Ball, Friday—Friday of this week the G. T. V. S. boys and girls play the Beaver Voc. boys and girls at Spring Mills.
