For Ready Cash

"BILLS, BILLS, and there's more feed to buy!" Robert Helm leafed through the papers and jotted down the totals. "Here's $150 in feed bills alone."

Mrs. Helm came to her husband's desk. "I'd sell some stock," she counseled. "Those calves and the two Holsteins will eat their heads off before winter's over!"

Mr. Helm hesitated. "Prices are awfully low, Sue. But wait a minute." He hunted through the desk and found a card. "Here's the name of that dealer who wanted to buy last month. I'll call him by telephone."

In a minute or two the deal was in progress and in five minutes it was closed.

"Not so bad, Sue!" exclaimed Mr. Helm jovially. "He'll be over tomorrow and the price is all right!"
