FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Plant Perennials—

If a hotbed is available a number of perennials can be started now so they will bloom next summer. Some of these that can be started now are columbine, shasta daisy, larkspur and single hollyhocks.

Ready Cash for Spring—

Extra cash, to start your spring farm work, can be earned in the woodlot this winter. Fireplace wood cut to length is always in demand. Find out the need and cut to order. Satisfied customers will buy again.

Control Temperature—

Vegetable seeds germinate best in a warm temperature, of 70 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit in either light or darkness. As soon as germination begins full light is required and the temperature should be reduced to keep the young seedlings short and stocky. Cabbage, cauliflower, and onion seedlings are satisfied with 60 to 70 degrees by day and 45 to 55 at night. For tomatoes, peppers and eggplants add 10 degrees to day and night temperatures.

Select Good Chicks—

To develop a high producing pullet flock select good strong chicks from birds known to lay a large number of eggs, large in size and of good quality. Such birds should be true to type and free from disease.

Cover Crops Thrive—

Early Seeding of orchard cover crops results in larger growth and lower costs, a State College experiment has shown.

Sow Some Hardy Seed—

Where the alfalfa field is to be left for long time, it is recommended by State College agronomists that one-third to one-half of the seed sown be of hardy strains and the rest be common seed from Kansas or farther north.

PENN STATE'S NEW ATHLETIC POLICY TO BE EXPLAINED

The new athletic policy of Penn State college will be fully explained by speakers at the organization meeting of Centre County alumni of the college called for Monday evening, February 22, at 8 o'clock, in the Little Theatre in Old Main.

Developments in recent months have brought to the attention of athletic officials at the college the fact that few former students can express familiarity with all phases of the "athletics for all" program that has been adopted over the past five years. For this reason the committee in charge of the meeting called primarily for organization of a Penn State Club of Centre County, decided that the chief topic for discussion would be the athletic situation.

The athletic program as it now stands will be covered by R. A. Warnock, dean of men, and a number of the college Athletic Board of Control and of the College Senate committee on athletics.

A feature of the gathering will be an alumni dinner in the Old Main Sandwich Shop at 6:30 prior to the meeting in the Little Theatre.

Past the middle of February, and plows running on many farms.

If stocks went up because "Al" threw his hat into the circle he ought to do the trick every other day for six months. The accomplishments would be much more than the Hoover bally-hooping.

Word in Time

PETE, the dog, cocked an ear and growled. Strange footsteps were approaching the farmhouse.

With his torn and muddy clothing, the stranger presented a curious spectacle to the Clark family. "Lost in the woods," he mumbled. "Have you got a bite to eat?"

Despite the dog's protests, Mrs. Clark bade the stranger enter and share the evening meal. He ate ravenously, his eyes constantly on Pete and the door.

Suddenly the telephone rang! "Man headed your way—dangerous character!" Details of the sheriff's description were lost in the uproar as the stranger dashed for the woods with Pete at his heels.

The sheriff's men found him easily enough in an old maple tree, the dog faithfully on guard. "For protection, give us Pete and a telephone," the Clarks agree.
