CRIMINAL COURT CASES; PENALTIES LIQUOR VIOLATION

The criminal court last week was taken up largely by hearing liquor law violations. Three defendants were sentenced to prison terms, while to six fines of from $100 to $500, and probation requirements were meted. In each case payment of costs was demanded.

John Coble was haled before the bar to answer two charges of violating the liquor laws, in which Chief Youngel was the prosecutor. Pleading guilty to the first charge, Judge Fleming sentenced him to pay the costs, a fine of $100 and serve one year in the county jail. He may ask for parole before the expiration of the sentence, provided he has paid the cost and fine. On the second count, Coble also plead guilty, and upon the payment of costs, sentence was suspended.

C. W. Stover, entering a plea of guilty to charges of violating the prohibition laws, was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $100 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days. Sylvester "Doggie" Myers, alleged proprietor of an establishment where liquor was dispensed, along the road near Jacksonville, pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws and was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $100, and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for one year.

The court stipulated that he could apply for a parole after the expiration of sixty days of his fine and costs have been paid in the meantime. William Peters, steward at the Elks Club in Phillipsburg, plead guilty to operating a gambling device and was ordered by the court to pay the costs, a fine of $100, and undergo probation for a year. Another charge against the same man, for violation of the liquor laws, netted Peters a fine of $500 and a period of probation for three years.

M. L. Larmer, Thomas McCann, W. K. Krouse were each fined $100 for violation of the liquor laws. These were all separate cases.

Defendants who drew fines of $500 for liquor law violations were Harry Newbower, Victor Strance, L. C. Ammerman.

S. C. Bonsell, for violation of liquor laws, was sentenced to pay costs and probation for one year, but no fine.

Two other classes of defendants were prominent—vehicle code violators and non-support. Violators of the vehicle code found guilty were J. Clyde Rider, $50.00 fine and ten days in jail; Wm. Chalot, $25.00 fine and undergo probation for one year; George H. Gilliland, forfeiture driver's license and $25.00 fine and one year probation. In each of these cases costs were assessed against the defendants.

Marvin L. Dunlap, charged with desertion and non-support, was ordered to pay $40 a month for the support of his children, and was directed to enter bond in the sum of $500.

Ernest Simler on a charge of non-support and desertion, was ordered to pay $15 per month for the support of his wife, is required to enter $300 bond.

Another case of desertion and non-support was that entered against John C. Auman. The defendant was discharged by the court.

Bernard Smith, charged with desertion and non-support, was ordered to pay $30 per month for the support of his wife. No bond was required.

William G. Williams, charged with participation in the burglary of the Citizens Building and Loan Association on Presquise street, Phillipsburg, on the night of December 7. The jury decided that Williams is guilty even though he attempted to establish an alibi. N. B. Spangler, attorney for the defense, after the verdict was rendered, intimated that a new trial would be asked for.

Fair Exchange. "Another bull calf—" "A only good for veal!" "Disappointment was apparent in Tom Beach's voice." Mrs. Beach shook her head. "We'll not kill a calf like that, Tom. He's blue ribbon stock, remember! Couldn't you exchange him for a heifer, somewhere?" "No," Tom countered. "There's not an Ayrshire herd within a hundred miles with the blood lines I want." "There's that breeder in Maryland," Mrs. Beach suggested. "Why not telephone him?" "Tom's face brightened visibly. "That's a good idea. I'd like one of his heifers!" In a minute or two the conversation was in full swing. "I got a good one," Tom exclaimed at its close. "And, believe it or not, our little bull was just what he wanted!" The modern farm home has a telephone.
