'FAMOUS' CUSTOMERS HAVE WIDE SELECTION

CONFIDENT OF ITS LEADERSHIP, STOCKS ARE GREATER THAN ANY FORMER SEASON.

Nothing succeeds like having the goods!
Trade goes to the store that has established itself as an abundant center of popular merchandise at thrift prices just as naturally as water flows down hill. Measure the store of 1932 by the size of its stock. Every forward-looking retailer who is secure in his resources and confident of his rank in his community pushes forward courageously, certain that variety and value will win over all competition.
The minute you enter the Famous on Market Street, Lewistown—past the deep arcade of new show windows—you'll sense the atmosphere of confidence and leadership. You'll like it! Especially this week when Easter apparel shopping means so much to you.

AIM OF CUT RATE TO SELL SAME FOR LESS

HUGE STOCKS. LOW PRICES EVERY DAY. WEEKLY SPECIALS WORTH WATCHING FOR.

One of Lewistown's best examples of progressive merchandising has brought the Cut Rate Store of Rea & Derick out of competition and into a flourishing business with thousands of customers, the likes of which is seldom found outside the large cities.
There are fourteen stores in the Rea & Derick chain now, a number sufficient to command the advantages of quantity wholesale buying, yet not so far flung that operating expenses eat up these savings.
You may save money every day, every week on every one of their amply stocked lines: Patent medicines, toilet preparations, candles, rubber goods, household supplies.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Five hundred and ten retail stores in Pennsylvania failed to renew their licenses for the sale of oleomargarine in 1932.
Miss Elizabeth Royer spent the weekend at her home here. She is teaching her third term in the Port Matilda High school and was again re-elected.
Treasurer R. F. Hunter has issued 3,014 dog licenses as per a statement issued by John A. McSparran. The issuing of these is one of the most important things our J. A. Mc does.
John H. Runkle, living on the Dr. S. C. Runkle farm east of town, has been seriously ill for the past week. He is not suffering from pain, but from excessive weakness.
The widow and children of the late Samuel J. Rowe take this method of expressing thanks for kindnesses proffered during the illness and after the death of the husband and father.
Many brands of so-called quick-drying enamels on the market, but there is only one Genuine Hilo, 4-hour hard-drying enamel. Sold by H. P. Schaeffer's Hardware, Bellefonte.
Bruce D. Rowe, of Newark, N. J., and John L. Rowe, Mrs. Rowe and son "Billie," of Atlantic City, N. J., attended the funeral of S. J. Rowe, on Friday, and remained here until Sunday.
The little daughter of Mrs. Malcolm Smith, at State College, developed a case of double mastoids. Mrs. Smith, the mother, is the teacher of music in the public schools here, and herself has experienced severe illness and one or more mishaps since the school term opened last fall.
The Greyhound bus broke down Sunday afternoon on its way east and was obliged to remain parked for a day in town. An extra bus was sent here from Sunbury for the passengers. The extra brought a mechanic who worked all night and part of Monday before the motor would function.
The farm prices of principal products declined during the past month. The drop in prices applies to eggs, butter, buckwheat, corn, potatoes, apples, beef, cattle, hogs, chickens and hay. A rise in price for the same period is noted on wheat, one cent; oats, one cent; calves, 10 cents per cwt.; lambs, 30 cents per cwt.
Frank Smith, an overseas veteran of the World war who had plenty of fighting experience in France and later became intimately acquainted with numerous hospitals under the management of the Allies, made a trip to Pittsburgh on the Greyhound bus last week. He went there for further treatment by a specialist for lingering effects from being gassed.
Mrs. J. Cloyd Brooks, on Wednesday, was taken to the Altoona hospital where today (Thursday) she will undergo an operation to correct a trouble in the elbow following an injury due to a fall last December. Dr. Galbraith, a bone specialist, will have the case in charge. Mrs. Brooks was accompanied to the hospital by her son Stanley Brooks, and Mrs. Edward Durst.
Spring began at 2:45 on Sunday and it was only a few hours until weather prophets began forecasting a fall of snow. Their predictions proved true, and by Monday morning the snow fall measured between three and four inches. The snow was extremely fluffy, but lay where it fell—thanks. By eight o'clock the fall discontinued. Adjoining counties were reported to have had a more liberal supply of snow during the same period.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A number of news items and correspondents' letters reached us too late for insertion this week.
Harry Burris, living on the McMan farm west of town, is seriously ill from an affection of the heart.
The two prisoners—Williams and LaBarr—who escaped from the Centre county jail recently, have not been recaptured.
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Durst, on Monday, attended the funeral of Miss Isabel Gray, at Julian. The deceased was a relative of Mrs. Durst.

A St. Patrick's Day party was given by Miss Evelyn Colyer, teacher of the Rainbow Girls of the Lutheran Sunday school, to the members of the class, at her home.
Philip A. Auman, one of the best preserved men of eighty-four years in Gregg township, is at the home of his son, V. A. Auman, in town, where he will remain for some time.
The junior class of the Centre Hall High school presented the play, "The Whoofenpoof," to fair size audiences on Friday and Saturday nights, in the Grange hall. The students did themselves great credit in the manner in which they enacted their several parts. Much credit likewise reflects upon R. S. Jamison of the High school faculty, who had the young people in charge.
Lewis Flick, 19 year old son of Jas. B. and Eva Russ Flick, died at his home at Bush Hollow, near Bellefonte, Thursday morning of complication of diseases. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters. Funeral services were held Sunday morning.

PRISONER DIGS WAY THROUGH PLASTER CEILING TO FREEDOM

Walter LaBarr, of Philadelphia, a prisoner in the Centre county jail awaiting trial for complicity in the robbery of the A. and P. store, in Snow Shoe, on the night of June 4th, 1930, escaped at two o'clock Tuesday night of last week by digging his way through the plaster ceiling of his cell, knocking a hole in the roof and crawling through to liberty. Taking the blanket from his cot with him he fashioned a rope by means of which he descended to the jail yard at the southeast corner of the building. Going to the north side he scrambled up a vine trellis to the roof of the porch leading from the laundry, and in some way crawled to the top of the wall and jumped to the ground below.
The hole through which he escaped was about 18x12 inches in size.
The kind of implement he used to dig with is also unknown, as the only thing the sheriff could find anywhere was a good-sized spike. Ralph Klingner occupied the cell with LaBarr, but so far he has refused to give the sheriff any information. Klingner made no attempt to accompany LaBarr, as his prison term is almost up.
A car owned by M. P. Brooks, which was stolen from in front of his home on Logan street, sometime during the night the prisoner escaped, was discovered at Hubbersburg the following day (Wednesday).
A man answering the description of Walter LaBarr stopped at the Harvey home at Hubbersburg, between 5:29 and 6 o'clock Wednesday morning and asked for some water for his car, saying he was not able to get it started. When it was found they couldn't get it started he asked Mr. Hoy if he would take him to Lock Haven. Mr. Hoy stated he couldn't take him, but he was later taken by a Hecla man. When they reached at the monument, he said he worked at the Elks club, and asked Mr. Em-Loek Haven he asked to be left out-ory to get his car in shape and he would get it that evening and at the same time pay him for taking him to Lock Haven. That was the last he saw of him. Mr. Brooks was notified and immediately went to Hubbersburg and claimed his car.
LaBarr is 29 years old, married and the father of three children. The following night after the Snow Shoe store was robbed, LaBarr, Jas. Brown and Frank DeAngelo spent the night at the Passmore House in Philipsburg. The next day they went to Harrisburg, and that night robbed the A. and P. Store in that city. LaBarr and Brown were captured, tried, convicted and given 18 months to three years in the eastern penitentiary. They were discharged on parole on December 19, after serving their minimum sentence. On the 11th of this month LaBarr was rearrested on the Snow Shoe robbery charge and brought to Bellefonte for trial. Brown and DeAngelo, companions in the robbery, were not found.
Mrs. Coldron Entertains.
Mrs. John M. Coldron entertained at a St. Patrick's Day party, at her home in town on Wednesday night of last week. Decorations were in keeping with the day. Refreshments were served. The following were present:
Mrs. J. H. Knarr, Mrs. W. H. MacMorrin, Mrs. George Vogt, Mrs. Paul Fetteroff, Mrs. E. M. Smith, Mrs. D. C. Mitterling.
