DEATHS.

FOUST.—Mrs. Rebecca Foust, widow of Howard Foust, died on Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Sadie, wife of Harry Cummings, near Centre Hall, at the age of 75 years, 1 month and 27 days. She had been in ill health and confined to bed for five weeks from hardening of the arteries.

She was the daughter of Peter and Sarah Bowes Neese. Her husband, named above, died some years ago, but there survive her these children: Anna, wife of James Reeder, near Spring Mills; Mrs. Cummings, where her death occurred; Ada, wife of Harry S. Schuyler, near Centre Hall, and Charles Foust, Centre Hill. Also, these sisters and brothers: Mrs. Mary McCool, Centre Hall; Minnie, wife of Jas. Cain, Seattle, Washington; Mrs. Sadie Ohl, Nittany, and Adam Neese, Lewisburg.

Interment was made Monday afternoon in the Sprucetown cemetery after services at the home conducted by Rev. S. F. Greenhoe.

ROWE.—George Washington Rowe died at his home in Boalsburg on Thursday from influenza, from which disease he suffered since the middle of March. He was aged 72 years, 4 months and 27 days, and was a son of John Rowe. Funeral services were held from the home Saturday afternoon, with interment in the Boalsburg cemetery, services having been conducted by Rev. A. S. Asendorf, of the Reformed church at State College, due to the illness of Rev. H. L. Wink, of the Boalsburg Reformed church, and pastor of the deceased.

There survive the deceased three daughters—Miss Blanche, who holds a position in the State Department of Forests and Waters, Harrisburg; Emma, wife of Harry Kuhn, Williamsport, and Miss Daisy, in the Metallurgical Department, Pennsylvania State College. There survives also a brother, Daniel Rowe, Beech Creek, Mrs. Rowe, who before marriage was Miss Elizabeth Sweeney, died seven years ago. J. Samuel Rowe, who died in Centre Hall about two months ago, was a brother.

Mr. Rowe was a blacksmith by trade, conducting that business in Centre Hall many years ago. He later began general farming and on retiring from the farm located in Boalsburg. During the latter years of his life he was employed in the Penn State apple orchards during much of the year.

BOOZER.—Succumbing to illness of only three days, the death of John F. Booser, a representative citizen of Osceola Mills, on Saturday afternoon, was a distinct shock to the community in which he has resided for over forty years.

Shortly after noon on Wednesday of last week he complained of being ill, but not until Saturday morning did his condition assume a critical aspect. Death was attributed to intestinal hemorrhage. During his long period of life Mr. Booser enjoyed almost uninterrupted good health and was a man of fine physique.

Born September 10, 1855, on a farm near Centre Hall, he was aged 76 years, 7 months and 20 days, and a son of the late William and Catherine Keller Booser, well known residents of Potter township.

Mr. Booser was thrice married, all wives preceding him to the grave. His first wife was Miss Mollie Dale, of Centre Hall, to whom three children were born, one daughter surviving, namely, Daisy, wife of John Millward, of Osceola Mills. There were no children to the second wife.

On December 31, 1908, Mr. Booser and Miss Cora Cassatt, of Lock Haven, were married, her death occurring five years ago this June. An only daughter was born to this union, Miss Fay Booser, who resides at the family home. One brother, David A. Booser, of Centre Hall, also survives.

On leaving Centre Hall when a young man he located in Phillipsburg, but forty years ago opened an undertaking establishment in Osceola Mills and moved to that place.

SHEARER.—Foster M. Shearer died very suddenly at his home in Zion of a heart attack, having been ill for just a few hours. He was born in Zion and lived there all his life. He was aged 73 years. He is survived by his wife, and one son, Meri Shearer, of Cleveland. Two sisters and one brother also survive: Mrs. John Eby, of Zion; Mrs. Emma Swartz, of Pleasant Gap, and John Shearer, of Pleasant Gap, Ind. Mr. Shearer had been a member of the Lutheran church for 45 years, he was engaged in farming for a number of years but had retired.

Funeral services were held at the Lutheran church, in Zion, in charge of the Rev. Paul J. Keller; interment in the Zion cemetery.

KREAMER.—John Howard Kreamer died at his home in Harrisburg. He was aged 73 years, 6 months and 21 days and was born in Millheim where he lived many years. On locating in Harrisburg he engaged in the wholesale produce business. About fifty years ago he married Miss Alice VanOrmer, who survives with one daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) J. A. Shegar, and a grandson, all of Harrisburg. Also surviving are two sisters: Mrs. A. A. Frank, of Millheim; Mrs. Mary Cora Bowman, of Los Angeles, Calif.

FULLMER.—Mrs. Hannah Maria Fullmer, relict of the late Levi H. Fullmer, died at the Lee Kidder home in Rebersburg, of diseases incident to her advanced age,—89 years, 8 months and 9 days.

Surviving are two sons: John R. Fullmer, of Pittsburgh, and W. W. Hackman, of Rebersburg.

Interment was made in the Lutheran-Reformed cemetery, Rebersburg.

REEDER.—Mrs. Sarah Crader Reeder was born February 23, 1845, and died May 1, 1932, aged 87 years, 2 months and 8 days. She was a daughter of John and Hannah (Breen) Crader, and was born in Gregg township.

She was the last member of a family of ten children. She was united in marriage to Levi Reeder, now deceased, of Gregg township, Feb. 14, 1875. To this union three children were born—Katherine (Reeder) Zettle, deceased; Jessie, who died in infancy, leaving one son, James C. Reeder, at whose home the death occurred; also five grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Burial was made Wednesday afternoon in the Sprucetown cemetery, Rev. H. A. Fruyn officiating. Her church affiliations were long with the Evangelical church at Locust Grove.

GISEWHITE.—Ezra C. Gisewhite, aged 72 years, 2 months and 2 days, passed away at his home in Milroy, Sunday morning after an illness of seven months of heart disease.

Mr. Gisewhite was the son of Peter and Anna Broome Gisewhite, both deceased, and for the past 25 years had resided in Milroy, having been born in Centre Hall. He was the last survivor of a family of six brothers and sisters.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Sarah Jane Baumgardner before her marriage, and six sons and three daughters: Wm. William Gisewhite, Robert R. Gisewhite, Roland Gisewhite, Charles F. and Samuel C. Gisewhite, all of Milroy; Jesse L. Gisewhite, of Ferguson Valley; Mrs. Elizabeth Kauffman, of Mifflin; Mrs. Rhoda Henry, of Port Royal; Mrs. Mary Kauffman, of Belleville. Nineteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren are also living. Brief funeral services were held at the home of his son, Roland, Wednesday, followed by services in the White Memorial Congregational church in Milroy. Interment in the Woodlawn cemetery at Milroy.

STATE COLLEGE AIR PORT CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY

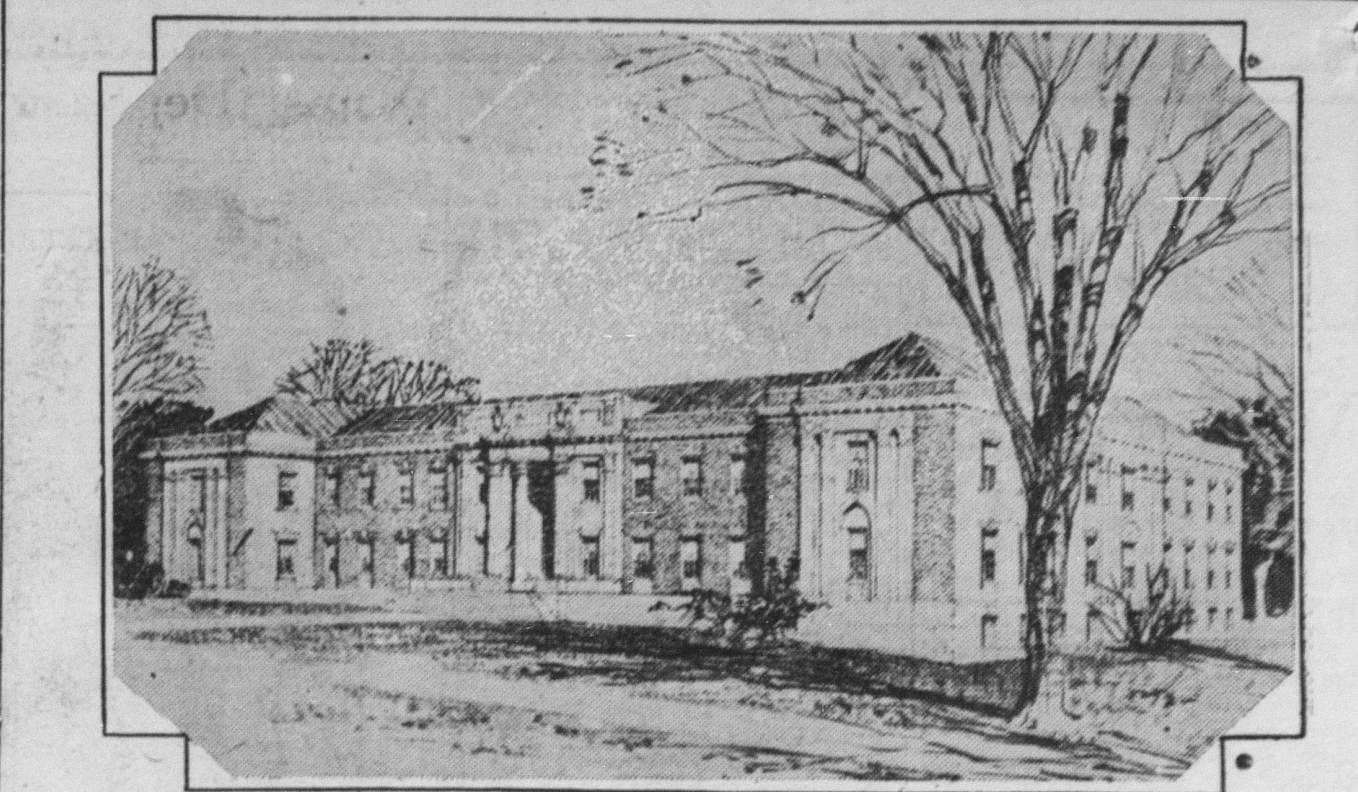

Ground was broken last week for the State College Air Depot which will be located between Boalsburg and Oak Hill on the route of the proposed improved road between Pottery Mills and Boalsburg.

The field, which will be 2,000 by 2,200 feet, will be accessible to air traffic from all directions. Aeronautical engineers, after a detailed survey, judged it one of the best sites for an airport in Central Pennsylvania. Its location at one of the highest points in this district, eliminates the danger of treacherous air and fog conditions for which this section is well known.

Grading has already begun and a hangar, fifty by sixty feet, to accommodate service planes and transient ships is to be erected. In the near future the field will be lighted. Mechanical and fueling service will be provided as well as weather information secured from the Bellefonte Department of Commerce weather bureau.

Providing the field is approved by the Pennsylvania Aeronautical commission, the air depot will be open within three weeks. Shuttle service to Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Philadelphia and New York airlines will be maintained at all times as well as cross-country service to any point desired.

A survey conducted recently revealed that a large number of Penn State students and State College residents would use a flying service. Also, almost daily, there are guests of the College, newspaper reporters, and business men who come there by auto, where they would use air transportation if it were provided.

This sketch shows the new Home Economics Building at the Pennsylvania State College which will soon be completed. The new building will provide quarters for instruction for several hundred young women students of the college who study various courses in home economics. It will cost about $400,000 fully equipped. When completed the building will be of rose brick with stone trim, facing the rebuilt Old Main near the central part of the campus and adjacent to one of the women's dormitories.

New Building Will Be Used During 1932 Summer Session

During the past year work has been provided for upwards of 400 men directly and for an unknown number indirectly, in erecting two new buildings on the campus of the Pennsylvania State College. Ground was broken for the structures, a home economics building and a new dairy building, last June, as soon as possible after Governor Pinchot made available funds appropriated by the State legislature to relieve unemployment.

Both buildings are nearing completion and will be in operation as part of the college plant in the fall, the home economics building being so nearly ready for occupancy that plans are being made for it during summer session. This building, the first adequate quarters provided for the teaching of home economics at Penn State, marks the latest development of the east side of the campus into a woman's domain. On this side of the campus are located the women's dormitories, several of their large fraternities, and their play fields.

Home economics building, the latest addition to this development, faces Old Main and the front campus. It is built of rose brick with limestone trim in the Georgian style, the same motif being carried out in the blue and gold reception room and lobby onto which the front entrance opens.

The south wing of the building, the end which extends to the right on entering, is laid out in foods and nutrition laboratories, while the north-wing, that to the left, is designed for household arts, textiles and clothing. The central wing, the building being laid out in the form of a letter E, embraces the nursery school on the ground floor, and a reading room on the second floor. Ample offices and class rooms are located throughout the building in conjunction with work rooms and laboratories.

Provisions are made in the foods and nutrition wing for practice and instruction in every class of operation from the home to the institutional kitchen, the training culminating in practice in a cafeteria large enough to care for sixty persons. The cafeteria is located on the ground floor. Similar provision for training in variety of positions is included in the north wing, that devoted to household arts, textiles and clothing. Laboratories for testing of household equipment of all sorts also are included in the north wing.

With the erection of this building the efforts of the women of Pennsylvania reach a successful conclusion after twenty-five years of effort. In 1906 the State Federation of Women's Clubs, now the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, voiced an emphatic demand for the establishment of home economics at their State college, and for its adequate provision and maintenance.

This original demand by the women of the state obtained an appropriation of $25,000 for an addition to the women's building at Penn State to be used as domestic art and science laboratories. In this small wing the home economics department has been housed ever since, although the enrollment in this course grew from ten students in 1907 to 290 for the current year. Pressure of growing classes forced laboratories into the cellar, pantry and kitchen of the women's building. Inadequate and poorly adapted quarters from which the department of home economics will move within a few weeks. The insistent demand of the women of the state for adequate quarters never ceased, and twenty-five years after their first petitions were presented to the legislature, at the annual meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, in York last October, their officers reported that the new building was being erected.

For the last twelve years the administration of the Penn State department of home economics has been in the hands of Miss Edith P. Chace, graduate of Columbia university. Her skill as a teacher and administrator is reflected in the present high standing of the department, gained despite housing conditions that were outgrown and antiquated many years ago.

Stole a Pig and Aways He Ran.

The Clinton county jail holds one, Roy Baker, 35 years old, of Mapes, charged with stealing four hogs from Mrs. Emma Salmon, of near Lock Haven. It is claimed the hogs weighed 1000 pounds, were killed in the hog pen on the Salmon farm, hauled by truck to the Baker home and there butchered. Accomplices are being sought.

Card of Thanks.

James C. Reeder and family take this method of returning thanks to neighbors and friends for kindnesses bestowed during their recent bereavement—the death of Mrs. Sarah Reeder, mother of Mr. Reeder, and Mrs. Rebecca Foust, mother of Mrs. Reeder.
