

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Frank D. Lee, of town, who had been seriously ill, is improving at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Brooks, of near town, last week, visited Mr. Brook's sister, Mrs. H. M. Ralston, and family, in Mifflinburg.

On the evening of June 19th Trinity Reformed church school will offer a Children's program entitled "Under the Open Sky."

Miss Louise Runkle and friend, Dr. Hollenbaugh, both of Shamoking, were guests of the former's cousin, Miss Laura Runkle, over Memorial Day.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the local High school ground on the 18th of June, by the Ladies' Bible class of the Reformed church school.

Misses Helen Shade and Gertrude Pruyk, of Hollidaysburg, are spending the week at the Spring Mills parsonage. Both young ladies are upper classmen in the Hollidaysburg High school.

Soybeans are being reported by a larger number of farmers each year grown as a supplementary roughage for dairy cows. While the crop is one difficult to harvest the growers are satisfied with the results.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Rossman and son Harold, Mrs. Palmer Whitley, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary Neyhart, of Mifflinburg recently visited among friends at Tusseyville. Mrs. Neyhart is prolonging her visit to relatives in Boalsburg and Centre Hall.

On Saturday evening, Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Keener entertained at a dinner party Rev. and Mrs. Fred Griesing of Aaronburg, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Snyder, of Allentown, in honor of Mrs. Griesing, who will shortly leave for California for a period of several months.

Prof. L. O. Packer of Pittsburgh, was called here last week on account of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Horace Bressler, in Danville last week. Others from here who attended the funeral on Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brooks, and the Packer children.

Wendell Smith, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Smith, of Wilkensburg, took part in a music festival presented recently by the pupils of Wilkensburg public schools, in the high school auditorium. Wendell played the castanet in the toy orchestra made up of pupils selected from grades 1 to 3.

The Viscoe plant, at Lewistown, will close tomorrow (Friday), according to a statement of the superintendent, W. W. Stalton. Present plans call for the reopening of the plant on July 5th. The Lewistown plant of the Susquehanna Silk Mill company closed last week, with no announcement of a reopening date.

F. A. Carson, merchant and justice of the peace at Potters Mills, has almost completely recovered from a malady that affected one of his hands and a foot. He at no time suffered pain and no great inconvenience.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kerlin and daughter, Miss Dorothy, a school girl, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hosterman over the week-end.

Reeder, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sharer, narrowly escaped being crushed under a culipacker, on Friday. The lad was operating the implement and in some manner was thrown from the seat forward. The heavy implement pushed him, but did not pass over his body. The team's obedience to "wool" had much to do with the accident resulting only in bruises.

The body of Orville Skinner, the well known Lewistown business man, was exhumed on Friday of last week. His death was said to have been due to a self-inflicted wound by shooting, but no close examination of the wound was made. Mrs. Skinner is suing to collect an insurance policy for $50,000, the case to be heard next week before the Federal Court in Scranton, and it is presumed the result of the findings will be given at the trial at that time.

The injury sustained by M. N. Miller, a State highway workman, on March 22nd, when he was "kicked" in his attempt to start a motor operating an air compressor, is not mending very satisfactorily. The right wrist was injured, and up to this time he is obliged to wear a "shingle." Without this support Mr. Miller suffers much pain, and, of course, is not able to perform any labor under any conditions.

Tuesday of last week the following members and friends of the Centre Hall Methodist Ladies' Aid met at the parsonage in Spring Mills: Mrs. M. E. Strohm, Mrs. Susan Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Moore, Mrs. Margaret Godshall, Mrs. C. F. Emery, Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. A. L. Emery, Mrs. C. D. Confer, Mrs. John Mowery, Miss Louise Smith, Miss Elizabeth Barcholomew, Mrs. Helen Bitner, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Jodon, Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Pruyk and family. On behalf of the society, the president, Mrs. M. E. Strohm, presented the pastor with a check for forty dollars to be applied on ministerial support. A social hour, followed by delicious refreshments, made the evening most pleasant.

When mention of the very much over-size egg produced by a Kerlin White Lehigh hen was made in these columns no one knew of the inside structure of it, but now we do. Much handling cracked the shell, and when this was removed, a perfectly shaped and normal size egg was revealed. The substance between the two shells was all yolk. The egg may be incubated, with the thought that perhaps a super egg-producing hen may be discovered.

Carl Wharton, of Mount Union, driving a new Chevrolet car, was sideswiped by a car at the watering trough on Nittany Mountain on Saturday. The car was brought to the Miller garage for repairs. Mr. Wharton is an insurance salesman, having been the agent who sold W. W. Kerlin insurance on the Packard badly damaged in a collision beginning of April at the Triangle, on the Bald Eagle Trail. He was accompanied by a cousin, booked to graduate from "Pitt" this week.

H. E. Shadle, founder and sole owner of Mt. Vernon Farms, Beech Hill, W. Va., is materially expanding in the manufacture of products on the 1400-acre farm, once the property of George Washington, the first president of the United States. The manor house is an exact replica of the Virginia mansion of Washington. The large and varied production of Mt. Vernon Farms necessitated the establishment of a regular retail and wholesale delivery service maintained with a fleet of enclosed body trucks and the erection of a large distributing plant in Charleston, W. Va. The products of the farm range from thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, a large variety of milk products, including ice cream, poultry, eggs, etc. A booklet covering a description of the farm, pictures of the mansion, prize studs and cattle, description of the manner of handling milk, delivery service, etc., has been issued.

Large classes will necessitate a change in the schedule of the Latin, advanced Algebra and Chemistry courses next year. In order to retain the same number of elective courses and the "six-period one-hour" schedule.

Mr. Wetzel announced that Latin I and Latin II will be given in alternate years. Chemistry and advanced Algebra will be divided into two sections each.

There will also be a change in the health program.

The first in the procession were a number of lower grade pupils who afterwards danced around the May-pole. Next came a number of E. P. V. H. S. girls in Dutch costume, who danced in

East Penns Valley Crotons May Queen in Spring Fete

E. P. V. H. S. held a May Day Fete on the East Penn Athletic field, Friday, May 20, at which time the May Queen, Alberta Eglsdorf, was crowned. Miss Eglsdorf is an E. P. V. Senior, but her home is now in Pittsburgh.

The queen wore a white lace dress, and a small girl, dressed in yellow, carried a white net train.

Those taking part in the activities marched from the gymnasium to the queen's throne which was decorated with pine and spruce.

The first in the procession were a number of lower grade pupils who afterwards danced around the May-pole. Next came a number of E. P. V. H. S. girls in Dutch costume, who danced in the court before the queen. Following these came a Gypsy man and his maiden who were dressed in gypsy colors. The man afterwards played a guitar and sang "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart."

There was also a short play in which Zula Kerstetter was "Cinderella" at the ball.

The queen was crowned by Paul Shreckengast, who played the part of the Prime Minister. He was garbed in a long black coat and a high silk hat.

The queen was attended by six girls who were dressed in the pastel colors of organdie.

After a chorus of boys and girls sang songs to the queen, the May-pole dance was given.

Then the bugler made way for the recessional to the school building, this time the queen leading.
