It speaks well for the temper of the American people and their confidence in their institutions of government, such, for instance, as the electoral system, that one of the most strenuously contested elections in our national history should be conducted without any reports of violence. And this temper prevails at a time when there are ten or more millions of idle men tramping streets. The contrast between the way in which an American voter of today faces a national election is marked when we compare the situation here with the continued violence in the German campaign. In which almost every campaign rally or parade results in injury or death to battling partisans.

THE WHOLE NATION WILL BE LISTENING

The National Grange annual session at Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and the session to be broadcasted is at 12:30 Eastern Standard time on Saturday, November 12. The features put on the air at that time will include brief, snappy addresses by several well-known Grange leaders; the introduction of resolutions and their reference; entertainment numbers and encores; and concise summaries of the year's work in several of the important departments of the National Grange. The hook-up will be made through the National Broadcasting Company and will be one of the most complete that has ever been arranged, including practically all the prominent broadcasting stations in the country. The plan of broadcasting one of its sessions was adopted by the National Grange several years ago and a remarkably strong program is always arranged for such an hour. In addition to the Grange people, several million others are privileged to hear the Grange program, and about every rural radio in the United States will be tuned in for the November 12th broadcast.

DEATHS.

HOMAN.—After an illness extending over a period of several months, George E. Homan passed away at the Geisinger hospital, Friday of last week, after receiving treatment at that institution since Tuesday previous. Attempts to alleviate pain only were resorted to at the hospital, the case having been one for which it was felt there was no cure. Death was due to carcinoma of the thyroid, a cancer tumor. Funeral services were held from the home of the deceased in Millheim on Monday afternoon; interment in the cemetery nearby. Rev. Griesing officiated at the funeral services. The deceased was aged 60 years, 1 month and 5 days. He was a son of Howard Homan, now living in California, and was born in Aaronsburg. He was a dealer in Millheim for a number of years, but for the past ten years was a guard at the Western Penitentiary at Rockview, and resigned but a few days before his death, although incapacitated from services for several months. Guards acted as pallbearers, and others attended the funeral as a mark of honor. Lizzie Relsh Homan is the bereaved widow of the deceased, and a son, John Homan, at home also survives the father.

Friday evening he ate supper and was in good spirits. Suddenly he collapsed, dying immediately. Death was due to coronary occlusion, a form of heart disease which occurs without warning. Mr. Kontz was the pastor of the Grace Evangelical church of Lewistown during the years in which the new church building at the corner of Spruce street and Logan street was being erected. Several years ago he was transferred by the conference of his church to the Newport Evangelical church, where he has been the pastor ever since. Economic situations have been bettered; social conditions have been greatly altered and, on the whole, great progress has been made along all lines. Orphans are now fed and schooled, lepers are becoming healed, the aged are finding a place of refuge, new light comes into lives through Christ.

Ward Fleming in the Centre county court to serve a term of nine months in the county jail, pay a fine of one dollar and the costs of prosecution.
