83 CENTRE CO. PATIENTS IN DANVILLE HOSPITAL

The Danville State Hospital for Mental Diseases is caring for eighty-three patients from Centre county, it was announced a few days ago.

Patients in the hospital hall from 31 of the 67 counties of the State, although the hospital district comprises but twelve counties.

The county which has the largest number of patients in the institution is Northumberland, with 340. Next is Lycoming, with 252, and Carbon, with 174.

The coal regions are heavy contributors to the population of the mental hospital in addition to Carbon and Northumberland counties' heavy quotas. Luzerne county has 127 and Lackawanna county 32 patients in the hospital.

Most of the patients are the charges of the county or township authorities through which they were committed to the institution, but a number are private or semi-private patients, maintained in the hospital by families or relatives.

In the last days of his office President Hoover signed a bill in which 2,000 obsolete laws are wiped off the statute books. Farmers, producers of raw materials, manufacturers and merchants should be reminded that this omnibus repealer does not include the ancient economic law of supply and demand.

AUTO STRIKES MRS. HAFFLEY; DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Amanda Haffley, wife of J. Z. Haffley, Aaronsburg, was struck by a car as she was crossing the street to her home and was almost instantly killed. The Centre County hospital ambulance was called for and a quick response was made. On the way to Centre Hall the nurse in charge discovered the patient was dead. Dr. Light was called to make an examination and issue a death certificate, after which the body was taken to the Goodhart morgue. Death occurred at 10:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Haffley and her husband had attended services in the Reformed church and on the way home had passed between parked cars. Mr. Haffley advised his wife to wait until an approaching car had passed, but she failed to heed the warning. She was struck by the right fender and was thrown a considerable distance, sustaining a skull and brain injury, a broken leg, and numerous bruises.

On Monday, Coroner Heaton held an inquest, the verdict having been in effect that both the driver of the car, R. A. Lehev, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Haffley were equally responsible. In other words, it is an open case—one that only a court jury could decide whether or not the driver of the car was responsible for the death. It appears the husband and son are not inclined to prosecute the case.

Amanda Elizabeth Haffley was the wife of J. Z. Haffley, and a daughter of William and Mary Stoyer Herman. She was born in Missouri, and was aged 57 years, 4 months and 18 days. The husband and two children—Howard and Catharine—survive her. Mrs. Harry Weaver, of Altoona, formerly of Centre Hall, is a sister.

Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning at 10:00 o'clock; services in the church, and interment in nearby cemetery.
