CONGRESSMAN BECK WOULD DIVIDE NATION INTO THREE OR FOUR GROUPS OF STATES

Asserting the present generation is witnessing the "death agonies" of the constitution, Representative James M. Beck, noted constitutional lawyer and representative in Congress, from Philadelphia, proposes drastic revision of that document.

The present division of the nation into 48 states is "highly artificial," and results in "palpably unjust distribution of political power," he told the Manufacturers and Bankers club in Philadelphia a few days ago.

Beck proposed a division of the nation into "three or four groups of states, whose economic interests would be the same and with a common bond of central government to carry out the original objectives of the constitution."

Contending that the administration program discriminates against the city dweller in favor of the farmer, Beck asserted "it is an incontestable fact that in recent years 'the wealth of the industrial states has been slowly divested to support mendicant agricultural states which take from the public treasury more than they contribute.'"

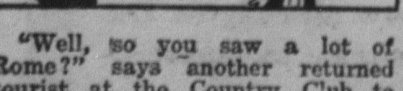

Burglars broke into the Loganton post office Sunday night, but failed to get either money or stamps. The safe was ruined but the doors held. A. D. Kerstetter is the postmaster.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

MOST of the tourists are back now. The snapshots have been handed around until they are getting a bit dirty already. The romances that the staid old fellows had on the ships have begun to look kinda phoney, even to them.

But they still keep on telling about their adventures in foreign fields to anybody that will listen. There was a good-for-nothing guy from Michigan that was telling how much he enjoyed Italy on such a little bit of money. He was traveling with some friends of his family, he said, and it was awful easy to get along.

"Well, so you saw a lot of Rome?" says another returned tourist at the Country Club to him. "And did you get anything out of Florence?"

"No, I can't say that I did. But her sister, Fannie, the blonde one, came across with a hundred bucks when I told her I'd have to leave the party and go to work in a restaurant."

DEATHS.

RIEHEL—Mary Bell, wife of A. M. Riehel, died at her home in Centre Hall, Monday afternoon at two o'clock, after an illness of four weeks. Had she lived until next Tuesday she would have been seventy-two years of age.

Deceased was a resident of Salona until five years ago, when she and her husband moved to Centre Hall.

She was a daughter of the late James Thompson, of Salona. Mrs. Riehel was a member of the Lutheran church of Centre Hall; also, of the Centre Hall Chapter of the Eastern Star. A woman of gracious charm and kindly nature, she attracted friends and preserved friendships.

She leaves to mourn, her husband, A. M. Riehel; one son, Sidney T. Riehel, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. H. M. Taylor, of Salona, and Mrs. Paul Seyler, of Avis. J. R. Thompson, of Salona; Thomas Thompson, of Lock Haven; Mrs. Ellie Burrell of Salona, and Mrs. Thompson Maddox, of Philadelphia, are surviving brothers and sisters of the deceased.

Funeral services will be held at the home this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, in charge of her pastor, Rev. S. F. Greenhoe. The funeral cortege will then proceed to Cedar Hill cemetery, near Salona, where interment will be made.

WILL PA. MILK PRODUCERS SHARE IN N. Y. PRICE BOOST

Will Pennsylvania farmers in the New York milk shed share in the boost in milk prices brought about by the New York State Milk Control Board? That is the question agitating farmers about here. The board says that after the 15th of May milk producers in New York State will receive four cents a quart, or $1.88 for 100 pounds of Class 1 fluid milk.

Grade B milk is divided into Class 1, bottled milk; Class 2, cream, Class 3, evaporated milk, and Class 4, butter and cheese. Milk shipped from about here enters into all of the classes under Grade B. To what extent local producers will profit, if any at all, by the ruling of the New York Milk Board remains to be seen. One thing is certain, they will not reap the $1.88 per 100 lbs.

Milk prices did the unusual thing in April when the price advanced over that of March, and an advance in price for May over April is again contrary to the rule but it will no doubt happen. The reports in the New York papers indicate the boost will apply only to milk produced in New York State. Let us hope Pennsylvania producers will at least share to some extent in the rise.

Another question arises: Is the Milk Control Board able to enforce its rules as to prices? Some of the leading shippers think it is not. The Dairy-men's League, in its news items and editorials, question the ability of the Milk Control Board to enforce its rulings unless, at least, it obtains the united support and cooperation of the entire milk industry.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

M. Rossman Wert, of Philadelphia, is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wert, near Tusseyville.

W. L. Jacobs, in company with Dr. J. C. Newcomb, Bellefonte, pharmacist, spent a few days in Philadelphia. While in the city he spoke to Willis Hollis, the only gentleman of color who claims Centre Hall as the home of his youth.

A Centre county welfare conference has been called for Friday, May 26, to meet at the Pennsylvania State College. The meeting is sponsored by the Pa. Department of Welfare, the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, and the college.

The Centre County Wool growers association is planning to ask for bids on the Centre County wools about the last of this month. Providing satisfactory bids are made and accepted by the association, the wool will be sold around the first week in June.

Three cows belonging to Roy M. Garbrick were killed by the train running east Saturday morning. The animals were grazing at the Wells crossing, a few miles west of Centre Hall, and when the train approached they became frightened and ran onto the track.

Beginning of this week close to fifty percent of the oats acreage in this section had not yet been sown. Very little field work was done last week. A full week of fair weather will be needed to put in the remainder of the oats crop before work on the corn crop can be tackled in earnest.

On Monday, twenty-seven applicants received their permits to operate an automobile, at the examination held in Bellefonte. The new drivers on the south side of the county include Mahel Long, Madisonburg; Donald Col-dron, Centre Hall; Jane McGilvey, Roy Henninger, Robert Lewis, Ruth Linn, Margaret Jackson, State College; Bernard Brooks, Lemont.

The highest court of the land reversed the finding of a lower court in the case of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., accused of failing to report what he did with a contribution of $65,000 made by E. C. Jamison, a wealthy New Yorker, in his activities against Alfred E. Smith when a candidate for President. The decision means that the Bishop will be tried for violating Federal election laws.

J. V. Brungart, of Rebersburg, who represents the south side of Centre county on the board of county commissioners, on his way to Bellefonte with Mrs. Brungart, on Monday morning, stopped with the Reporter for a brief visit. Damages caused by State road construction appear to be one of the vexing problems the board has to contend with at the present time, and it is a problem.

Historical Facts

[Under this head will appear one or more historical facts of local interest, to a large extent taken from Linn's History of Centre and Clinton counties, designated for reference as L. H., the figures following indicating page. The "Notes," if any, are those of the editor.]

General Potter made his first improvement at the spring a little north of where the "Old Fort Hotel" now stands in Potter township, where he built a log house, which was fortified in 1777, and known as the Upper Fort in Penna Valley.

The log house was built in the spring of 1774 by General Potter after leaving New Columbia in Union county, where he improved the John Potter warrant tract—L. H., page 402.

General Potter, in 1778, erected the first house and the mills at Poters Mills.

Note: The location of these properties is not definitely known. Of course, the mill would be along the stream.

General Potter was injured at a barn raising on what is known as the Foster farm, east of the Old Fort, in the fall of 1782, and went to Franklin county for the benefit of his health on Dr. McClellan's advice, and died there the latter part of 1782—L. H., page 403.

Note: The "Foster" farm may have been the present C. T. Crust farm, east of Old Fort the Tibben Zudler farm on the hill west of Spring Mills, or the Frazier farm along Sinking Creek.

The fourth annual Junior oratorical contest, East Penna Valley High school, was held Friday evening. The attendance was large and the young people in the contest acquitted themselves well. While but one could win the prize, it may be said others were entitled mention for merit. The winner will not be made known until the evening of the graduating exercises of the 1933 class. The prize is offered by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Miller, and the judges were Mrs. Abbott, principal of Miles township High school; Miss Tschudy, of Gregg Township Vocational school, and Miss Ditzler, of the Laurelton High school.

Mifflin county residents coming this way make mention in an emphatic manner that smoke may be seen curling from the high stacks at the Barnham and Logan plants, near Lewis-town. One enthusiast from the adjoining county who feared the statement might be mistrusted, offered to prove it by permitting his auditors to smelt his clothing which he declared carried undisputable evidence. His word was accepted.

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich. May 9, 1933

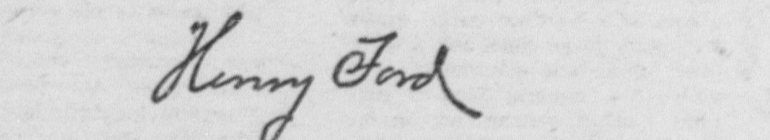

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

Young, of Gregg township, surgical; Richard Malone, 5, of Spring township, surgical; Mrs. Geo. Neff, of Harris township; Tevala Burris, of Spring township, surgical; Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, of State College, surgical; Mrs. Adeline Wilkins, State College, surgical; Teresa Andrews, of Centre Hall, surgical; Alfred Shingledecker, of Brookville, surgical; Mrs. Clara Switzer, of Bellefonte, medical; John Conaghan, of Bellefonte, surgical. Discharged: Mrs. Annie Miller, of Spring township; Ethel Beaver, of Centre township; Esther Heaton, of Milesburg; Mrs. Sarah Miller, of State College; Mrs. Harvey Balsor, of State College; Kenneth Steel, State College. Births: A son, to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Parker, of State College, on Wednesday.

Deaths: Harry Garner, of State College, a surgical patient, was admitted on Saturday and died several hours later.

The State College Times celebrated its 35th anniversary last week. The editors think it has filled its proper niche in the newspaper world, and no doubt its readers agree with them.

REBERSBURG 4H PIG FEEDING CLUB

The Rebersburg 4H pig feeding club met at the home of Harold Brungart, club leader, Thursday evening of last week. Albert Brungart was elected president of the organization for the coming year. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Woodrow Myers; secretary-treasurer, Harold Esterline; reporter, Mahlon Cummings. The club has been organized through the assistance of County Agent R. C. Blaney and A. E. Bingham, assistant club leader at State College. Each member purchased a Berkshire barrow which he will feed out during the summer. Plans are under way to hold the round-up at Centre Hall Fair, following which the pigs will be sold. The club after meeting Thursday evening decided to hold regular meetings during the summer and expect to plan to hold a number of educational features as well as social activities in connection with their program. Other members of the organization are Roland Esterline, Randy Ertie, Kermit Stover and Malcolm Brungart.

The Reporter erred, through no fault of its own, in reporting Mrs. Blanche Cramer, of State College, having died at the Centre County hospital, when in fact her condition at the time was most favorable for a complete recovery after having submitted to an operation. The Reporter regrets the embarrassing misstatement.
