JURY COMMISSIONER.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of J. C. Condo, of Gregg Township, for the Democratic nomination for the office of Jury Commissioner at the Primary Election to be held September 13, 1933, subject to the rules and customs of said party.

W. P. Fetterof, the Madisonburg lumberman, has about completed cutting timber on the Alexander and Royer tracts, parts of the Old Fort woods, and from there will move his mill to the Wm. F. Fetterof timber tract, a part of his farm along the Brush Valley road east of town. The Old Fort woods has been long desired by lumbermen, and in times past almost fabulous prices had been offered for the sturdy oaks in it, but the owners were always able to withstand the tempting offers. The timber is now being parted with for the reason that the trees are beginning to show lack of vigor and growth, and soon would begin to decline.

The repeal of the measure guaranteeing payment of U. S. bonds in gold eliminates only a guarantee the Government never fulfilled. Bonds issued hereafter will at least be void of false promises, and at the same time be as good as gold.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

THEY got so much electric stuff in the modern houses now that life is a lot easier to live. All the work just does itself by electricity, and then there's the radio. But I heard about a guy that had a general short-circuit in his house not long ago. He'd been entertaining some folks, but they'd all gone to sleep on their chairs after the third cocktail, and the host woke up when he heard an awful noise. He ran out in the street and hollered for a cop.

"Say, officer," he says, "come up to my apartment quick! They's something wrong with the wires or the static or something!"

"How do you know?" "Well, the vacuum sweeper is going around the living room singing alto, and the radio is all red hot on top and the refrigerator has burned up the meat in it. The sewing machine is telling a bedtime story, and Dr. Cadman is talking over the electric fan! You better come in before the electric iron gets to cracking jokes with my guests!" DEATHS.

HARTER.—Thomas H. Harter died in Bellefonte on Wednesday morning after a brief illness which followed a fall on a stairway at his home ten days previous. He was aged 79 years. He was born in Aaronsburg and when in his teens came to Centre Hall where for a number of years he was a compositor on the Centre Reporter, then edited by his uncle, the late Frederick Kurtz. Later he purchased a newspaper in Ohio, and afterward the Middleburg Post. The Keystone Gazette was taken over by him from the founder, James A. Fieder. This venture proved profitable and led to the appointment of Mr. Harter to the postmastership at Bellefonte, as it had for its first editor.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

At the June 4th, 9 a. m. church service, in the Reformed church, Centre Hall, a male quartet from Altoona will render several selections.

Roy Swabb, of Erie, a nephew of James W. Swabb, was among friends in town for a few days this week. Mr. Swabb is a son of John Swabb and is engaged as a mechanic in locomotive works in Erie.

Mrs. Ella Irey and Miss Scotch, of Danville, are now located in Aaronsburg where they will remain for the summer. As soon as the Danville schools close, the Philip Irey family will join the mother at the old home for the summer vacation.

The death of Charles Rowland in Chicago, on Monday, called to that city Mrs. J. M. Kirkpatrick and Miss Grace White, traveling by auto, and Thomas and Hubert Haugh, of State College, by train. Mrs. Kirkpatrick and the Haughs are niece and nephews respectively of the deceased.

Mrs. Charles Cass, of Marysville, was a recent visitor in Millheim. It will be recalled that Mr. Cass, now deceased, was long employed by the Hosterman-Stover Company. Other visitors at the same place were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheffer, of Watsonstown. Mr. Sheffer is the well-known Dewart ice cream manufacturer. He is convinced the present National administration is on the right track for recovery of business, his own already feeling the influence of it.

COFFEE NOT ALL COLOMBIA PRODUCES

A busy country is our nearest South American neighbor, the republic of Colombia, which has been but lightly touched by the world-wide depression.

Her leading product is coffee, in the production of which this thriving nation ranks second in the world market and first in the exportation of the flavorsome "high altitude" grades. According to figures recently submitted to the United States Commerce Department's Foodstuff's Division, there are almost 1,000 coffee trees per square mile of territory in Colombia while Brazil ranks second with 810 trees per square mile and Venezuela, the third largest South American coffee producer, raises an average of 303 trees per square mile.

In addition to cultivating a total of some 453,000,000 coffee trees, Colombia's 8 million industrious people manage to produce more gold than any country in South America and more platinum than any country in the world, excepting only Russia.

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users. We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience. We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.
