MILLHEIM GOES DOWN FOR THE COUNT; SCORE, 1-0

In a game that scintillated with brilliant plays and clever pitching, Centre Hall got sweet revenge on Millheim for their recent shut-out by administering a coat of white-wash on the strong Millheim sticklers in a 7-inning game Thursday evening, at Centre Hall, score, 1-0.

For Centre Hall, Bradford, in the first inning, singled; Crawford struck out; Bradford stole second, and on Stover's slam through Peely Musser, Bradford scored. Emery got a single, and P. Martz a base on balls. With the bases loaded, Knarr struck out. This was all so far as scoring was concerned, for Jamison for the locals and Cable for Millheim, settled down to a pitcher's duel, in which Jamison outshone his rival by a wide margin, allowing but two hits and striking out five. True, he was saved by some smart fielding by Jack Bradford, who took in a wicked drive from Wagner's bat, in the fourth; and by Emery, who in the last frame raced back in center to capture Cable's bid for a home run, which would have tied the score.

Emery likewise gathered in Aumiller's eye-looking drive in the fourth. Incidentally, Millheim did little at the bunting game with the alert "Doc" Crawford on third base. Only one error, by Musser, marred an otherwise perfect game. It is doubtful whether the fans will witness a smoother game than this one all season.

It passed into the hands of Booser & Gilliland. Col. Reuben Keller, of Snyder county, was a merchant there in 1861.

As early as 1801 Christopher Henney kept a tavern at Centre Hill.

Burials were made in the Centre Hill cemetery as early as 1801.—L. H., 411. Stephen Smith was the first tavern keeper at Old Fort. This was after the Revolutionary war. The tavern was the log building at the spring.

J. and J. Potter built the present stone tavern at Old Fort in 1825. In front of the hotel were racing grounds, and it was much frequented by sportsmen and much money changed hands there.—L. H., 411.
