VAN DYKE AIMS TO GET VOTE ON TAX AMENDMENT

A court test to determine whether Pennsylvania's electorate may vote on a constitutional amendment for a graduated income tax at the November election is assured by Warren Van Dyke, Democratic State chairman.

Van Dyke said the Democratic State committee will contest an opinion of former Attorney General Wm. I. Schaffer that a resolution passed by the Legislature in 1917 and 1919 cannot be submitted to the voters. The vote was to have been taken at the 1919 general election but none was held.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

RUSSIAN kids learn Russian easy enough. They must be awful smart kids. Even a grown-up American can't learn it, and I've always thought Americans were about the smartest folks in the world.

There was an American oil man that was planning to go over to Russia to get away from a subpoena or to look for oil or something, so he hired a professor from the University of Chicago to teach him Russian. He got the prof to live in his house, and he told him he should talk Russian to him as much as possible.

So the professor was having dinner with the family. All the time he was trying to give the oil man his money's worth by saying things in Russian. When he picked up his fork he named it in Russian, and had the oil man pronounce it after him, and the same way with the knife and the peas and the soup.

Finally, while the professor was talking and eating at the same time, he put something in his mouth and just naturally exploded. Some of the food hit the picture of George Washington at the other end of the dining room, and the whole family started to wipe their faces with their napkins.

"Now, is that the Russian word for something, really, prof?" says the oil man. "I'm awful afraid I'll never learn to pronounce that one."

The professor took a swallow of water, and then he says, "No, that was just the horseradish. It's a lot stronger than I thought."

Henry Ford Dearborn, Mich. June 5, 1933 LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high. But we do sell a high quality car at a low price. Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference. The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy. But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years. Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality: 1. Volume Production 2. Taking only one profit First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales. Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy. There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car. Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy. Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one. It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it. Henry Ford
