The post holding the weather vane on the Lutheran church steeple is much out of plumb and is threatening to topple over. Other than repainting, this is the first repair work called for in the almost fifty years of its existence.

That Providence surely cares for the kiddies can easily be believed when one recalls the many escapes from injuries and evils threatened. This belief is further proven by an incident happening a short time ago on the Jacob Sharer, Jr., farm, east of town, when June Esther, eighteen months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, tenants on the Sharer farm, wandered from the house to the barn and in her investigations stepped on to a loose board and fell from the barn floor to the floor below, escaping with a mere scratch as a reminder of the happening.

Messrs. D. C. Mitterling, Harold H. Keller and William Bradford returned from Chicago on Sunday evening after having had a delightful visit at the Century of Progress Exposition. The party left Centre Hall at 4:00 o'clock Monday morning and arrived in Chicago at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Eastern Standard time, or sixteen hours later. They calculate one hour was consumed in stops for breakfast, dinner, gas and oil, etc., making the actual driving time to cover the 630 miles fifteen hours, or an average speed of forty-two miles per hour.

Wheat stubble fields show an abundance of evidence of young grass and clover, the making of a good hay crop next year, provided it is not destroyed by hard pasturing between now and fall. While as a rule the hay crop through this section was much below the average this year, there are many barns well filled with choice hay at this time. Nearly all the hay was cut and housed under favorable weather conditions which contribute much to the feeding value of it.

The farm barn at Snow Shoe on the James Uzzle place is said to be the most sporty in appearance of all structures of its kind in that section. Although built from material formerly used, it is the finishing given it by a power painting machine that put it to the front in appearance. CHECK GAINS DEPEND ON PROTEIN SOURCES

The first six weeks are important in the life of the chick. It is during this period that it gets its real start in life. Poultrymen used to be satisfied with a development of around two-thirds of a pound during the first forty to forty-five days after hatching.

Science, however, has been gradually edging up the handicap for the greater profit of poultry owners. Now, by the proper blending of protein sources, by the proportioning of nutrients from various field crops and concentrates, chicks can be made to average more than a pound in six weeks' time and can be raised to that weight at a cost less than was formerly paid for lighter-weight birds.

"It is all in the rate of gain that a chick can draw out of its feed," say the feeding experts of the research staff of Purina Mills. Careful tests, conducted on many thousands of chicks on their own practical poultry farm, make it possible for these experts to assure poultrymen that similar results can be theirs under proper conditions of feeding and management. A typical growth chart from their files shows chicks of the same parentage and fed rations of the same chemical analysis varying widely in weight at the end of the first six weeks feeding period. With all conditions the same, except the proportioning of proteins within the feeds themselves, the best feed showed as much as 75 per cent weight advantage over the ordinary ration constructed on the old principles of mixing according to chemical analysis.

The proper rate of gain today is no longer two-thirds of a pound at six weeks of age, but one and one-tenth pounds or better. Poultry owners who can show such development in their chicks can face the important year of 1933 with more confidence that theirs will be a profitable season. The differences are due to the fact that each protein unit, considered as a building stone, is present in the right amount so that the chick's body can construct new tissues more effectively than if furnished too much of some materials and not enough of others.
