TRUCK OWNERS HAULING FOR PROFIT MUST GET PERMIT

Persons using trucks for hauling for profit, in a small or large way, should at once get in touch with the State Public Service Commission, Harrisburg, and secure a permit to do so. Not since January 1st, 1914, has anyone had a legal right to engage in trucking for profit without the approval of that body, but from that time until now no effort was made to enforce the law. Sept. 15th was set as the dead line for toleration; now the law is to be enforced. The law applies to all common carriers of persons or property in Pennsylvania, and includes the following: 1. Local and long distance draymen transporting property in any municipality or between any points in Pennsylvania. 2. Movers of household furnishings. 3. Truckers of road and building material for any contractor desiring the service. 4. Truckers of milk or farm produce and supplies, who carry for any persons along a route or in a fixed territory. 5. Truckers of coal or other commodities to consumers for hire. 6. All persons who transport any kind of property for profit if their service is available to any persons who will meet their terms. This applies whether they operate on regular routes or by special arrangements for each trip, and whether or not the transportation is under contracts.

Persons who confine their trucking to the following extent are not common carriers and do not require the (Continued foot of next col.)

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS THESE modern college girls ain't afraid of anybody. Especially, I understand, they ain't afraid of their teachers. Well there was a girl that wanted to get out of going to classes for a couple of weeks, and she went to the president of the little college she was going to, and says, "Saw, I gotta get away for two weeks. I have a letter from my mother, and she says I have to go home and take care of her while she gets over the grip."

"Well," says the prexy, "I guess I got you there. I got later news. I got a letter right here in my desk from your mother, telling me to keep you in school at any cost." The girl was a little bit puzzled. "You're a better liar than I am, I reckon, and you win," she says. "I ain't got any mother, and haven't had any since I was two."

Charles Thomas Reed, charged with breaking into and robbing the camp of A. C. Heverly, on Spring creek, plead guilty and was placed on probation for three years.

All the jurors were discharged on Wednesday afternoon.

You have only the remainder of this month for the second and last car inspection for the year. It is necessary from two standpoints—first, it is fulfillment of the law, and second, at this season of the year brakes play a more important part in safe driving than during the summer season.

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

CULL POOR PRODUCERS—Many dairy farmers are culling from their herds all cows with an average yearly production of 250 pounds or less of butterfat. Culling out these animals saves high-priced feed and prevents them from eating up the profits made by their efficient stable-mates.

SAVE GOOD GARDEN SEEDS—Gardeners who save their own seeds should consider the whole plant from which selection is made instead of individual specimens. Seed should be saved from only the best. Store the seed in a dry place protected from rodents.

REDUCE POULTRY LOSSES—Darkening the nests, removing the lighting boards from the front of the nests, and raising the mash hoppers and feeders higher from the roof have helped considerably in reducing losses caused by "pick-outs" in poultry flocks.

RECORDS TELL STORY—Use of budgets and accounts helps the homemaker to know where the dollars and cents go. Planned spending is an aid in carefully weighing the differences between needs and desires.

HARVEST AND STORE ONIONS—After most of the tops have broken down the onions can be pulled and dried in a well-ventilated place. As soon as dry the tops can be cut off about one inch from the bulbs. The bulbs are then ready for storage in crates in a dry, cool place.

STUDY TURKEY BREEDERS—Records kept at the Pennsylvania State College show that pullets used as breeding turkeys lay more eggs and hatch more poults per breeder than 2-year-old hens. The hens lay larger eggs than the pullets. There are no consistent differences in fertility or hatchability of eggs or in mortality among the poults hatched from these eggs.

Rev. T. K. Fink, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, St. Petersburg, Fla., pastor of the church attended by Mr. and Mrs. Kerlin when at their Florida winter home, also Mrs. Fink and daughter, were seriously injured in an automobile accident while on a trip north. They are now in a hospital in Bowling Green, Ky.

DEATHS.

KUNES.—Struck three weeks ago by a distant relative's automobile while crossing a street, Franklin A. Kunes, 76, of Beech Creek, died on Sunday of complications resulting from a fractured skull.

The driver, Karl Kunes, of Blanchard, was taking home his son, Blaine Kunes, third baseman for the Elmira club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, who had broken his wrist.

Miss Marguerite Adams DeHaas died at the Centre County hospital, Wednesday morning of last week following a several months' illness with acute leukemia. She was born in Cleveland, Ohio, 32 years ago. On April 28, 1924, she was united in marriage with Bosart DeHaas who survives with two sons, Thomas and Joseph. One sister, Mrs. Ethel Kasimir, formerly of California, also survives.

Burial was made in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte, on Saturday. Services by her pastor, Rev. C. E. Arnold, of the Lutheran church.

Lieut. Robert S. Sink, commanding officer at Camp Alan Seeger, No. 62, has been promoted from a second to a first lieutenant. He is a resident of Lexington, N. C., and a West Point graduate, class of '27.

NRA VICTORY PARADE TO BE HELD IN ALTOONA, SEPT. 26

Altoona is preparing to hold a mammoth NRA Victory Parade Tuesday evening, September 26, which is expected to be the largest and most elaborate pageant of its kind ever held in Central Pennsylvania.

A committee appointed by Mayor J. J. McMurray has been working on the details for several weeks and as now planned the Parade will start promptly at 6 o'clock and traverse a large section of the city, including the business district, ending at the Cricket Field, Chestnut Avenue and Seventh Street, where appropriate exercises will be held.

Invitations have been extended to all civic, military and other organizations, including all lines of industry, and the responses already made indicate that thousands of marchers will be in line. It is expected that the Division composed of the employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad will alone embrace many thousands of marchers. Other industries of various kinds will be represented by their employes in marching order, as well as by many beautiful floats.

An unlimited number of bands and many other musical organizations have volunteered their services so that there will be plenty of music to enliven the line of march.

According to the plans of the committee and preparations that have been made, this Altoona NRA Parade will, without doubt, be the greatest spectacle of its kind ever held in this section and Altoona invites all citizens throughout Central Pennsylvania to come and view it.

In connection with the Altoona NRA Parade, the Altoona Booster Merchants have arranged for a great merchandising event for Wednesday, Sept. 27th, as mentioned in their advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue. All are invited to come and share in the many money-saving opportunities that will be offered for the one day.

The event has been planned as one means to insure the success of the National Recovery Act by encouraging people to buy as much as possible of their fall and winter needs now and thus help merchants unload their shelves and enable them to place additional orders with manufacturers.

Advertisement for Chevrolet featuring a camel and a man. Text: "Take the word of a 'Man about Gobi'". "Next to a Camel Chevrolet gives most miles per gallon". "No argument about the camel. When it comes to miles per gallon, there's nothing in all the Gobi desert—or Sahara—or anywhere else—that can beat him. No argument about Chevrolet, either. It's the most economical form of full-size transportation on wheels. You can travel a long, long way in a Chevrolet Six without a single stop for gas or oil. In fact, you can get more miles out of a gallon of gas in a Chevrolet, than you can get in any other full-size car. The best proof of this is the way Chevrolet is being preferred by leading national business firms. These firms know their mileage figures. And today, Chevrolet is their first choice by an overwhelming count. Chevrolet is also first choice of the American public by the widest margin in history.
