If it is true that Mrs. Roosevelt, "Our First Lady of the Land," likes Old Nittany Mountain as well as she is credited with doing, she passed over it a second time one night last week on a run from Chicago to Wilkes-Barre.

Fred Slack purchased a silo, formerly on the the Snaveley farm, and erected it close to one put up by him some years ago. Mr. Slack is a cattle breeder and milk producer and concluded enlarge the best of feeds for his purpose.

Miss Alice Burkholder, a student in nursing at the Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia, was at the parental home during a brief vacation just closed. She is now entering her second year in training. She is much pleased with her work, which alone indicates she is capable and progressing.

The work, including taking down of the more than four hundred tents, folding them up carefully and storing them; stacking as many tent floors, tables, bunks; removing and storing approximately two thousand tent stakes, and many, many tent pegs; truck loads of rubbish, etc., was completed Saturday morning. A. H. Spayd, superintendent of the grounds, supervised the work.

The H. W. Potter farm, west of Centre Hall, will be tenanted next spring by Walter Jacobs, now living on the M. A. Burkholder farm, nearby. Mr. Potter, who formerly employed a workman by the month, leased the place on share rent. He will retain ownership of the farm stock. John Baumgardner, now employed by Mr. Potter, has not decided where he will locate, after having been on the Potter farm for six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger T. Bayard, of Tyrone, on Saturday, will make a trip by train to visit the Century of Progress Exposition, Chicago, and other points in the mid-west. They will have as guests, Miss Florence Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cloyd Brooks, Centre Hall. The young lady is a namesake of Mrs. Bayard, having also been born on Rhineymede, and in time past, has received many favors at her hands.

Bob Hess, son of R. T. Hess, came up from Shamokin to spend a few weeks with his parents here. Until recently he was employed in the Brest abattoir, Shamokin. He feels confident in being able to secure another position in the near future more liking to his taste. Miss Evelyn Hess, a sister, also came here recently and entered the Centre Hall High school, as sophomore, with two of her sisters, freshmen.

The Junior and Intermediate departments of Trinity Reformed Church school, Centre Hall, have arranged for a Young People's Vesper Service to be held on Sunday, September 24th, at the Big Rock on Nittany Mountain. All members of these departments, and friends who would like to join them, are urged to be present at the church at 2:00 o'clock P. M. for the ride and hike to the place of meeting. Each person will provide his own pocket lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Miller, of Upper Darby, a suburban town of Philadelphia, are guests at the Jacob Sharer home, a tourist's lodge. The couple stopped with the Sharers on a tour through this section of the State, and following it a genuine friendship developed, the present visit here being one of the results. Mr. Miller is connected with Laird & Shober Shoe Manufacturing company, makers of high-grade shoes, whose plant is in Upper Darby.

Classes for the first semester of the seventy-eighth year at the Pennsylvania State College began Wednesday afternoon of this week. Some 1300 new students, entering freshmen, have been on the campus for the past week, going through the annual "Freshman Week" program. The newcomers were joined this week by members of the three upper classes in the first regular exercises Wednesday. The first semester continues until February 3 with a two weeks' recess at Christmas.

John Edward, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laird, west of town, escaped broken bones when he fell from a barn floor into the barnyard, a distance of fifteen feet, last Thursday. The child was at the home of his grandfather, John Rudy, on the Kennedy farm, and while the men were at work about the barn, the little fellow sat down on an old chair by an opening in the barn. In moving about the child and chair both went out into the barnyard. An X-ray picture at the Centre County hospital revealed no broken bones, only bruises.

Remember, the first of October is fast approaching, and that means—pay your school tax before that time, provided you expect to escape the five per cent penalty.

Charles C. Duck was nominated for the office of Sheriff by the Democrats of Mifflin county. He is a native of Gregg township. Here is wishing him success in November.

The court finds justification, owing to improved conditions and aid lent by State police and patrolmen, to dispense with the services of a special detective after January 1st, next. The court's decree appears in this issue.

F. M. Fisher will soon be driving a new Chrysler sedan purchased from the R. S. Hagan agency. Mr. Fisher is one of the car drivers who began operating early in the appearance of the automobile in Centre county, and his early experiences were of a character that would not now be relished, but at the time were endured with but slight protest.

O. A. Jamison, of Mifflinburg, father of Roy Jamison, one of the local High school faculty, who had been a patient in the Geisinger hospital, Danville, for several weeks, was brought to his home a few days ago. He underwent an operation for strangulated hernia, the shock from which greatly affected his heart. His condition now is very favorable.

Russell Colyer and Jack Coldron, of town, and Paul Meyer, of Pine Grove Mills, Monday afternoon, left for Chicago to see the wonders of the Century of Progress Exposition. They will be gone two weeks, providing the original program carries out. The trip is being made in the former's roadster. There is no night raveling on the schedule, and stops along the way will be made at points of historical and general interest.

The week opened with thirty-six men in the Greens Valley white pine plantation bent on eradicating the wild gooseberry, plants, harbored by the white pine blister spores. The men are from all sections of Centre county, and the greater part of them are World War veterans. The plants in the section named are mostly small growth developed within the past year, consequently requiring close observing to discover. The work must be done before the frost deadens the leaves, for it is only by the foliage that the small growths may be found.

The Reporter was pleased to have a call from Richard Westervelt, radio operator at the Bellefonte airport. Mr. Westervelt is building a home in Pleasant Gap, the frame structure of which is now up. Both Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt are devoting much of their time to construction work, the head of the family, with the assistance of his young wife, having done almost all of the work, paying out for labor less than $50.00 up to this time. The work includes excavation, building the foundation walls framework, roofing and lathing. The structure, a bungalow type, will be veneered with brown stone. The latter work will be done by Orvis Horner.

HOME PAPER NEVER FORGETS.

Someone has well said that your home paper never loses interest in you. This possibly you never have given a passing thought. No matter whether you like the newspaper man or not, he likes you. If he is true to his profession and publishes a paper for the people, he allows no personal matter to interfere with his work of newsgathering. He may meet you as a stranger, yet along with his best and dearest friends chronicle your success and sorrows wherever you may be. Those who would forget you but for your home paper, are ever reminded of your existence by some item in the paper where you spent your boyhood days. Others may deceive and defraud you but the home paper never forgets you. Possibly you may not always deserve it but a newspaper on the right lines has no pets, and should it at any time say things that cause your fur to turn the wrong way, study a moment and see if it has not at various times said many nice things of which you fail to give it credit.

Spring Mills

A Collection of Newsy Happenings and Personals from Gregg Township's Metropolis.

Through the efforts of the Spring Mills Fish and Game Association, which organization has a large membership in all sections of Penns Valley, Staking Creek was stocked with a consignment of sunfish, catfish and tadpoles. There were ten cans of each, and were shipped here from an extensive State fish hatchery located at Union City, Erie county. The fish and "tads" were placed in suitable sections of the creek between the junction with Penns Creek west to Red Mill dam. Local fishermen were delighted with the accomplishment of the association's work, but for whose efforts little attention would be given to such streams as were stocked in this case.

The tadpole makes a rapid growth and soon forsakes its larva appearance, and develops legs and lungs in place of the membrane tail and external gills. In winter Mr. Frog hibernates and when he comes out of his quarters in the spring he is bigger and fatter.

The Harvey Haugh property, close to the railroad station, was sold last week at public sale to Harold Stover, for $700. It is a frame structure for which the former owner paid $1400, and later made improvements. The property was purchased for an investment. Mr. Stover expects to continue living in his well-appointed home along Penns Creek, formerly an Allison property.

Miss Dorothy Lee, who was a guest at the parental home for ten days, returned to Bethlehem where she is supervisor in the maternity department in St. Luke's hospital. The Misses Robinson—Rebecca and Barbara—have also returned to Abington, where they are students in nursing in the Abington hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. George C. Thomas have returned from a trip to Philadelphia.

The Bean Soup at McClure, heretofore largely attended by persons from this section, had but one visitor this year; this was Mrs. Scott McMurtry, who accompanied the Jacob Smith family, north of Penn Hall, to the Snyder county gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wagner spent the week-end with their son, Theodore R. Wagner, in Williamsport. Mr. Wagner is a railway mail clerk and is on an important run.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Blaine Bitner were guests on Sunday of friends in State College.

Mrs. C. A. Krape on Sunday ventured onto the lawn for the first time since becoming ill ten days or more ago. Clayton Snyder, who was ill for a brief time, has fully recovered and is back to his post in the Groce silk mill.

The iron bridge over Penns Creek, near the silk mill, is being relaid with heavy plank. The expense is evidently being carried by Gregg township, since W. H. Bressler, one of the township supervisors, is directing the work. The road is a Pinchot type and was recently oiled and chipped.

Miller Jamison, of Conneautville, came to his home here and will likely remain until his father, E. T. Jamison, shows more permanent improvement from a serious illness.

Mrs. Harvey Rossmann, of the Penns Cave district, after a visit of two weeks with a cousin, Miss Phillips, in Coatesville, returned to her home a few days ago.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Thomas spent last Sunday in Philadelphia visiting friends.

We are glad to announce that Squire Jamison and B. H. Shook are both improving after a siege of sickness. Mr. Shook has been operated on for appendicitis and Mr. Jamison had a siege of pneumonia.

Mrs. Annie Smith and her sister, Mrs. Isenberg, have gone to Bilger to visit at the home of their sister.

The Harvey Haugh sale was well attended and the personal property brought fair prices.

G. B. Bitner installed the officers of Penns Valley Encampment last Saturday evening.

Misses Rebecca and Barbara Robinson have returned to Philadelphia where they are in training as nurses in the Abington Memorial hospital.

Come to Altoona WEDNESDAY!

IT WILL BE Altoona N.R.A. Day

IN BOOSTER STORES!

In a proclamation addressed to the citizens of Altoona and Central Pennsylvania in regard to Altoona N. R. A. Day, Mayor J. J. McMurray says in part:

"Two years ago Altoona merchants fostered a movement, known as Altoona Day, to awaken the dormant buying impulses of the public to start the wheels of industry turning again, and thus put our people to work.

"The eyes of Central Pennsylvania are again focused on Altoona.

"Working with unselfish cooperation, our merchants have prepared for another outstanding Altoona event. The retail stores, large and small, throughout the city are ready to put on another great merchandising day that will even surpass the enterprise of former years."

In concluding his proclamation, the Mayor designated Wednesday, September 27th, as "Altoona N. R. A. Day."
