FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

PICK MATURE APPLES—Apples keep best in storage when they are picked at the proper stage of maturity. Early picking results in shriveling and sometimes scalding, while late picking leads to internal breakdown. Good judgment must be exercised in harvesting the fruit at a stage which will give the best general results.

CAREFUL ATTENTION REQUIRED—Dairy cows demand good management during the fall. With short pastures or grass injured by frost, more feed will be needed. Protection from cold winds and rains also is desirable if the cows are to be maintained in flesh and good production.

IMPROVE OLD LAWNS—Digging up old lawns this fall is the first step in improving lawns which have become unthrifty and weedy. Allow to lie bare until spring, then rake into a fine seed-bed and seed as soon as the frost is out of the ground and the soil is dry enough to work. Fertilizer and lime are applied the same as for a new lawn.

BUTCHER BAGGY CROP BIRDS—Chickens or turkeys suffering from pendulous or baggy crops should be used for meat before the interference with natural digestion causes them to lose flesh. There is no known definite cause of the trouble unless it is natural weakness or overloading of the crop with feed following acute hunger.

GRADE THE PULLETS—When pullets are housed for the winter be sure to grade them according to maturity. If small immature pullets are housed in the same pens with pullets that are laying, they do not have an opportunity for proper development.

KILL LATE WEEDS—By cultivating the garden late in the season some weeds start to grow so late they are winter-killed before they go to seed.

"AUNT BILLIE FROM TEXAS" PUT ON BY GLAD GIRLS

"The Glad Girls" Missionary Society gave a play in the Grange hall Friday evening, entitled, "Aunt Billie from Texas." And it was good! The musical numbers were: "Serenade" from the opera "Giovanni" by Mozart; "The Hunter's Chorus" from the opera Der Freischutz, by Von Weber, played by Catherine Bender and Mrs. Kirkpatrick. In the play Ruth Reiber took the part of Miss Grimly, a maiden lady who was chaperone of a group of lively young city ladies. Ruth is a master-fainter. Reuben Rickett played the part of Rush Owens and disguised as Aunt Billie to help along with the fun the girls were putting over on the chaperone, and did he call forth applause?

Donald Ruble took the part of a bachelor uncle of Constance Norbury. He was retired and wealthy, but interested in the fun the girls enjoyed.

Robert Bradford acted the part of Pepper Sorrells. He was a young lawyer but disguised himself as Rush Owens' servant.

John Spiker showed how Dr. Hazwell would take care of a case of musculubus convulsus. He looked and acted well the part of the noted physician.

Beulah Meyer knew just how to perform the duties of nurse, a real R. N. Dorothy Blazer, as Dr. Buckley, was called to substitute in the place of Dr. Hazwell when Dr. Hazwell was sick. Dorothy had much trouble getting her patients in the right groove.

Miriam Mitterling as Jerry the Bell Hop sure was on the job and got the tips Sara Slack and Flo Hackett, as officers, showed much more movement and real work on their prisoner than officers usual do.

Bernice Frazier, who paged the concert singer, was more than a page. She was a whole (sc)-ream.

Roberta Smith, the real Aunt Billie, neighbor of Uncle Dick, visited at the same place and at the same time as Uncle Dick Well, you know the rest.

Constance Norbury, the ring leader of schemes, who planned to get rid of the chaperone for a while, was none other than Loraine Brunhart. We can scarcely believe that she is not a schemer. It certainly was good work for an amateur.

Catherine Wudson, who was a rather quiet society girl, was done to a finish by Catherine Bender. She said little, but, O, my!

Evelyn Colyer was none other than Betty Richardson. She was very sensitive about her auntie's age.

Ruth Walker played the part of Edna Russell, and was seemingly very much incensed by the other girls' deception. Isabel Jodon, in the role of Agnes Morey, was much interested in Mr. Owens' vocal ability.

Alice Spiker, taking the part of Edith Woods, was fearful about the complications which might, and in the end did, appear.

The Glad Girls have lots of action and cause much laughter as well as teach lessons worth while in the selective plays they use and give.

The two fugitives from Rockview pen captured in Oakland, Calif., have been returned and have been placed in steel cells to remain until brought before the Centre county court. They made their getaway August 25 in a car stolen from the Rockview detail. It is believed they shot and killed Highway Patrolman Brantlinger, in the western part of the state on September 3.

Historical Facts

[Under this head will appear one or more historical facts of local interest, to a large extent taken from Linn's History of Centre and Clinton counties, designated for reference as L. H. the figures following indicating page. The "Notes," if any, are those of the editor.]

Early Schools.

The first school house in Gregg township is supposed to have been built as early as 1800. An old German is known to have taught school for some time previous to the erection of any school house. He taught in his own house, situated a few rods west of the old graveyard, north of Penn Hall. The first school house was built near the old Heckman graveyard.

One of the first teachers was Roch-hausser, who never spared the rod, but laid it on without reserve. Another teacher was a lubber named Mayes. He lived in Rebersburg, and made weekly excursions thereto upon an old gray horse which was loaned him by Mr. Heckman. The old school house was demolished about 1843. Its site is now occupied by a building erected by the cemetery association and is solely used for preaching of funeral sermons.

In 1810, or perhaps earlier, a log school house was built at what is known as the Cross Roads. A Mr. Ohl taught there one time. A brick school house was erected here about 1844 by township authorities. It had two stories, the upper part was used for academic studies and the lower for primary scholars. Those who taught there early in its history were W. H. Gutelius, J. I. Kossiter, A. E. Trunzal, W. C. Shaeffer, J. B. Keshner, and G. D. Gurley.

Note—This school developed later into the well-known Penn Hall Academy, which played such an important part in the history of education in Centre county during the latter quarter of the nineteenth century and the earlier years of the present century, the twentieth.

About 1840, a school house was built on the Herring place. It was quite largely attended. It was removed about 1864. One of the teachers was Samuel J. Herring, who taught five terms.—L. H. pp 291-292.

30 Years Ago

Items of news which interested those of a generation ago, taken from the files of The Reporter, year 1903.

Oct. 1, 1903—Fleisher school, Potter township, is without a teacher. The school is a small one, and is located east of Colyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duck, of Spring Mills, last week moved to Kerrmoor, Clearfield county, where Mr. Duck is the night telegraph operator on a railroad office on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad. Mrs. Duck, before marriage, was Miss Gerie Frank, daughter of Constable Phillip Frank, of Potter township.

Messrs. B. D. Brislin and W. Frank Bradford, who succeed Wm. Colyer as owner and operator of the saw mill at the station, are doing an extensive business. They recently came into possession of several tracts of timberland, one of which is a portion of the timber on the farm of Rev. James Bond, tenanted by D. W. Bradford.

J. Wm. Mitterling shipped a car load of cows to Philadelphia this week.

Wm. A. Odenkirk of this place, who is an extra agent for the P. R. R. Co., is at present at Jersey Shore.

October 19 is the time set for the trial of the robbers captured in the Seven Mountains. The trial will take place before a Federal court at Scranton.

F. A. Foreman next spring will move to the Wm. Goodhart farm, near Spring Mills, which he recently purchased for $3,900.

A marriage license was granted this week to S. G. Sharer and Ada M. Weaver, both of Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worrell, of Vernon, Kansas, arrived at the home of Mrs. Henry P. Sankey, at Potters Mills, Friday of last week. Mrs. Worrell, before marriage, was Miss Mabel Sankey, and this is her first trip east since her marriage.
