Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

A LOT of ailments are just imaginary, they say. Now, there was a Scotchman, according to a fellow in Chicago, that stuttered like everything right up to the time he graduated from college.

So his dad got him a job in his own brokerage house. He was put in charge of a telephone line between the Chicago office and the broker's office in New York, and had to talk on this long distance line about twenty times a day.

J. W. ADAMS RETIRES AFTER LONG SERVICE AT INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

J. W. Adams, known to many of the older readers of the Reporter, has concluded a service of thirty years in various activities at the Industrial School at Huntingdon, and his retirement, on October 6, was of sufficient importance to call for special comment by "The Record" the Industrial School's newspaper.

Mr. Adams was born in Millheim, April 9th, 1865. In writing to the Reporter he says, "When about 13 years old I worked on the William Henney farm east of Old Fort, for Sam Kreamer."

J. W. ADAMS

School, for more than thirty years, retired. He first entered the employ of this Institution on October 16, 1901, in the capacity of a painter and continued for five years in that line.

Historical Facts

[Under this head will appear one or more historical facts of local interest, to a large extent taken from Linn's History of Centre and Clinton counties, designated for reference as L. H. the figures following indicating page. The "Notes," if any, are those of the editor.]

On Sunday, August 18, 1861, Augustus H. Poorman was killed by Edward Lipton and Wm. Hayes at the residence of Elias Horner, on Nittany Mountain. The parties had been at a camp-meeting and were drunk, and on their way home met at that place, where a fight occurred, which resulted in the death of Poorman. They were tried at November term, Hale and McAllister for the defendants, and Macmanus, Wallace and Kealsh for the Commonwealth. Hayes was acquitted, and Lipton convicted of manslaughter.

(Note: Elias Horner, more than six feet tall, portly, and when in his best days wore a frock coat, gaiter hat and carried a cane, at the time this incident lived on the farm now owned and occupied by Charles Bilger, an eighth mile north of the top of Nittany Mountain. The farm, prior to the Bilger ownership, was known as the Hoffer and Dale farm. The camp-meeting the men attended, as related by B. D. Brishin and Howard Spangler to the writer, was held in a woods on the north side of Brush Valley road to the north of the "pond." Early dwellers near the camp grounds were David Geringer and Emericks. These improvements are now obliterated. The lawyer, Kealsh, one of the Commonwealth attorneys, lived in Centre Hall, occupying the property on the northeast corner of the diamond, where Mrs. M. L. Emerick now lives. The house was built only a few years previous by Dr. Peter Smith. Later Kealsh located in Milesburg.)

The Bald Eagle railroad was finished to Bellefonte, and the first passenger train arrived at 7 P. M., on the 2nd day of January, 1863.

February 2, 1863, the remains of Lieut. Thomas McKean Buchanan, who was killed in the naval service on the Bayou Teche, La., on the 14th day of January, were brought to Bellefonte and interred. He was a son of George Buchanan, Esq., of near Spring Mills. He was 24.

The Democratic convention which met August, 1863, was presided over by Col. Reuben Keller; Fred Kurtz, of Centre Hall, and D. H. Yeager, Snow Shoe, secretaries. Cyrus T. Alexander, Esq., was nominated for Assembly; James H. Lipton, of Milesburg, for prothonotary; J. P. Gehart, Millheim, for register and recorder; John Shannon, Centre Hall, for treasurer. Richard Conley for sheriff; James Foreman, for county commissioner; J. W. Snyder, of Ferguson, for auditor.

The Republicans nominated for assembly R. H. Foster; sheriff, James Dunlap; treasurer, George H. Weaver; prothonotary, John T. Johnston; register and recorder, Samuel Haupt; commissioner, John McCalmont; auditor, James Glenn.

The whole Democratic ticket was elected by an average majority of 300. —L. H. pp 137-139.

Wednesday morning, January 20, 1864, occurred the greatest fire ever known in Bellefonte, burning up the Brockerhoff row, the Pennsylvania House, kept by John Copenhaver, and what was known as the Arcade, which included Reynold's bank, Orvis and Alexander's law office, Derr's store and Sternberg's store.

The Democratic and Republican parties made these nominations in 1865: Assembly, Fred Kurtz, D; Gen. James A. Beaver, R; for treasurer, J. D. Shugart, D; Capt. R. C. Cheeseman, R; for district attorney, H. Y. Strizer, D; R. G. Durham, R; for commissioner, Joshua Potter, D; Thomas Hosterman, R. The Democrats were elected by majorities of from 142 to 254. Kurtz was re-elected in 1866.

The erection of the new (the present) jail was commenced in May, 1867.

P. G. Meek was elected a member of the General Assembly by a majority of 615 over Josiah Neff, Republican, of Potter township.

The population of Centre county in 1880 was 37,924. Potter township, 2,375; Gregg twp., 1,795; Harris twp., 942; Millheim borough, 577; Centre Hall village, 350; Centre Hill village, 108; Potters Mills village, 180; Spring Mills village, 278; Boalsburg village, 329. —L. H. 155.

SKIDMORE HELD ON COAST FOR KILLING GAS VENDER AND FOX, PRIVATE CITIZEN

A man reported to be George C. Skidmore, 32, who fled Pittsburgh after the murder of a crippled gasoline station attendant, and later shot his way out of a police cordon at Rattlesnake, Allegheny Mountains, in Centre county, was reported under arrest in Los Angeles.

The suspect, under arrest on a morality charge, was being held for identification by Pittsburgh police, middle of last week.

Skidmore and two other youths were involved in the holdup of a gas station at Pittsburgh three years ago. One of the trio shot and killed Charles Hammond, a cripple. They then fled with the cash register.

A few weeks later, Skidmore was located in the mountains near Bellefonte, and a posse of 200 officers and civilians was formed. Heavily armed and a crack shot, Skidmore blasted his way through the cordon, wounding Private J. G. Olme of the Highway Patrol, and Wm. Fox, a civilian. Olme recovered. Fox died last May in a Dubois hospital.
