A VISIT TO THE STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL AT HUNTINGDON

Centre Hall's baseball club, after playing their last game of the season, on Saturday, with the State Industrial School, commonly known as the Reformatory, at Huntingdon, were taken on a short tour of inspection through the institution. The team members, score-keeper, and two visitors—W. W. Kerlin and the writer—accompanied the attendants through the four cell houses which at present house the 950 inmates. The high mark of 1300 inmates was reached a few years ago. The visitors saw the boys mopping the corridors of these houses, and here and there a boy making tidy his little cell, every one of which contained at least a bed, lavatory and commode. One could not help but be impressed with the similarity of the cell houses at this institution with those at Rockview penitentiary. The cells are constructed in tiers—one house having four—and with a single locking bar running the entire length of the tier making possible the locking of a great number of cells at one operation. Just why such formidable looking cells should be necessary for youths whose infraction of the law in many cases must have been trivial, is hard to understand. Certainly it must give the youth the feeling that he is indeed a "hard guy." Cleanliness was everywhere in evidence.

The various vocational activities of the inmates were not in progress at this hour, consequently much more of interest could not be seen. A large auditorium permits the playing of basketball, and may easily be converted into a theater for showing moving pictures. Films are rented from money derived from the profits from candy sold to inmates. The institution is maintained by State appropriation entirely. Six hundred and forty acres comprise the grounds of the institution.

It was apparent even on so short an inspection that every effort is being made here to prepare unfortunate youths for useful citizenship.

A Collection of Newsy Happenings and Personals from Gregg Township's Metropolis.

R. D. Musser, at Penn Hall, is having a struggle to recover from injuries sustained when he fell from the roof of the kitchen at his home, more than four weeks ago. The knee and hip were injured and ligaments between the two points were also badly sprained or perhaps torn. He is able to walk now with the aid of crutches. Although the lower limb is weak, the hand and arm give you the familiar salaman as you approach him.

Fred and Robert Slegal, on Saturday attended the homecoming at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove. The former is a graduate from that institution and as is natural keeps in close touch with its progress and social functions.

Misses Mary Louise Yearick and Edith Meyer, of State College, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Slegal, of Fairfield, Conn., were weekend guests at the H. D. Slegal home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Catherman, of Millmont, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott McMurtrie visited their daughter, at Lamar, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pealer Roseman and young son, Hayes, were weekend guests at the parental home.

Mrs. Elmer W. Spicher, who had been seriously ill, has pretty well recovered. On Sunday she had the good fortune to meet her brother, whom she had not seen in many years.

The Halloween parade and demonstration put on by the Spring Mills band, proved a success. The affair was participated in by a considerable number and lively contest was made for the numerous prizes offered.

The bankers of the Central Pennsylvania area met in Altoona on Thursday and banqueted at the Penn Alto in the evening. The Spring Mills First National was represented by the cashier, H. F. Erdley, his assistant, Paul Weagley, also, M. T. Zuhler, one of the directors. By the way, there are few banks in rural sections whose deposits have increased in as large proportion as the local bank, an institution of which this community can well be and is proud.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Matern, and William Glassner, all of Selinsgrove, were guests during the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Robinson. Mr. Glassner is the father of Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. Glassner, who has been at the Robinson home for some time, was also delighted with the visit from her husband and Selinsgrove friends.

Your correspondent very much regrets to be obliged to report the very serious condition of Miss Irene Herring, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Herring, and E. T. Jamison, Esq., long a citizen of Spring Mills. Miss Herring became ill about two months ago and for a time her condition was thought to be improving, but of late, it is reported her illness has taken a turn not at all favorable. Mr. Jamison was on the fair way to recovery and was able for a few days to enjoy automobile rides, but is again confined to bed. It is the wish of all that both these prominent persons in the community will recover, and that they will be able to again instruct along educational lines, and give counsel and advice along legal lines.

Veterans Oppose $50,000,000 State Bonus to Service Men

THE above cartoon was drawn under direction of Commander Addison Freeman, of the Philadelphia Chapter, American Veterans Association, to express his feelings about the proposed $50,000,000 state bonus on which Pennsylvania voters must give their decision at the ballot box on November 7.

"I don't believe one voter in ten realizes that they are up against this decision on election day," said Commander Freeman. Himself a veteran of overseas service, he urges that all must realize their responsibility, "lest, due to lack of interest, a minority of voters impose this added burden on an already over-taxed people. I know a great many veterans agree with me in opposing this bonus."

"There will be twelve proposals for constitutional amendments on the ballot this year," explained Mr. Freeman. "No. 4 of these would order a state bond issue of $50,000,000 as bonus to Spanish and World War veterans. Everybody with the best interests of the state at heart should vote NO on this amendment."

"The Federal Government, through hospitalization, insurance, vocational training and rehabilitation, and the issue of $3,500,000,000 adjusted service certificates, has dealt fairly by the veterans. Depression has brought hundreds of thousands of citizens to bitterest want and the state should give prime consideration to these. However generously people may wish to deal with the veterans, first thought should be for the starving men, women and children within our borders."

"It is neither patriotic nor American for the veterans, in this economic crisis, to ask financial aid which most of them do not need. Those who do need it will be taken care of, and we feel it would discredit our organization to ask this bonus. Pennsylvanians are already heavily taxed by the Federal Government to care for our veterans. They should not be called on to bear this heavy additional tax."

"I feel sure when the matter is thoroughly understood, this $50,000,000 bond issue will be defeated. Vote NO on Amendment 4. That is the right course for all loyal Pennsylvanians."

Civic bodies and taxpayers' organizations throughout the state have been aroused to the dangers of this bond issue, and are actively at work to defeat it, according to Commander Freeman.
