CENTRE COUNTY FARMERS TO CONSIDER CORN-HOG REDUCTION, MARCH 12TH

Centre county farmers interested in participating in the Corn-Hog Reduction program under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will attend a county-wide meeting in the Main Court Room of the Court House at Bellefonte on next Monday evening, March 12, at 8 o'clock, according to County Agent R. C. Blaney.

At this meeting Prof. I. C. Madison, swine extension specialist of the Penna. State College, will be present to explain in detail the working of the Corn-Hog reduction program.

All farmers who have produced an average of ten acres or more of corn during the past two years and are also producing hogs can participate in the reduction program. The contract calls for a reduction of at least 25% in corn acreage and at least 25% in littered farrowed and the number of pigs grown for market from such litters in 1934. The benefit payments will consist of $5.00 per head on hogs produced for market up to 75% of the average production of hogs during the past two years, and 30c per bushel on the estimated production of the 25 to 30% of corn acreage taken out of production. In both cases the farmers' proportion of the local administration costs of the campaign will be deducted from the benefit payments.

At these meetings there will be a temporary committee selected whose duty it will be to help get contracts and information to those wishing to sign. Following the signing of contracts by those interested a permanent corn-hog reduction committee will be elected from the signers of contracts, similar to the wheat reduction committee. Everyone in the county interested in this program is urged to attend the meeting on Monday evening, if at all possible.

Deaths

BOOB.—Nathaniel Boob, the oldest resident in Millheim and the last of the Civil War veterans, died at his home on Friday, at the advanced age of 90 years, 4 months, 8 days. Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday morning, 10 o'clock, by Rev. Lester, pastor of the Lutheran church.

Mr. Boob was a farmer by occupation, having at one time lived in Potter township. When the call for volunteers came in 1862, Mr. Boob, then a stripling of but nineteen years and living at Rebersburg, enlisted August 22, and was mustered in August 28, Company A, 148th Regiment, Pa. Vol. Infantry, and was discharged with his company a bit less than four years later, June 1st, 1865.

He was wounded May 10, 1864, at Po River, and taken to Salisbury, South Carolina, where he remained for seven months. For two months he was imprisoned at Bell Island, in James River, Richmond, Va., in many ways the worst and most wretched prison camp in the Confederacy. He was also a prisoner in Libby for a month.

He was thrice married, his last wife surviving him. The first spouse was Miss Sarah Miller, and to this union was born a large family of children, the surviving of whom are Wm. Elmer, Aaronsburg; Harry E. Logan, Jr., Stuvestown; Mrs. Ida Crouse, Aaronsburg; Newton, Bellevue, O.; Clarence, Millmont; Mrs. O. M. Shull, Millheim; Gurney, R. Centre Hall, R. D. John M. Boob, present sheriff of Centre county, is a grandson of the deceased, being a son of Edward W. Boob, deceased. The second wife was Reb-eca Gestl-wite, widow of Charles Hosterman. There were no children to this union.

The third wife, Sarah Moyer, widow of Samuel Strohecker, as previously stated, survives her husband, and like in the second union there were no children. Their marriage took place August 10, 1911.
