

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

The Dodds horse sale at Centre Hall, Saturday of this week at 2:00 o'clock.

J. R. Juba, on the State Highway patrol, was recently transferred to DuBois.

Mrs. H. Clay Musser, of State College, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Philipsburg hospital.

Mrs. Mary Bubb and Mr. Condo, both living in the vicinity of Red Mill, are recovering from a severe attack of grip.

Bernard Vogt, small son of Edward Vogt, who received a broken leg and other injuries when struck by an auto on the 21st ult., continues to improve, and suffers little or no pain.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smeltzer, on Friday night, entertained a number of their young friends at State College, where they formerly lived, and to which place and into their own home they again moved a few days ago.

During last week farmers in several sections of the valley turned sod for corn. Guy R. Brooks, west of town, probably was the first to begin this immediate section and did more plowing than most of the farmers in March.

A Chevrolet town sedan was sold to a party in Laurel, Del. by the Miller Motor Company, and was driven to that place this week by H. H. Keller on his return to his school work in Laurel after spending the Easter vacation at his home here.

Bettie Byers, eight-year-old daughter of Paul Byers, Millheim, is back to her home after having had a week's treatment in the Geisinger hospital, Danville, for an abscess below the right eye. The abscess formed following a slight abrasion of the skin a short time previous.

The radio station originally located at Halfway camp, Brus, Valley Narrows, has been removed to OOC camp No. 16, near Loganton, for the Clinton county area which includes several camps. A similar radio station is in operation at Camp 62, at the head of Stone Creek, in Seven Mts.

Among the applicants to apply for high school teaching to appear last week was William Fleisher, son of Harry Fleisher, of Lewistown, and a grandson of the late Thomas Fleisher, Potters Mills. He is a graduate of Shippensburg State Teachers College and at present is teaching in the Barnesboro high school.

During the last week of March, Mrs. Delas R. Keener visited relatives and friends in Fleetwood, Reading and Philadelphia. While in the latter city she attended a sacred cantata entitled 'The Holy City,' given by three hundred high school students, who were under the supervision of a former pupil of Mrs. Keener, Clyde R. Denlinger.

Philip A. Auman, who has been ill for six or eight weeks, is now improving and is back to the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Sweetwood, in Georges Valley. Mr. Auman is in his eighty-seventh year, and considering this fact he has withstood the attack from being poisoned by something he ate in a most remarkable manner.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Mitterling motored to Lancaster to visit the former's sister, Carrie, wife of William Ashley, who lives in that city. Mr. Ashley is in Knoxville, Tenn., where he is a foreman on a dam construction project carried on by the Federal Government. Mrs. Ashley expects to go to Knoxville, where the couple will set up housekeeping in a few days.

J. L. Tressel, county health officer, was in town on Thursday last week and removed the quarantine sign from the C. D. Bartholomew home. This will probably be the last of similar service he will be called on to render in the borough since John H. Puff has qualified before County Medical Officer Dr. J. L. Seibert, on Friday. His appointment by the borough council was made some months ago.

The enterprise of the senior class of Gregg Township Vocation School is shown clearly in the manner in which they handled the program for their class play, "When Jane Takes a Hand," to be given tomorrow (Friday) evening at Spring Mills. The program is a 5 1/2 x 8 1/2-inch booklet of twenty pages. A few pages are devoted to the "cast of characters" and other important features connected with the play, while the remainder of the booklet is advertising. No less than fifty-seven business and professional men in Penn. Valley, Bellefonte, Pleasant Gap and State College are represented. The Reporter did the printing.

Among the callers at this office, on Saturday, was Phil Hosterman, son of Dr. J. K. Hosterman, of Seattle, Washington. He is now a freshman in Notre Dame University, and has taken up a commercial course. He came from the Indiana college town to Steubenville, Ohio, and from there accompanied his cousin, Miss Nellie Smith, superintendent of the Ohio Valley Hospital, to Bellefonte, where they visited with Miss Smith's father, J. F. Smith, and at Centre Hall with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hosterman, uncle and aunt, respectively, of the young people. Mr. Hosterman is an avy congenial youth, one whom it is a pleasure to meet.

EASTER SERVICES IN LUTHERAN CHURCH; CHILDREN'S CANTATA

Two services were rendered in the Lutheran church on Easter Day, and both were participated in by members of other congregations, which greatly added to the pleasure of the large audience. The music was under the direction of Prof. Raynard Von Weisenfluh, of Lewistown, who had the children in training one session a week during the past ten weeks. For the six o'clock service the preparation was for a much less time. Mrs. D. R. Keener was pianist at both services, and her work, like that of the instructor, was much appreciated.

"King of Kings" was the title of the cantata rendered at the six o'clock service. The opening was a solo, "Jesus Has Been Crucified" by Ernest Frank, and chorus. (2) "Rich, the Spices," quartet. Mrs. W. W. Kerlin, Geneva Hess, Dolly Hess, Sara Odenkirk. (3) "Behold! Behold!" contralto solo, Mabel Burkholder. (4) "Master! Master," chorus. (5) "They Have Taken Away My Lord," soprano solo, Mrs. Paul Fetterolf. (6) "Christ is Risen," bass solo, E. E. Bailey. (7) "The Lord is Risen," tenor trio, F. K. Frank, Russell Colyer, Harold Durst, and chorus.

Children's Cantata.

"Christ Victorious" was the title of a children's cantata rendered by forty-seven voices to an exceptionally large, attentive and appreciative audience. The program follows:

1. "Let the Righteous Be Glad"—chorus; duet, Angeline and Dolly Hess. 2. "Go to Dark Gethsemane"—chorus; duet, Jane Spyker and Geneva Hess. 3. "The Hour is Come," duet, Sara Odenkirk and Mabel Burkholder. 4. "Hear the Story," Mabel Burkholder, Dolly Hess, Geneva Hess and Alice Spyker. 5. "In the Cross of Christ I Glorify," Kenneth Frank.

6. "This is the Day," Mabel Foust, Miriam Fetterolf, Jane Spyker, Ruth Walker, Alice Spyker and Geneva Hess; chorus. 7. "Lift Your Glad Voices," duet, Helen Hess and Patty Boozer. 8. "My Redeemer Lives," solo, Sara Odenkirk. 9. "O Lord Thou Art My God," chorus; duet, Angeline and Dolly Hess.

The chorus: Miriam Homan, Ernest Frank, J. A. Patty Boozer, Isabel Emery, Alice Dutrow, Robert Goodhart, Paul Bender, Albert Dutrow, Jack Riegel, Nellie Jane Knarr, Dolly Hess, Jane Spyker, Miriam Fetterolf, Darlene Foust, Mabel Foust, Grace Smith, Lillian Bender, Sara Homan, Geraldine Dutrow, Betty Vogt, Geneva Hess, Alice Spyker, Ruth Walker, Angeline Hess, Helen Hess, Margaret Ross, Marie Walker, Mabel Burkholder, Sara Odenkirk, Kenneth Frank, Vinton McClellan, Edward Vogt, Richard Ross, Paul Foust, William Kerlin, Dean Fetterolf, Donald Foust, Freda Smith, Annie Homan, George Homan, Pauline Lansberry, Betty Runkle, Inez Luse, Evelyn Dutrow, Lois Arny, Dean Fetterolf, Robert Foust.

R. L. WEAVER, STATE COLLEGE, SCOUT LEADER 7-MT. CAMP

Richard L. Weaver, Eagle Scout and Scout Leader of wide experience, has been elected as Camp Director of the Junita Valley Boy Scout Camp in the Seven Mountains for the 1934 season. Mr. Weaver is a former Scout of Troop No. 3, of State College. He is a graduate of Penn State College and specialized in nature work. Having served in all capacities in Scouting and with a broad experience in camping, Mr. Weaver will be able to give a most worthwhile program to the Scouts this summer.

Square Dance at Rebersburg.

The Twin Pine Mountaineers will furnish good music for the square dance to be held at eight o'clock Thursday night, April 5, in the basketball hall at Wolfe's Store (four miles east of Rebersburg.) An admission of twenty cents will be charged.

MEDAL FOR DR. BEURY.

Dr. Charles E. Beury, president of Temple University, has been selected as the recipient of the Wanderers' Medal as the "outstanding citizen of Philadelphia in the last year." It was announced by Colonel Louis J. Kolb, president of that organization. Among the previous recipients of this award have been the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Franklin Spencer Edmunds and A. Atwater Kent. Accompanying the gold medal is a scroll citing the recipient for meritorious service to the community.

McFARLANE, DEPUTY WARDEN, AT GRATEFORD PRISON

W. J. McFarlane, who for nine years served as Deputy Warden at Rockview, and who resigned that position, was named Deputy Warden at Grateford prison, the new branch of the Eastern penitentiary near Philadelphia. The Grateford prison was recently built to take care of the overflow from the already much crowded Cherry Hill, Philadelphia bastille.

The Dodds horse sale at Centre Hall, Saturday of this week at 2:00 o'clock.

AUTO AND BICYCLE COLLIDE; TWO ON 'CYCLE IN HOSPITAL

Jacob Biddle and Gladys Scott, both of near Centre Hall, while riding a bicycle were struck by a car driven by H. D. Nisley, of State College, and both were badly injured. They are Centre County hospital patients at this time.

The accident occurred Thursday evening of last week at a point a short distance east of the intersection of the Old Fort-Boalsburg road and the Tusseyville road. The bicycle, with Mr. Biddle on the saddle and Miss Gladys Scott sitting sideways, was going east and the Nisley car in the opposite direction. The girl was struck by the fender and door knob, from all appearances. The injured young people were picked up from the road and brought to the office of Dr. Hugh Morrow where it was found the girl had severe lacerations, abrasions and contusions on the head, face and right shoulder. An examination by use of the x-ray at the hospital indicated no bones broken, although she suffered most pain in the shoulder. The young lady's escort had a severe laceration on the right hip and body bruises. The condition of both at this time is very favorable.

Patrolman Wells was called to investigate the case. It appears the bicycle was without lights.

C. H. H. S. ALUMNI MEETS; CONTRIBUTES TO H. S. LIBRARY

The Centre Hall High School Alumni Association held a meeting in the high school building on Monday evening. An item of business transacted was the contribution from the association's funds of $10.00 for the use of the school library, Misses Geary and Haines to select the books.

A pleasing feature on the program was the rendition of a monologue by Miss Martha Yearick, teacher of the third and fourth grades.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to social intercourse, during which period music was furnished by William Weaver and Kenneth Snyder. Card and other games were indulged in after light refreshments had been served.

Members of the alumni now college students who were present were Laura Belle McCormick, Robert McCormick, Bettie Ebright, Penn State, and Hugh Morrow, Jr., Bucknell. Between 50 and 60 members, all told, were present.—The Secretary.

PROGRESS GRANGE PROGRAM SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 7

The program to be given at the meeting of Progress Grange to be held in Grange Arcadia, Saturday evening, is as follows:

Reading: "God's Garden," Jacob Sharer. Talk: "The Prophecy of Spring; What Does It Foretell This Year?"—D. K. Keller. Easter Story—H. L. Ebright. Recitation: "An Easter Wish," Mary Delaney. Reading—Marilyn White. Recitation—Mrs. John Durst. Solo—Mrs. F. V. Goodhart.

WILD GEESSE HEADING NORTH.

Early Monday morning, two flocks of wild geese, totaling approximately 100 in number, flew over Centre Hall on their way north. A sign of spring, and the end of cold weather.

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS PAID $418,853.63 BY U. S.

Pennsylvania farmers in the first nine months of the A. A.'s existence have received payments totaling $418,853.63 for wheat and tobacco acreage reductions.

That is shown in the report submitted by the A. A. a few days ago to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. More than half the sum paid out in this State went to farmers of Lancaster county, a tobacco producing center. This county's payments totaled $284,565.38. The second largest sum received was by Franklin county, $27,831.30, for compliance with the wheat control program. York county farmers, producing both wheat and tobacco, were paid $13,651.20. The balance of the Pennsylvania total was distributed in small sums among 23 other counties. Administration costs in this State were given at $39,254.75.

The payments in these surrounding States, all under the wheat program, were: Maryland, $498,725.30; Delaware, $66,431.40; and New Jersey, $6147.60.

GRUENEWALD HORSE SALE.

William Gruenewald, South Dakota horse dealer, before returning home from his Bloomsburg sale, announced another sale of horses to be held in Centre Hall in two or three weeks.

CENTRE GETS $11,738 FOR RELIEF FIRST HALF APRIL

Centre county was allocated the sum of $11,738 for relief during the first half of April. These allocations to colleges for part time jobs for students were approved: Pennsylvania State College, $8,555; Bucknell University, Lewisburg, $1,455; Gettysburg College, $765; Juniata College, Huntingdon, $330; Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, $375; Franklin and Marshall, Lancaster, $645.

SOCIAL SURVEY IN PROGRESS ON SOUTH SIDE CENTRE CO.

The social survey about to be made throughout the entire United States is in progress on the south side of Centre county. The county is divided into districts, the south side boroughs and villages comprising the second district of Area No. 15. Louis Nicholas, Lemont, is the supervisor of this district.

There are seven enumerators for the second district, namely, Mrs. Ernest Frank, Centre Hall; Miss Florence Rearick, Georges Valley; Bond O. Musser, Paul M. Haines and Merle K. Risher, Millheim; Henry Bower and Ralph Beahm, Aaronsburg.

As is intimated above, the survey is confined to boroughs and villages, excluding strictly rural sections. The enumerators will not work in their home locality. Centre Hall will be enumerated by the Millheim group and Centre Hall appointees do likewise in Millheim. The Aaronsburg group will also find their work outside their immediate home territory.

On Tuesday a trial enumeration was made. The work will be forwarded to the county head for scoring, and their permanent appointment depends on how well the test is performed. The information desired is the names of heads of families, number of children or members of the household; occupation, whether employed regularly or temporarily.

BOY, 11, KILLED; BROTHER BADLY INJURED, AT ROMOLA

Explosion of an abandoned cartridge tank which they had found, brought death on Monday to Charles Singer, Jr., 11, and serious injury to his brother, Arlynn, 10. One of the boys, while playing with the tank at their home in Romola, Centre county, held a match to the opening. The resultant explosion broke Charles' neck. Arlynn was rushed to a hospital.

21 PUPILS ON CENTRE HALL HIGH SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

Twenty-one pupils in the Centre Hall High school are on the honor roll. The pupil with the highest rating for the 1933-34 term is Fred Spyker, who becomes sixteen this month, a member of the Junior class. An alphabetical list of the roll is given by classes: Senior—Mabel Burkholder, Beulah Meyer, Ruth Reiser, Richard Ross, Violet Smith. Junior—Thekla Clark, Vinton McClellan, Jay Runkle, Fred Spyker. Sophomores—Woodrow Bradford, Dolly Hess, Chris Morrow, Roberta Smith, Eugene Weaver, Elda Zang. Freshman—Donald Barger, Gene Dinges, Mabel Foust, George Heckman, Angeline Hess, William Thomas.

TEACHERS ELECTED FOR GREGG TWP. PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At a recent meeting of the Gregg Township school board the following teachers were elected: Beaver Dam—Adaline Bradford, transferred from Penn Hall. Hoy—Paul Miller. Decker—Sarah Vonada, transferred from Hoy. Cross Roads—Rosetta Heckman, Logan—Kermit Stover. Penn Hall—Catharine Hosterman. Spring Mills—Primary, Orrie Wagner; Third and Fourth Grades, Luella Reaick; Fifth and Sixth Grades, Harry Condo, transferred from Logan (a Grove's); Grammar, Russel Condo.

NEW DAILY NEWSPAPER FOR CENTRE CO. MAKES ITS BOB

On Monday of this week Centre county gave birth to a new daily newspaper. It bears the name of "The Centre Daily Times," and is published by the Nittany Publishing Company of State College. It supplants "The Times," a weekly for 37 years. The first issue lies before us and it required but a hasty perusal of its contents to convince us that "The Centre Daily Times" means business, and is determined to be all that a daily paper should be. It sparkles with news—local and general—and has many features which will satisfy all, young and old, male and female, alike.

The Reporter congratulates most sincerely the editors and publishers upon their enterprise and confidence they manifest in their home community and the country in general. It takes courage to take a step such as this, and particularly in times such as these. Such courage merits recognition. We feel that "The Centre Daily Times" will receive it.

CENTRE-HUNTINGDON WHEAT CONTROL BOARD MEETS

The Centre-Huntingdon Wheat Production Control Board met on Saturday in the First National bank, Centre Hall, its headquarters.

The last call is being made for farmers to sign wheat acreage reduction contracts.

Farmers signing now will benefit on the last payment for 1933, and full benefit for 1934 and 1935. Farmers interested can secure blanks from the directors, George Mothersbaugh, Boalsburg; Harry Corman, Spring Mills; John Blauer, Spring Mills; Edward Owens, Bellefonte, or at the office, First National bank, Centre Hall.

The Allotment Committee will meet Saturday, April 28th, for the approval of applications.

CENTRE CO. FARMERS TAKE PART IN CORN-HOG PROGRAM

The Corn-Hog section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announces that detailed information concerning the Corn-Hog reduction plan is now available to Centre county farmers, according to county chairman, H. M. Musser, of Bellefonte.

At a recent meeting of all interested growers held in the court house a temporary county committee was selected. All members of this committee have been supplied with application blanks and information relative to the Corn-Hog reduction program. Anyone desiring to sign applications to participate in the reduction plan can do so by contacting any member of this committee. Among others on the committee are Joseph Swabb, Centre Hall; William Campbell, Centre Hall; Raymond Boob, Spring Mills; J. V. Brungard, Smullton.

It is the desire of the committee to complete the signing of contracts by April 12.

According to the plan contracts include both corn and hogs. The corn reduction is from 20% to 30% with a benefit payment of 30¢ per bushel, less administrative expenses, based on the last two years average of corn produced on the particular farm. The hog reduction is on the basis of 25% reduction of litters farrowed and hogs marketed based on the past two years average. Those reducing hogs will receive a benefit payment of $5 per head, less administrative expenses on the 75 per cent of the based number of hogs produced for market. Should a man produce one commodity and not the other, he can sign the contract and receive the benefit payment on the one commodity. If he grows less than ten acres of corn for husking purposes he can not participate in the corn payment but can take the hog payment.

G. T. V. S. SENIORS TO PRESENT 3-ACT COMEDY

The popular 3-act comedy, "When Jane Takes a Hand," will be presented by the senior class of the Gregg Township Vocational School on Friday evening, April 6th, eight o'clock, in the Grange hall at Spring Mills. This clever and romantic play seizes the interest of the audience at the very beginning of the amusing plot, and suspense is sustained until the final curtain. There is a startling, yet romantic, succession of events—"When Jane Takes a Hand."

PROBABILITY OF EXTRA SESSION LOOMS DUE TO LACK OF FUNDS

The State Emergency Relief Board has funds sufficient to operate only to the middle of this month, when it is expected to turn to the $20,000,000 appropriated by the Legislature from the State liquor store profits, but the profits have not materialized. Liquor sales are far below that anticipated. By May 30, 1935, the gross will be barely $17,000,000, or a net profit of but $5,500,000.

Besides the $20,000,000 for relief, the Legislature appropriated from liquor revenues, $4,000,000 for old age assistance and $1,300,000 for pensions to the blind.

Under the relief plan outlined by the Federal Government for Pennsylvania during the next ten months, $155,000,000 is needed. The plan proposes that the State shall furnish half the money. Governor Pinchot last week notified Washington that the State is financially unable to make that provision. He is expected to attend the relief board meeting April 11.

CWA LIMITS JOBS TO RELIEF ELIGIBLES SINCE MONDAY

Civil Works supervisors were informed on Friday that, beginning Monday, employment will be restricted to persons eligible for State relief.

Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board, notified the county staffs to this effect at a meeting called to explain the transfer of activities from the CWA to the new Relief Work Division.

The new unit will be under State supervision but will be financed with Federal funds.

Biddle served notice to the county executives that "it is absolutely necessary that persons ineligible for relief and now working on CWA projects be replaced as rapidly as possible by persons on the relief rolls.

Biddle, who is CWA administrator for Pennsylvania, will be executive director of the work division. County administrators will retain their status under the new arrangement, and "desirable" CWA projects now under way will be continued. Biddle gave this definition of "desirable."

"The work must be for the benefit of Governmental units or for publicly owned and controlled institutions. That will exclude State-aided institutions. Projects of this nature, now under way, however, may be continued to April 30.

"The work must be of economic and social benefit to the general public. Projects will not be encouraged where there is clearly a substitution for the normal responsibility of the local or State Government.

"Projects shall be undertaken independently of work under a contract or for which an annual appropriation has been made and must be, in general, apart from normal Government enterprises.

"Projects which will improve the health and recreational facilities of the community are especially desirable."

THE G. O. P.

[Philadelphia Record, Mar 30.] The death of the Republican party late Wednesday afternoon came as a great shock to the country. After so many years of active and vigorous life the suddenness of the end made strong men bow their heads.

Hope had been expressed for recovery from the serious illness the party suffered. The patient had been resting easily for months, rousing itself from time to time to murmur something about the extravagance of the Democrats. This was considered a happy sign.

None was prepared for the crisis when it came. The question before the Senate was that of overriding the President's veto of increased veterans' pensions. In the old days that issue had always enlivened and stimulated the party. It was an issue that squarely challenged the party's fundamental principles: "economy," "balance-the-budget," "nothing for ex-soldiers." It was by fighting for such principles that the party had risen to its great conservative strength. The death-rattle sounded when all 33 Republican Senators voted to override the President and increase the pensions. In a shouting hour of delirium, believed to have been induced by the fear of coming elections complicated by an anti-Roosevelt fever, such prominent arms of the party as Fess, Reed, Hastings, Dickinson and Barbour all abandoned party principles and voted for the veterans.

It had been expected, of course, that progressive Republicans such as Borah, Johnson, and LaFollette would vote to override the veto. These Senators are liberals, and have never really been Republicans. But that the others, the Fesses and Reeds and Hastingses, would abandon their convictions to catch votes, showed the end was near.

Friends of the deceased suffered anguish as they saw the party giving way. The end became a matter of moments only when Fess, who three months ago denounced the Roosevelt Administration for spending too much money, voted for the pensions. Observers were startled. Just the other day Fess, apparently in good health, was calling for "devotion to party principles" and economy.

Hastings' turn came soon after. In 1931 Hastings referred to veterans' organizations as "minorities which are a serious menace to the welfare of the nation," and should be either expelled or disassembled." But he, too, abandoned his principles, and voted to override the President.

There was some renewal of hope when it came time for Reed, of Pennsylvania, to cast his ballot. Reed voted against the bonus twice. His first speech in the Senate was against veterans' expenditures. Those present held their breath. It was the crucial moment. Then Reed, that last stalwart, voted for the pensions, and the party curled up and died.

It might have lived, doctors thought, if it had had the strength to fight for its convictions, to uphold its own principles, no matter how antiquated those principles were. But when it dropped its convictions Wednesday, it became as nothing.

Friends consoled themselves with the thought that, after all, when the party was untrue to itself, no reason remained for its continuance as a party, and it might be happier gone.

Over a signed editorial in the Mifflinburg Telegraph, C. A. Kniss, the owner and publisher, calls on the voters of Pennsylvania to elect a Democratic Governor for the reason that the general departments of the State are on a spending spree. The editorial points out that while the per capita cost of operation and maintenance of the general departments in 1917 was $332, for the same departments it is now $1248; and the net indebtedness in 1917 was but six cents per capita, and now is $15.00. The Telegraph, heretofore Republican in politics, asks the voters to elect not only a Democrat for Governor, but a Democratic senate and house. Amen!

Members of Congress who voted to override the President's veto dug into the fleshpot themselves. Under the President's program the salaries of congressmen would have been temporarily cut, while overriding the veto restored that cut. It looks much like congressmen were pretending to favor veterans while in reality they had first in mind getting more money for themselves.

BONUS PAYMENT WILL NOT EFFECT VETERANS ON RELIEF

The State Emergency Relief Board has adopted a resolution providing that the $50,000,000 in bonus money which Pennsylvania is paying its war veterans will not affect the status of any veteran who has been on the relief rolls. Receipt of bonus money "should not be considered in any way in the distribution of unemployment relief," said officials.

The Reporter mailing list will be corrected next week, when credit on subscription paid will be shown. If you know yourself to be in arrears, won't you kindly make payment in whole or in part before next Tuesday and have the figures on your label changed to an up-to-date figure. Many have neglected this duty; are you one?
