

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Shattuck and John Gilliland, a nephew, of State College, were guests of their aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobs, in Centre Hall, on Sunday.

James E. Frohm, who was in charge of the painting of CCC camp No. 65, at Colyer, is employed at present in Lock Haven, by Thompson, the Lock Haven decorator.

H. J. Lambert closed his winter home in Lakewood, Florida and arrived in Centre Hall last Friday for the summer. The first few days following his arrival convinced him he had come North too soon.

Word comes from Hartford, Conn., that B. D. Brislin recently fell in the bathroom in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roxanna Robertson, and fractured several ribs. Mr. Brislin, a short time ago, became 92 years of age.

Mrs. John F. Treaster, of near town, who has been an appendicitis patient in the Centre County hospital for two weeks, continues to make uniform improvement from day to day. Her many friends intown and vicinity earnestly hope for her complete recovery.

All persons interested in the cemetery in Seven Mts. south of Spring Mills, are requested to meet there on Saturday, May 12, to clean graves, etc. In case of bad weather, the following Saturday (May 19th) will be selected.—S. E. Gobble, secretary.

Frank W. Decker, one of the Potter township farmers who prides in keeping his farm buildings, fences, etc., in the best of repair, was a caller at this office on Saturday morning. There are few, if any, farm homesteads that are kept painted and in complete repair like that of the Decker place. The surroundings of the buildings also present an appearance pleasing to anyone who observes cleanliness and tidiness.

At a meeting of the directors of the Juniata Boy Scout Camp, Seven Mts., it was decided to at once complete the large dam, a CWA project. The second allotment of money is exhausted, with the required cash to complete the work being estimated at about $500. The CWA imposed conditions necessitating the widening of the breast of the dam by eighteen inches from top to bottom and also requires the ripping with stones the breast on the water side. Monday morning the force of workmen was cut down to under twenty men.

Guests at the T. F. Delaney home were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. McCaulley who own and occupy the Custer farm later known as the Dr. Charles Smith farm, east of Lamar, and D. R. Rumberger and daughter, Miss Jean, and Mrs. J. H. Steininger, sister-in-law of Mr. Rumberger. Mr. Rumberger is well established in the insurance business, representing the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Mrs. Rumberger and Mrs. Steininger are daughters of the late John Smith. Their mother, formerly Lizzie Bair, Febersburg, now living in Harrisburg, is in extremely delicate health with no prospect of recovering.

Guy W. Jacobs, of Steubenville, Ohio, was with his mother and other relatives in Centre Hall over Sunday, and on Monday departed for Washington, D. C., to attend a meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Jacobs as a regional director on the ice manufacturers' code, finds his services in great demand, necessitating his being away from home for much of the time. During his short stay here the writer, who cherishes a friendship going back to grade-school days, enjoyed an hour's chat which was both entertaining and informative. One of Mr. Jacobs' sterling qualities is his fine devotion to his friends.
