FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

PLANT SWEET CORN—When danger of frost is past, the first planting of sweet corn may be made for an early supply. Early, mid-season, and late varieties all may be planted at the same time. Successive plantings two weeks apart until late in June will provide for a continuous supply of fresh sweet corn until frost.

YOUNG TURKEYS SUFFER—Spradles, a leg weakness in young turkeys, is located in the hip joints. It may be caused by natural weakness, but it also is caused by the baby poult walking on smooth floors. The young turkeys cannot get good "toe holds" and their legs slip to the side which strains the hip joints.

PROVIDE VENTILATION—When the bee colony increases in strength and there is a prospect of swarming, additional ventilation is needed. This can be provided by raising the hive body from the bottom board and placing a small block under each corner. Blocks of one-half inch to two inches thick should be used, depending upon the strength of the colony.

ACID SOIL REQUIRED—Laurel and rhododendron transplanted to the home grounds require acid soil. Such materials as pine and hemlock needles, tan bark, well-decomposed hardwood sawdust, peat moss, or oak leaves may be mixed with the native mountain soil for this purpose.

REPLANT BUSH BEANS—Bush snap and shell beans may have to be replanted when a heavy rain or cold spell occurs after the first planting. The plants should stand 2 or 3 inches apart in rows spaced two feet apart for hand cultivation, and 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart for horse cultivation.

ATTEND FIELD DAY—Topics of interest to every farmer in the state will be included in the program of Farmers' Field Day, Thursday, June 14, at the Pennsylvania State College.

Engineering facts prove it. Experience in building nearly ten million cars confirms it. And the record of over 3,000,000 Chevrolet Six owners removes any shadow of doubt about it: The only way to get real economy in a low-priced car is to insist on SIX cylinders and OVERHEAD valves.

SIX cylinders—no more!—because extra cylinders mean extra cost for gas, oil, upkeep and parts. OVERHEAD valves—nothing else!—for the same good reason that airplanes use them. And speedboats. And racing cars. They get the MOST power out of the LEAST gas. That's why overhead valves are the choice of leaders—and champions.
