

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

CHEERED BY 20,000 SATURDAY

The panic-stricken Grundy-Mellon Republican machine is making a last stand battle for "preservation of special privilege and political corruption" in the State and nation.

George H. Earle, Democratic nominee for Governor, made that charge at a record-breaking picnic attended by more than 20,000 Democrats of Cumberland and nearby counties, held at Williams Grove, on Saturday.

Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, seconding Earle's charge, predicted that "the November 6 election in Pennsylvania will be the Waterloo of Grundism and Mellonism."

"At Doylestown on Friday, Grundy asked that Pennsylvania 'place its stamp of disapproval on the National Administration's tremendous departure from the system of government that has made America what it is today.'"

"Grundy also asked that we preserve for our future generations the things we have striven for years to accomplish."

"I know that Pennsylvania will give the right answer to Joe Grundy on election day, November 6."

"The right-thinking men and women of Pennsylvania certainly don't want to 'preserve' the things that Joe Grundy has stood for during his political career."

"They don't want corruption in Government. They don't want high taxes for the masses and little or no taxes for special privileged corporations. They don't want exaction of exorbitant rates by public utilities. They don't want a return of the financial racketeering which closed every bank in the nation in 1932 and which left the nation's investors holding the bag—a bag empty of money but full of worthless securities."

"The citizens of Pennsylvania don't want the State Government to be administered by Grundy tools who have been convicted of crime as have State Senator McClure, chairman of the State Finance Committee, and Representative Steele, chairman of the House of Representatives powerful appropriations committee."

"The people don't want a Legislature which in cruel fashion turns a deaf ear to honest administration, equitable taxation and humane and progressive legislation."

"The State's aged want a humane old age pension law and they have the sympathy of right-thinking men and women who subscribe to the Democratic party creed that the veterans of labor and agriculture should be cared for by the State in the same manner as the veterans of our wars."

DROWNED VICTIM BURIED

IN ZION HILL CEMETERY

With an impressive ceremony the body of Joseph Smith, who was killed in Zion Hill cemetery, near Colyer, on Friday morning, was taken from the Goodhart morgue to the little cemetery where Father Cupples of State College, was in waiting and performed the rites of the Catholic church. The officials and nearly all of the men from the "Transient Camp for Men" formerly CCC camp 65, were present and gave most respectful attention during the service. There was a tribute of flowers by his companions in the camp, and measures have been taken to collect funds from the men out of their weekly stipend to place a headstone to take the place of a more modest one erected by the undertaker in charge.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania made provision for the burial of the unfortunate man. Zion Hill cemetery was selected because of its closeness to the camp and scene of the drowning the Saturday previous.

Joseph Smith was a native of Poughkeepsie, New York, where both his father and a divorced wife live, neither of whom made claim of the body, due, it is surmised, to lack of funds.

LECTURE ON MISSION WORK

BY JAMES J. GLENN, JR.

The following dispatch from Carlisle refers to a young man whose parents are natives of Pennsylvania. Rev. Glenn was reared near State College and Mrs. Glenn in the vicinity of Centre Hall, and is a sister of P. V. Goodhart.

James J. Glenn, Jr. son of the Rev. J. J. Glenn, pastor of Dickinson Presbyterian church, will give an illustrated lecture on mission work in the Tennessee Mountains at 8 o'clock Sunday night in the parish house of his father's church.

Young Glenn is a graduate of Dickinson College and a senior at Princeton Theological Seminary, where he is preparing for the Presbyterian ministry. This summer he spent his vacation working for the Presbyterian Home Mission Board in Tennessee.

In his letter to newspapers this week, Governor Pinchot emphasizes how impossible it is for the State to pay all the cost of the public schools as demanded by many individuals and organizations. The Governor could ease up the matter by permitting school districts to have a larger hand in determining how taxes assessed by them should be expended. It is the extravagant ideas of the State that are continuously boosting the school tax.

ROLLER McCOY, A SUICIDE!

FORMER LEWISTOWN CLOTHIER

James Roller McCoy, 51, of Lewistown, formerly proprietor of the McCoy clothing store, was found dead in bed on Saturday afternoon about 2:00 o'clock, in one of the bedrooms of the Willows Golf club, on Main street, Yeagertown. He had been operating the club for the past six months. Death was due to a .32 calibre bullet wound in the right temple, self-inflicted. The revolver was found beside the dead body.

Relatives said he had a nervous breakdown and on Friday required the attendance of a physician who administered a sedative and sent him to bed for a rest. On Saturday he was about the club until going to the room where his dead body was found.

A widow, formerly Rita Milliken, whom he married in 1916, survives him, as do also two sisters, Miss Adelaide McCoy, Lewistown, and Mrs. Homer Brayton, Pueblo, Col.

EVERITT—FOSTER

The marriage of Miss Helen Barbara Foster, daughter of Dr. J. V. Foster, of State College, to Edward Everitt, of Sayre, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Foster home in an informal wedding ceremony.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives of the couple by the Rev. Louis Barber, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Benton with Misses Loretta and Emma Jane Foster, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, and Lee Blackwell, of Elmira, N. Y., acting as best man.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for the guests at the Foster home and the young couple left immediately on a motor trip to Canada. They will make their home in Washington, D. C.

Both Miss Foster and Mr. Everitt are graduates of Penn State, Miss Foster in the class of 1927.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR E. R.B.

COMMENTS FAVORABLY

George I. Boyd, executive director of the Emergency Relief Board of the Centre county area, commented on the activities of the Emergency Child Health Committee as follows:

"My experience in relief administration convinces me that the greatest need now being met is helping housewives expend their relief budgets in the most economical way and in the best interest of the health of the family, particularly the children of the family."

"Now, with doctors leading and outlining what needs to be done, and with a large group of intelligent volunteer assistants and home economists to teach mothers how to buy, what to buy and how to prepare the food, our relief work will be far more effective."

Mrs. Isabella Barnett, of Laurelton, was awakened at half past three one morning recently by a snake crawling on the window screen. The reptile tried very hard to gain entrance but finally lost all hope and crawled away.

UPTOWN OUTFIT TROUNCES

DOWNTOWNERS IN MUSHBALL

There are some mushball players around Centre Hall who aren't so sure that they don't live in the wrong end of town. The reason is a 29-9 walloping suffered by Bud Coldron's mushballers from the lower end, at the hands of Ernie Frank's Uptowners, in the inaugural mushball tilt in Centre Hall last Friday on Grange Park.

The uptowners pounded George Johnson and Hughes Brininger, downtown pitchers, for 25 hits, acquiring a ten-run lead in the opening frame, while Lutz held the losers in check until later innings, when they put over their nine runs.

Four of the six Mifflinburg councilmen voted for the installation of water metres thereby committing the council to their introduction, while ninety per cent of the citizens who pay the bill are strongly opposed to it. There must be four "to hell with the public" councilmen down there or one notorious liar by the name of C. K. Knies. The Reporter believes Knies knows a water meter from a hexamer.

THE COURSE OF THE NEW

CONCRETE ROAD OVER 7 MTS.

The survey of the proposed new concrete State highway over Seven Mountains is now well under way. The work is being performed by N. C. Malms, Woodlands party chief; H. C. Bilger, Bellefonte, instrument man; R. M. Lewis, Houtzdale, and Franklin Malone, both chainmen. The road is now well marked. It leaves the Macadam road at the foot of Bald Mountain, runs around the end of it and crosses the Garity road 150 feet west of the entrance to Rayona club house and 850 feet east of the Foust road house (the Reaick place) where there is a fill of from eight to twelve feet. On the summit of Sand Mountain the new road passes but a few feet east of the vacant eating stand, where a cut is made. The intersection with the Macadam road is made about three or four hundred feet from the top on the north slope.

From this point to and by the State House, the road follows pretty closely the present road until it passes the nursery, where it leads slightly to the west, eliminating a curve. At Sunset Club House the center of the road will be shifted about thirty-six feet to the west, and continues to the Shamokin Club House, where the southern portion of the road under the contract to be let August 17th ends.

As was stated last week, a section of three thousand feet between the Shamokin Club House by Brownie's to the log cabin owned by Mrs. Johnson, is not included in the contract referred to above. From the log cabin northward to the concrete road at Pottery Mills, the new road will be mostly on the west side of the present Macadam.

FARMERS MUTUAL FIRE INS. CO.

MAKES PAYMENT ON LOSSES

The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Centre County was interested in three losses due to lightning within the past week, and a fourth due to the flaring up of an oil stove. The losses were all small, the largest being for a Holstein cow owned by Paul I. Wrigley, on the White Hall road, who was allowed $50.

The residence of Albert Crater, formerly the Fiedler farm, north of Penn Hall, and the dwelling on the Meyer Lumber Company farm, near Woodward Cave, tenanted by Forrest Stover, were struck by lightning during the same storm, and the losses very similar. In both houses the ceiling and walls had the appearance of having been peppered with shot from a gun. Some of the perforations were through the plastering, and others were dents. At the latter place slits, five to eight feet in length, were cut through the linoleum on the floor.

The fourth loss was to Rev. Giesey, of York, who is occupying his summer home east of Coburn. The loss was due to an oil stove getting out of control, and slightly damaging the furnishings.

JAMISON REUNION ATTENDED

BY MORE THAN 200, THURSDAY

More than two hundred persons attended the fifth annual reunion of the Jamison clan at Grange Park, Thursday. This attendance was the largest in the record of the organization.

The Jamisons from this part of the State are descendants of Adam Jamison who was one of the early settlers of Georges Valley. The attendance included members of the family from Wilmington and State Line, Del.; Long Island, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Altoona, Johnstown and Lock Haven.

Isaac Jamison, of Bellwood, will succeed Herbert Bolger, of Altoona, as president of the organization. Other officers for next year will be: M. C. Vonada, Millheim, vice-president; R. S. Jamison, Centre Hall, secretary; E. T. Jamison, Spring Mills, treasurer. The reunion will again be held at Grange Park, the first Thursday in August.

Municipal Theatre Attractions.

Playing the Municipal theatre Friday and Saturday this week is "Mascara," starring Richard Barthelmess and Ann Dvorak. Although this picture is not a Western, you will find it packed with plenty of action; an interesting story.

The Municipal theatre has just completed the installation of a new Da-Lite sound screen as well as an interior lobby, which has been draped and lighted for the comfort of its patrons.

246 DEGREES AWARDED

AT P. S. C. SUMMER SESSION

The twenty-fifth annual Summer Session at the Pennsylvania State College closes on Friday and the Post-Session will open on Monday.

Signalling the close of the Summer Session the college will hold its eleventh August commencement on Thursday night. The speaker for the occasion will be Dr. William P. Tolley, president of Allegheny College. At this time the College will confer approximately 246 degrees, more than half of them going to teachers.

Four of the six Mifflinburg councilmen voted for the installation of water metres thereby committing the council to their introduction, while ninety per cent of the citizens who pay the bill are strongly opposed to it. There must be four "to hell with the public" councilmen down there or one notorious liar by the name of C. K. Knies. The Reporter believes Knies knows a water meter from a hexamer.

TWO SCRIBES INTERVIEW

JOSEPH SMITHE, A CORPSE

Two of the Reporter's representatives were given an unusual assignment—to interview a corpse. They were ordered to go to the Goodhart morgue and speak to the dead, and if inspired, write. This they did. The interviews with the subject, Joseph Smith, follow:

INSPIRATION ONE

"Hello there, Mrs. Corpse."

Corpse, never batting an eye, says, "Hi yourself."

Reporter: "How's the world treating you?"

Corpse: "Better than it has in a long time, but I'm getting pretty sick of looking at that ceiling."

R: "It's your own fault; what did you want to die for anyhow?"

C: "It seemed like a good idea at the time."

R: "You have been causing a good deal of excitement around here lately. People have had a lot to say about you and your little party last Saturday."

C: "Yeah, I know. I've been getting a laugh out of it, too."

R: "What kind of gin was that you birds were drinking?"

C: "What do you care?"

R: "I want to use it to remove some paint."

C: "I'll work, all right"

R: "What happened to your black eye?"

C: "Aw, the undertaker painted it out. It made me feel like a sissy to have my face painted."

R: "Where did you get that black eye? And that big mark on your leg? And all those bruises on your chest?"

C: (After a pause) "Well, I got some dust in my eye, and I rubbed so hard that I blackened it. Believe it or not, I got those chest bruises from diving into the water before I got to it. And a mosquito bit me on the leg."

R: "It must have been some mosquito."

C: "Well, it's just like everything else we have out there; we raise 'em tough."

R: "Well, have a good time, anyhow. So long."

C: "So long, mug."

INSPIRATION TWO.

"I was sent here for an interview with you, Mr. Smith, what have you to pass on to the world—the world you left a few days ago?"

"It is the spirit world I am now in. There is no association of spirits; no communicating; no yesterday, no today, no to-morrow—indeed, no time that is measurable. Our condition cannot be conveyed in understandable language to the world."

"Then man is mortal?"

"Yes; my faith taught me that."

"Are your recollections of this old world pleasant and have you anticipations?" was the next question.

"I carry with me the recollections of the good deeds, of my fellows. For instance, the great effort to save my life. While the efforts failed of accomplishment, the good will is sustaining. Have I anticipations? Certainly; no man is without hope; there are none of us that have not done both good and evil. Although 'condemned by the world, our final Judge is just and righteous. We have the word for it that murderers and adulterers have been pardoned, but nothing is directly said of the hope for the man who hates, is jealous, envious, parsimonious, egotistic, the gossip, the assassin of character—"

"Tell me something of your life; has it been active or passive?" was another question.

"Like many of the men with whom I was in contact during the latter days of my life, I am not wholly responsible for my condition. You would not say that society does its full share to young men of my kind. Even now there are among you men making an effort to keep our bodies and souls together."

"You have a well-developed body, the appearance of intelligence."

"Thanks, that's all for today."

LOCALS' RALLY IN SIXTH

WINS OVER LAMAR FOES, 6-3

(By HUGH MORROW, JR.)

The locals said it with war clubs in the sixth frame of Thursday's game with Lamar, and it's a good thing they did, for a four-run rally in that frame turned what seemed like almost certain defeat into a 6-3 victory for Centre Hall.

With George Rimmer's cohorts trailing 3-2 as the game swung into the final half of the sixth, Knarr opened the rally with a scorching double off the delivery of Mowery, who went the full seven frames for the losers.

Ernie Frank laid down a neat bunt, reaching first safely as Knarr went third untouched. Then Walker laid down another masterful bunt, scoring Knarr to even up the score and reaching first safely himself. Jack Welsh then reached first on Mowery's miscue, Walker going third. Welsh then went to second as Ralph Martz grounded out to first, and then Roy Jamison, who was the winning pitcher, helped to win his own ball game by laying out a hit, scoring Walker and Welsh.

The locals opened up the game by acquiring a two-run lead as two hits, a bunt, a fielder's choice and a wild pitch by Mowery, scored Goodhart and Crawford.

Lamar soon cut down this lead, when Krape and Heckman singled successively in the second. With Krape on third, Walker pegged to Welsh for an attempted put-out, but the ball hit the runner and bounced off into foul territory, allowing Krape to score. Two more hits, Knarr's error, and a fielder's choice made Jamison look less and less like a winning pitcher in the fourth, as two more runs gave Lamar a one-run lead.

However, the locals pulled the game out of the fire in what proved to be their last time at bat, and then Jamison came back in great style in the first of the seventh, to blank the opposition.

Centre Hall outlasted Lamar 8 to 5, and also led in chalking up errors, the locals having three miscues to two for the Lamar players. Jamison fanned seven, while Mowery was unable to strike out any of the Centre Hall batters.

KURTZ IS TOO MUCH FOR

LOCALS, SO GAP WINS 7-2

"Too much Kurtz."

And that best explains why Centre Hall dropped a 7-2 decision to Pleasant Gap last Saturday, edging the locals into a tie for first place with Millheim and Boalsburg.

George Kurtz, the Gap's stocky southpaw, fanned fifteen, kept the locals' eight bingles well distributed, drove in the first run of the game for the winners, and personally scored the Gap's third run following a scorching double.

Lefty Pastorius, who went the route for Centre Hall was pounded for thirteen hits, four of them for extra bases, and was scored on by the victory-mad outfit from across the mountain in every inning following the third.

The locals opened up the game by leading the bases as Crawford, batting in leadoff position, nicked Kurtz for a single. Bradford sacrificed him to second, Welsh fanned, Knarr was hit by a pitched ball, and Walker took a free trip as Kurtz pitched him the fourth ball. Goodhart furnished the anti-climax, however, by fanning.

Not until the eighth did Centre Hall do any scoring. In that frame, Welsh fanned, but went first when catcher Benford dropped the third strike. Knarr bunted Welsh to second, and then Walker cracked out a safety, scoring Welsh. Durst, pinch-hitting for Goodhart, whiffed futilely at Kurtz's offerings, Walker in the meantime reaching second. Then Ralph Martz stepped up to the plate and drove in the locals' second and last run for the game, scoring Walker on a single.

A walk, a stolen base, Martz's error, and Kurtz's single in the fourth frame, brought Herman in for the winners' first counter. Two singles, a double and Bradford's misplay scored once again for the Gappers in the fifth, and threatened at least to score two more.

The Pleasant Gap victory parade went on unchecked in the sixth, as Kurtz and White each doubled and Benford laced out a single, adding two more to the winning total. Herman
