

FLETCHER'S NEW DEAL FIGURES MISREPRESENT THE TRUTH

G. O. P. Chairman Rebutted in Republican Press for "Gross Inaccuracies" in Broadcast.

From New England to Oregon Republican editors expressed consternation over bland assertions of Republican National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, in his radio broadcast from Jackson, Michigan, that "The New Deal has cost to date seven billions" and "Congress has authorized the expenditure of at least twenty billions more."

As to the asserted authorization of "at least twenty billions more," Lippmann recited that "the grand total of all authorizations in BOTH sessions of Congress was $18,781,602,792," and "the less than 12, instead of 20," included ordinary expenses for the year 1935, usually four millions in any administration, emergency, relief, normal public works, national debt, veterans, etc., and adds: "The net theoretical authorizations for what by any stretch of the imagination can be called the New Deal are for 1935, something less than six billions."

"Thus in announcing the cost of the New Deal to date," Lippmann concludes, "Mr. Fletcher multiplied the real cost by two and in announcing authorized expenditures for the future he multiplied three times. To misrepresent the financial position of the government at a time like this is a serious business. These fantastic figures cannot represent Mr. Fletcher's own examination of the facts. They were handed to him by Congressman Bolton (chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee), who put them in the Congressional Record of June 27 page 12,940, and they are false and are intended to mislead the public."

He had been missing since last Friday, when he left home carrying a small gun, and informed one of his daughters that he was not coming back, or words to that effect. Death is supposed to have been due to a self-inflicted gunshot wound. The fatal shot may have been one heard by searching parties on Saturday.

GOODHART AND BUNTS WIN 5-2 VICTORY OVER KATO

[By HUGH MORROW, JR.]

Chic Goodhart's hitting and a bunting attack won a 5-2 victory over Kato last Thursday, after Centre Hall had trailed the cellar-occupants of the league 2 to 1 until the sixth, when a four-run rally, altered matters considerably.

After Goodhart had opened the sixth with a double, Bradford, Stover and Knarr each laid down a beautiful bunt, every one of them going for infield hits, and along with Fetteroff's fielder's choice on a bunt, and an error by Kato's catcher, the locals readily scored four times, and threatened a fifth as Fetteroff died on third.

Goodhart led the local batting attack, scoring Centre Hall's first run in the fourth, when he lifted the ball into a swamp bordering the Kato diamond, easily landing around for the circuit.

Durst held Kato to six hits, and fanned twelve of the opposing batters, while the locals shaded the losing team by but one hit, finding Kato's Mr. Hastings for seven safeties.

Hastings faced but three batters an inning for the first three frames, but Goodhart's homer in the fourth soon offset this record. However, the boys from the land of bituminous quickly vindicated Hastings' misfortune, jumping into a one-run lead in the last of the fourth as Stover erred. Stevenson found Durst for a double, and George Calderwood singled.

From then on Durst held the Kato aggregation scoreless, with the aid of a double play worked out by right fielder Goodhart and first-baseman Rimmer.

Wip Stover, who served as backstop for Durst's offerings, was outstanding with the war club along with Goodhart, having a pair of safeties, one of them a bunt, and Bradford, Knarr and Brinninger each singled once.

One of Kato's two runs was unearned as Johnson fanned, but reached first as both Stover and Rimmer fumbled the ball, ultimately scoring when his mates connected.

Seed beds are being prepared for the 1935 wheat crop. The benefits of a well preserved seed bed cannot well be over estimated. The 1936 hay crop is also largely influenced by the care with which the soil is properly prepared, or the lack of it, for the seed to be sown in September.

Robert Dodds and his partner, John Gruenwald, horse dealers, who have been in Centre Hall during the past three weeks or more, returned to their home in South Dakota, Saturday. They had hoped that during their absence rain would fall in their home State to relieve the protracted drought, but no such good fortune came. The gentlemen will return to their farms to witness the most destructive work of nature in all their living in the middle west. Mr. Gruenwald told the "Reporter" that all crops are ruined—a total failure is 1934 for the farmers in their section. When small grain threatened to be a loss, seed for roughage was sown in the hope that at least some coarse feed might be obtained. The several hundred dollars invested in this program has also proved a total loss. Hence the gentlemen returned home in depressed spirits.
