P. S. C. CLARIFIES LAW ON HAULING AUTO PASSENGERS

Because of the large number of requests for information concerning the requirements of the Public Service Company Law as applied to transportation of fellow workmen and fellow students, in private automobiles, the Public Service Commission has authorized the following statement:

"No person may haul passengers as a common carrier between points in Pennsylvania without a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission.

A common carrier is a person who will haul for pay any passengers who desire to ride with him at the time he is willing to make a trip. Whether this is true as to any particular carrier can be determined only in a formal proceeding.

"A person who transports passengers and receives no compensation for such transportation is not a common carrier.

"A person who has permanent arrangements with one or two persons by which he takes them to work with him, or takes them to the school which he is attending, is probably not a common carrier, even though he receives pay from them.

"A person who carries a large number of passengers with him, or carries different persons each day and receives pay for the service, is probably a common carrier. This can be definitely determined only if a complaint is filed against him, and after a hearing before the Commission.

"Such complaint is not likely to be filed unless the passengers are transported along the line of some bus company, or rail carrier which would receive the business if the persons were not carried in private cars.

"No more definite statement can be issued in advance of formal proceedings, as the Commission cannot pre-judge a case which may come before it for determination on complaint."
