LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Edward Durst is preparing to undergo a major operation in the Clearfield hospital, Dr. Waterworth surgeon, in about ten days. She will be kept in bed at her home here until the time for the operation.
Misses Alice Spyster, Roberta Smith and Dollie Hess were week-end guests of friends in State College, the former having been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClellan, and the others by the Fred Bender family.
Report from the Centre County hospital on Wednesday morning was to the effect that Albert Smith has had "a fairly good night." He was taken to the hospital from Centre Hall early Saturday morning and on Monday underwent an appendicitis operation. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Smith, of town.
The apple orchard owned and cared for by Frank Gibson, two miles east of Belleville, will yield a crop of approximately six thousand bushels of sound winter apples, two thousand bushels of which are delicious, and the remainder almost exclusively Staymen. The crop, now being picked, shows ninety-eight per cent. perfect. The continuous annual production of the orchard is attributed largely to the application of nitrate of soda as a fertilizer.
Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McMorrin returned home Sunday night from a two weeks' vacation, the time having been spent principally with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McMorrin, at Ulatzer, this state. The elder McMorrins, on October 2nd, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary, and the occasion prompted the younger people to take "Dad" and "Mother" on a trip to Niagara Falls to bring back memories of two score years ago when then, as today, no honeymoon was complete without a trip to the famous falls.
Frank Phillips, at Potters Mills, is offering his herd of seven cows at private sale. Mr. Phillips, last week, began the construction of a garage at Milroy, on the west side of State highway Route No. 322, at a point between the two bridges on the Milroy cut-off. The structure will be of brick, 30x65 feet dimensions. The concrete floor is already laid. The brick work will be laid by Orvis Hornser. Much of the material, including built-up steel girders and roof supports, has been in storage at Potters Mills for a year or more. Mr. Phillips expects to open a gas station and do general auto repairing.
Harry L. Hulbert, who more than fifty years ago was an apprentice under the late W. A. Sandoe, tailor, with his wife autoed to Centre Hall from their home in San Clemente, California, where he is living retired. When a young man helved with the Slabig family, on the J. C. Boal farm, at Earlystown. He left here in 1885, located in Freeport, Ill., and later in Chicago and Beloit, Wis., establishing an extensive merchant tailoring business at the latter place and retains interests there at this time. He has two sons, one living in Freeport and the other in Beloit. Mr. Hulbert, as is natural, found many changes in Centre Hall and vicinity since his absence.

Deaths

DAUBERMAN.—Although very noticeably falling in health during the past two years, the death of John Goodhart Dauberman, on Friday evening, was as unexpected as it was sudden. He attended to business to within a quarter of an hour of his death. He closed his meat market at ten o'clock, after having spent most of the evening in conversation with those gathered there, who noted his friendly attitude toward subjects spoken of, and improvement in appearance and movement over that of a few days previous. On his way home he delivered a package of meat. On reaching his home he went direct to the bath room, where he was seized with a fit of coughing which attracted Mrs. Dauberman to his side. On reaching him she discovered that he had had an extremely severe hemorrhage from the mouth. She seated him on a chair, and rushed for a physician a few doors distant, but before he arrived life had departed.
Funeral services were held at the home on Tuesday morning by Rev. J. W. Zang, pastor of the Evangelical church, which church was regularly contributed to by the deceased during all of his mature life. Interment was made in the local cemetery.
The deceased was the only son of John S. and Mary E. (Goodhart) Dauberman, and was born on the Dauberman homestead along Sinking creek, east of Centre Hill, which he acquired upon the death of his father. He came to Centre Hall with his parents in 1887. He obtained his education in the schools of Centre Hall and the Penn Hal Academy, and also attended Penn State College when it was called "Farmers High School." Here he took the agricultural course. He began teaching in the public schools at an early age, closing his profession in that line as a teacher in the borough schools. In 1899 he became associated with his father in the undertaking and furniture business, and continued in that business for five years. Later he purchased the Centre Hall meat market and conducted that business up to the time of his death.
A number of years ago he was elected one of the two justices of the peace in the borough, but never made a bid for business. The office, however, furnished him the title of "Squire," and thereafter he was known to young and old as Squire. He was elected to the school board to fill a vacancy, about 1902, and was repeatedly re-elected at municipal elections, holding the office at his death. He served as president and treasurer of the board at various times.
He also served as a councilman some years ago.
"Squire Dauberman was a Democrat, loyal to his party at all times, whether his party was in or out of power. He never sought recognition other than to serve in the capacities named, and as a frequent delegate to county conventions when they were in vogue, their passing into oblivion having been much lamented by him. He always took a lively interest in local elections, and was instrumental in shattering or bringing to fruition the hopes of many a candidate for local honors. This was especially true after nominations were made by petition.
In business he was four-square at all times. He was plain spoken, although most kind and generous. He was the "bank" for and champion of many a lad who grew up here, and though he had an abundance of experience in misplaced confidence, he continued in that role to the end.
He was aged 72 years, 7 months, 2 days. He married Miss Mary Geise, who survives. There are no children. An only sister, Laura M., who became the wife of Charles Knarr, died in 1885, leaving a son, John H. Knarr, of town, who is the nearest living relative.
"MAIZE.—The body of William Rankin Maize was brought to Coburn by train and from there conveyed by Undertaker Neff to the residence of William Gusewite, in Millheim, from where funeral services were held on Wednesday, with burial in the Reformed cemetery, Aaronsburg. He was aged about sixty years, and was a son of A. P. Maize, Millheim. A widow, the father and five sisters survive him. He was employed by a railroad company. His death occurred in a hospital in New York City, but his place of residence was Chicago.

SECOND CONTEST
WINNER SELECTED
Judges Award Prize Lamp to Mrs. C. P. Smith, Bellefonte, in Second Weekly Lighting Contest.
The number of replies received the second week in the contest now being staged by local lamp merchants was even greater than in the first week's competition. And again the selection of the winner hinged largely upon the fifty words that were written by the contestants on the subject of home lighting, inasmuch as the majority of the entrants were able to answer the questions correctly.
The judges, Cecil Walker, C. P. Brachbill and Earl K. Stock also selected the following entrants as worthy of honorable mention: Harry Burd, of Aaronsburg; A. S. Houck, of Bellefonte; L. R. Woodring, of Milesburg, and Fred Rachau, of Aaronsburg.
Keen interest in the "Science of Seeing" has been expressed by several of the contestants. "The lighting contest revealed that scientific knowledge is increasing at an astonishing pace," said one of them. "And it seems that no subject is being left untouched. I have heard much about the health value of preventive chemistry, the science of cooking, the science of shoe fitting, —all of which affect the health. But who would have dreamed that new and important information could be discovered in regard to the question of seeing?"
"It is said that five persons in every ten need glasses—indicating that the majority of us are unknowingly overworking our eyes. The contest reveals how this is being done and tells how to avoid the eyestrain that is one cause of defective vision."
Another local contest is being staged this week. The necessary question blanks and information bulletins are being given out by all merchants who display the "Better Light-Better Sight" posters.

TO WOMEN WHO HATE MENDING
Those headaches that develop after you have finished many a neat darn; those headaches that make you dread mending day, are a direct result of eyestrain. But mending, like many another seeing task, is hard on the eyes only when the light is inadequate.
Now it is easy to prevent eyestrain. A new instrument called the SIGHT METER measures the intensity of light and shows if the lighting conditions in your home may cause eyestrain. Protect your eyes—eliminate those darned headaches. Make a sight meter test in the sewing room. Then measure the light in every other room in the house.
Sight meter tests can be made in a few minutes. They are scientifically accurate. They afford protection for your eyes and for your family's eyes.
There is no charge for a sight meter test.
