

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

William D. Shoop is ill at his home in Centre Hall.

A Young Democratic rally will be held at Hubbersburg, Monday evening, 25th, at 8:00 o'clock.

Frank White, tenant on the Jacob Sharer, Jr., farm, east of town, lost a cow from bloating.

Miss Laura Runkle entertained at bridge last Friday night. Invited guests numbered twenty.

Two notable days in next month are Armistice Day, Sunday November 11, and Thanksgiving, Thursday, 29th.

Tax Collector S. Thomas Swartz will be at the First National Bank, Centre Hall, Saturday evening, during the banking hours.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Richards and daughter Patty, of Altoona, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dutrow, on Sunday.

Mrs. John Luse and daughter Edna, of State College, were slightly injured in an automobile accident near the Evergreens, east of State College, last week.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher, at the Centre County hospital, on Friday. She has been named Peggy Ann. The father is the manager of the Richeleu theatre.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran church of Pine Grove Mills will hold their annual roast chicken supper and bazaar, Saturday evening, October 27th, in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lingle, of near Reedsville, were in town a few days ago. Mr. Lingle reports very good crops on the farm he owns and cultivates, for all of which he is very thankful.

Gross R. Allison, of New Castle, Kentucky, a nephew of Miss Laura Runkle, and a resident here while a youth, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, Louisville, Kentucky, where he is about to undergo a major operation.

The Junior class in the Centre Hall High school, on Friday night, held a "wiener" roast at Brownie's Place, Seven Mountains. The attendance was near or altogether one hundred per cent. It was a beautiful moonlight night and this added to the occasion.

Lester Walker, tenant on the Ellis Parnell farm, at Yarnell, disappeared Monday a week and has not been heard of since. He brought his daughter to the Bellefonte High school on that day, secured his milk check and had it cashed. He has a wife and several children. The State police force is making an effort to locate him.

Elmer E. Martin escaped from the Warren, Ohio, jail previous to the time set for trial on a charge of first degree murder. He escaped from the Bellefonte jail after he had been arrested for participating in the robbery of the Citizens Building and Loan office, Phillipsburg. A reward of $1,000 for his recapture, dead or alive, is offered.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Shultz, of Markleburg, came to the Spyker home on Friday and on returning took with them Mrs. C. A. Spyker and youngest daughter, Ruth, to the home of Mrs. Spyker's mother, Mrs. Sarah Donaldson, where they will remain for a short time. Mrs. John B. Wert, Jr., and daughter Joan are taking care of the Spyker home in the absence of the mother.

The "Glad Girls" held a Halloween masquerade party at the home of Mrs. Florence Brooks, a member, at Rhonemeds farm, on Tuesday evening. The attendance was quite large, each of the girls having had the privilege of inviting a male escort. Most of the young people appeared regaled in keeping with the season, a penalty for not doing so having been previously set. The Brooks home was tastily decorated, and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cloyd Brooks, and the daughter maintained the reputation of Rhonemeds for being one of the most hospitable farm homes in the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. James Searson and daughter Betty, of town, and Mrs. Irvin Stover, of Yeagertown, left here beginning of this month and made an extensive auto trip through Illinois, visiting the Century of Progress Exposition, and then went on to Dupree, South Dakota, where an uncle, Thomas Searson, is engaged in farming; then on to Grand Island, Nebraska, and Omaha, where relatives also were visited, reaching the latter place October 20th. Mr. Searson combined a bit of business with pleasure, and purchased a car load of horses due to arrive here this week and will be offered for sale on Monday, 29th.

Miss Mabel Wright, of Philadelphia, in company with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wright, were weekend guests at the M. A. Burkholder home, west of town. Miss Wright, who is teaching school in Wilmington, Delaware, is a close friend of Miss Ellen Burkholder, assistant dean of women at Penn State. Miss Wright is a Republican committee woman in Philadelphia, but is of the belief that Guffey and Earle will carry Philadelphia regardless of the large Republican majorities heretofore. And although identified with the Republican party she is a New Dealer, and is gratified over the prospects of the heads of the Democratic ticket winning at the next election. That is the attitude of many thousands of Republicans and furnishes the hope of Democratic success in Pennsylvania.

STATE COLLEGE ROTARIANS DINE AT C. H. TUESDAY EVENG

The State College Rotarians, on Tuesday evening, dined at Centre Hall, an elaborate evening dinner having been served them by the members of the Reformed church, in the social room of that church.

After the sumptuous dinner was consumed, the president, Roy Porter, addressed the fellow members, expressing pleasure at Centre Hall occupying or rather forming a beauty spot in the front yard of State College. The speaker made a "crack" in presenting this thought that brought the first laugh of the evening. The speaker then turned the program over to Hon. John L. Holmes, who, Holmes like, was more diplomatic and careful in his short talk in which the kernel was that the group of men had come to Centre Hall to "capture the friendship of its citizens."

Next came Dr. Richard Grant, Dean of the School of Music in Penn State. He led his men in several familiar songs suited to such occasions, and joined Frank Holmes, Birch Ober and William Keller to make up a quartette that entertained with a few selections.

Dr. John H. Frizzell gave three or four readings that were as delightful in sentiment as they were well executed.

Two young men—John Renaldo, a Junior in Penn State, and Sidney Webb, a freshman—exhibited their skill as entertainers, the first on the accordion and the latter beat rhythm with swift movements of the hands. Both received applause other than that extended through courtesy.

With a view of aiding the purpose of the Rotarians coming here, they invited more than a dozen citizens to dine and spend the evening with them. They proved good hosts, and probably Centre Hall will in time become as intimately associated with State College borough as it now is with Pennsylvania State College.

STORK VISITS CENTRE HALL; DROPS TWO—BOY AND GIRL

The stork, that most wonderful bird, flew over town a few days ago, dropping two babies—one boy, one girl. He also visited a young mother, formerly of Centre Hall, now of Marietta.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Weaver, on Monday.

The second daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Vogt, on Monday. The young Miss weighed nine and one-fourth pounds, on arrival, very early in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Spangler, at Marietta, on Monday, became the parents of a daughter, who was billed at seven and one-half pounds. Mrs. Spangler, the mother, was formerly Miss Margaret Luse, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Luse of town.

CLOSE DECISION IN AWARD OF ELECTRIC LAMP PRIZE

At a meeting yesterday which lasted several hours, the three judges in the lighting contest which is being sponsored by a group of local merchants, reviewed the large number of replies, and almost came to no decision. A second session was avoided, however, when minor details of the answers were carefully weighed and considered, the result being that Miss Martha W. Geiss, of Bellefonte, was adjudged the winner.

Cecil Walker, one of the judges, made this statement: "The 'Better Light—Better Sight' contest is one of widespread appeal. This is evidenced by the fact that replies are coming in not only from the younger members of the community but from adults as well. The Science of Seeing is indeed a fascinating subject, with surprises for the contestants at every turn. Being a contestant is, well worth the time, if only from an educational viewpoint."

Messrs. C. P. Brachbill and Earl K. Stock, the other two judges, were each asked to name one of the "surprising facts" with regard to human vision, as revealed by the contest. Mr. Brachbill said: "If as many people had crippled legs as have crippled eyes, fifty persons out of every one hundred would be hobbling around on crutches."

Mr. Stock then gave this as another of the strange facts brought out: "The average golfer prefers to play when the sun is shining. Yet he sits down at home to read, in light that, if it were out of doors, would be too little to distinguish a golf ball even a short distance away—and doesn't realize the strain he places on his eyes."

SCHNADER IN 1931 TRIED TO STARVE MEN WHOSE VOTES HE NOW SEEKS

In December, 1931, during the darkest days of the Hoover Administration, there were 1,250,000 unemployed men and women in Pennsylvania. In addition to these there were 2,500,000 dependent children, all of whose condition was desperate. Pinchot called a special session of the legislature for unemployed relief. Immediately the Talbot bill, calling for $10,000,000 for relief, was offered. William A. Schnader, then as now, Attorney General, ruled the Talbot bill "unconstitutional" because it appropriated money for "charitable" purposes. Governor Pinchot was so advised, and refused to sign the bill, but fearing popular protest permitted it to become a law without his approval.

Schnader then ordered the Secretary of Welfare to refrain from making disbursement of the fund. He carried his case from the lower to the highest State court, but the courts ignored his arguments by declaring the measure constitutional.

This is the same Schnader who now wants to be elected Governor of Pennsylvania. He wants the votes of the same people now he tried to starve by court rulings, had the courts listened to his arguments. Schnader's action on this question alone should make every Republican voter revolt.

FALL PRACTICES BEST IN CORN BORER FIGHT

Centre county corn growers are reminded that the most effective work in reducing corn borer damage can be done in the fall. With an infestation twice as great this year as last Centre county is one of the danger spots on the corn borer map, according to County Agent R. C. Blaney.

Four essentials in the control work are given as follows: (1) Low cutting of corn; (2) thorough cleaning of borders of corn fields preferably by burning; (3) complete turn-over and covering of corn stubble; (4) complete destruction before June 1 each year of all corn stalks and other infested material about the farmstead.

Borers move down in the stalks during the fall. In order to prevent any large number of the borers from wintering in the stubble, the corn should be cut as soon as it is mature and just as low as possible.

Running the stalks into a silo is the best control measure. The borers are killed either by the knives of the ensilage cutter or through the heating and fermentation processes in the silo.

Corn not made into ensilage, or stover usually fed whole should be shredded. Very few borers come thru the shredder alive. The best and most efficient way is to husk the ears and shred the stalks at one operation. The cutting box and the ensilage can be used if a shredder is not available provided the cut pieces of stalks are not more than one-half inch long.

Where corn has been topped this fall, the danger of borers working their way down in the remaining portion

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The members of the orders of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will hold a masquerade party on Monday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Daniel Bohr, tenant on the Brockerhoff farm, south of Old Fort, was among the first to plant corn last spring and this fall was among the first to have completed husking the crop, which summed up to 2000 bushels of fine quality golden ears. This is an unusual crop of corn for that farm and is due largely to Danny being a good farmer. Mr. Bohr also harvested a good oats and wheat crop.

Saturday evening, two High school girls were injured while walking on the highway between Aaronsburg and Millheim when hit a glancing blow by a car driven by Lowell Stover, Haines township. Miss Elaine Stover, one of the girls, had the right leg broken above the ankle, and her companion, Miss Viola Harter, received injuries on the body of less consequence. Mr. Stover was in the act of passing a car when the accident happened.

On Sunday noon W. W. Kerlin received a telegram from his mother in St. Petersburg, Fla., stating his father, A. E. Kerlin, was dangerously ill from pneumonia and that he should come South at once. He immediately engaged Sherman Lutz, of State College, to come here and pick him up by plane and take him to Washington, D. C., which he did. At Washington a second plane was taken, which landed him within two hundred miles of St. Petersburg, early Monday morning. The last part of the trip was made by auto, arriving at the Kerlin home at 8:00 a. m. where he learned his father had died five hours earlier. An account of the death appears elsewhere in this issue.
