

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Ed. L. Bartholomew, of Altoona, arrived at the home of his brother, C. D. Bartholomew, Tuesday forenoon.

Harry W. Dinges was in town for a few hours Wednesday, having accompanied a party here from the Evangelical Home, Lewisburg, where he lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Arney are entertaining Mrs. Arney's uncle, Walter Stahlsmith, of Lock Haven. He is a retired P. R. R. tower man and is now on pension.

Mrs. Edward Durst was taken to the Clearfield hospital Sunday and the following day underwent a major operation. Her condition since has been most encouraging.

Public school teachers of Pennsylvania should remember that 10 per cent salary cut Governor Pinchot gave them. He didn't cut State employees paid in higher bracket salaries.

The Centre Hall Choral Club, under the direction of Mrs. Alberta Krader will begin a winter season of singing, Monday night, November 12, in the local High school building. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Kryder Frank and Mrs. Paul Fetterolf accompanied E. A. Frank to Bellefonte on Friday and while the latter attended institute, the others were guests of Mrs. Ernest Benner, sister of the former and aunt of Mrs. Fetterolf.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Alexander and daughter, Miss Margaret Alexander, motored to Wrentham, N. J., the latter part of last week, returning home on Tuesday evening. While in New Jersey they were at the home of H. O. Alexander and family.

Guy W. Jacobs made a hurried visit to the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs, on Saturday, and the following day returned to his home in Steubenville, Ohio. He still displays a pronounced limp from a foot injury several months back.

Frank A. Carson, a Potter township Justice of the Peace, has been confined to bed for more than a week, but is now improving. His illness began with a blood pressure much above normal. The Reporter hopes he will be able to again overcome the attack.

Reuben Page, Oak Hall Station, is held in $500 bail for appearance in court for hitting a car operated by Miss Beatrice Bosman, of Youngstown, Ohio, while under the influence of liquor. The damage to the car totals over $100. The accident occurred Monday morning, near Bellefonte.

The late A. E. Kerlin had declared St. Petersburg, Florida, his home, consequently his will was probated in that State after having been sent here for the identification of his signature. Mrs. Kerlin was named executrix, but arranged for her son, W. W. Kerlin, to act in her place.

The Public Service Commission has authorized the Borough of State College to buy the State College Water company, a private corporation, placing its value at $235,481. The question now is to secure the method of issue bonds requires the sanction of the voters, and the other method—giving the plant as security—is not so popular a method to adopt.

Miss Louise Vogt, of Danville, has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Vogt since the birth of the couple's second daughter, about two weeks ago. Miss Vogt is a delightful young woman and was one of a few strangers who participated in the masquerade party staged by the members of the orders of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, on Monday evening.

A party who motored to Altoona the latter part of last week was Mrs. Harry McClenahan, with her son Jack at the wheel, Miss Margaret and Harry McClenahan, and Mrs. Oliver Strunk. While in that city they were guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. J. J. Hemmis, and on their return brought with them Virginia Hemmis, who will remain with the grandparents for some time.

William P. Campbell spent several days last week at the Ohio State University, Columbus, with the Penn State Stock Judging team, of which he is a member. The team, consisting of juniors and seniors, won second place in the contest. Ohio State took first honors.

Mrs. W. A. Odenkirk, who has been ill for the past week, is somewhat improved.

Tuesday evening the members of the Young People's Missionary society connected with the Lutheran church were guests of one of their members, Mrs. Harold Durst. At the gathering the Halloween spirit prevailed. The cellar of the incomplete home of Mr. and Mrs. Durst having been prepared and decorated for the occasion, was the place of assembly. The evening was very pleasantly and profitably spent, a portion of the program having had a missionary field setting.

The first snap of cold rough fall weather preceding the 1934-1935 winter was experienced Saturday and Sunday, when there was considerable fall of snow. Although much of the snow, which came down in huge flakes, melted as it fell, the ground nevertheless was covered with a coat of the beautiful an inch deep from Saturday afternoon to the middle of Monday afternoon. The wind came from the northeast on Sunday, and this means an exceedingly cold, raw air.

HOLMES URGES MORE ECONOMY.
Our personal and governmental problems today have mainly a financial basis. Economy and conservation in expenditure of tax money is essential. Only magicians can draw showers of coins from unexpected places and apparently burn up paper money in bewildering but friendly deception. I cannot compete with such performances and might just as well admit my limitations.

Through economy during the 1933 session we were able to make a reduction of approximately $50,000,000 for each biennium, averaging an annual

CCC CAMP 62, SEVEN MTS., VISITED BY NATIONAL FIGURES
The 361st National Camps S-62, CCC at the head of Stone Creek, Seven Mountains, commanded by Arthur T. Eaker, of Muncy, was, as the aftermath of a big Democratic political meeting in Lewistown, October 29th, honored on Sunday, by a visit of a group of distinguished guests, consisting of John Dickenson, assistant secretary of commerce, Washington, D. C.; Secretary Dickenson's assistant, George Woodward; Everett Kent, former member of Congress; John A. Amig, Jr., deputy collector of Internal Revenue, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; Lowell Alexander, a candidate for member of Assembly in Mifflin county; B. Stiles Dunkin, a candidate for member of Congress; Chas. W. Noble, Democratic county chairman; Da Mack Dahlen, Democratic State Committeeman; Frank Kozicki, president of the Lewistown Democratic Club; A. Reed Hayes, H. B. McMeen and Allen A. Orr, Lewistown; Willis Cooiland, secretary of Lewistown City Committee and Charles Nagney, a former member of the Democratic State Committee, together with many others prominent in local and national political affairs.

These men, headed by Assistant Secretary Dickenson, made a very thorough inspection of the camp during their visit and Secretary Dickenson and the men who accompanied him were all loud in their praise of what had been accomplished at Camp S-62, in Centre county, under Capt. Eaker's command.

The camp site has been beautified—hundreds of evergreens have been planted, hundreds of feet of rock wall have been laid, many crushed lime stone paths have been built, and an artificial pond is now being constructed. The public is invited to inspect the camp, access to which may be had by the road leading west from Sunset Club house, or by the new road leading west on entering Boal Gap, near Colyer.

F. P. HOAG WINS THE FINAL LIGHTING PRIZE
The four-week lighting contest, sponsored by Bellefonte lamp merchants, came to a close last Saturday night. Announcement was made today by Judges Cecil Walker, C. P. Brachbill and Earl K. Stock, that the winner in the final competition is F. P. Hoag, of Bellefonte.

The purpose of the contest was to acquaint the community with development in America's newest science, the "Science of Sealing." In order to do so this a special information bulletin was issued which told the complete story. Contestants were then required to answer a list of ten pertinent questions, the tenth question, in reality, consisting of a fifty-word essay on a specified phase of home tax savings of at least $2.30 for every man, woman and child in the State. This good work must continue. Our Democratic friends with their cry for economy and governmental economy is not substantiated by the action of the party in Washington or the Democrats in the last regular session of the State Legislature, despite the Democratic opposition to the reduction in cost of the State government. The Republican majority, without resorting to any increased taxation, excepting the new beer and liquor revenues—has provided:

$87,000,000 for unemployment relief, 4,000,000 for old age assistance, 1,310,000 for pensions for the blind,

35,000,000 for welfare, including mothers' assistance, hospitals, homes, and similar institutions,

3,500,000 for health, including sanatoria for the tubercular and hospital for crippled children,

77,000,000 for public education, including public schools and higher educational institutions,

5,000,000 additional for relief of financially distressed school districts.

I supported all these bills. I voted NO on the Child Labor Amendment, known as the Twenty-second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. I could not do otherwise. When I read the bill it plainly stated: "Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the work of persons under eighteen years of age. No exceptions even to farmers' children, and I believe it would attack our government at its foundation, that is, the home, the school and the church.

If reflected, I make this promise without reservation, I will do my best for reduction in the cost of government by the elimination of wasteful, careless and extravagant expenditures, the application of more efficient and economical business methods and procedure, and the elimination or consolidation of useless and overlapping divisions, bureaus, positions, etc.

The reports being circulated that I will receive a pension for life are entirely false and a reflection on the intelligence of the people of Centre county. I have always been much interested in the grange, labor and all industries, and very anxious to give all people a square deal.

The Democratic press criticise the way I voted on many bills. Why did they not criticise me for sponsoring and having passed and signed a bill, an amendment to the prison bill, whereby Centre county taxpayers saved about $2,500 a year? Also, for sponsoring and having passed and signed a bill reducing the salary of the legislators from $3,000 a biennium to $2,500, thereby saving the taxpayers of Pennsylvania $129,000 each bi-lighting. Each winner was awarded one of the new table lamps that have been developed and approved by the Illuminating Engineering Society for relieving and minimizing eye strain and fatigue.

The new "Science of Sealing," which has drawn the active interest of the country's best known authorities in the optical and home lighting fields, had its origin a few months ago when close students of the subject instituted an inquiry into the question: (1) "To what extent does defective vision impair health and destroy human energy?" and (2) "How can lighting be improved to lessen eye strain?"
