John H. Bitner, of Pottery Mills, is visiting with friends in Altoona at this time.

Russell Slack was called to Lewis-town Friday and Saturday began work at the Viscose plant.

Obeying his physician's orders to remain at home on Sunday, Rev. S. F. Greenhoe did not appear at any of his three appointments.

E. L. Bartholomew and daughter, Mary Helen, of Altoona, were guests at the Bartholomew home on Saturday.

There was a liberal sprinkling of the Mifflin county Amish folk among the crowd of horse buyers at Monday's sale in Centre Hall.

W. L. Jacobs was confined to bed for a few days from an extremely bad cold, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobs, in Centre Hall.

Miss Betty Ebricht, of Centre Hall, has been named manager of the sophomore girls' basketball team at The Pennsylvania State College, where she is a student.

Messrs. Herbert J. Stover, auctioneer in lower Penna Valley, and John Slack, prominent young Penn township farmer, were Reporter callers on Monday.

Misses Vivian Doty and Catharine Bender, of State College, were among the young people—school girls—to attend the senior class play Saturday evening, in Grantville hall.

The Pennsylvania Game News reports that for the month of November Centre county trappers obtained $302.68 in bounties for noxious animals. Foxes, 52; weasels, 79; goshawks, 3.

Charles Bloom, 5 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bloom, living on the Bartholomew farm, west of Centre Hall, is recovering from an illness of several weeks duration. For a time he had had an exceptionally high temperature.

George Rimmey, local garageman, accompanied a Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. bowling team to Harrisburg where they competed with an Altoona Y. M. C. A. team, and won. Bowling is one of Rimmey's chief sports during the winter months.

The B. D. Brislin property on Water street, recently sold to Max Herr for $225, was resold by him through Squire C. W. Slack to J. K. Confer, of Georges Valley, for $255. Clarence Confer, son of the new owner of the place, expects to move into it.

The application of the County Commissioners to reconstruct the dam across Bald Eagle creek, Boggs township, and the reconstruction of the dam across Bald Eagle creek, Liberty township, have been approved by the Water and Power Resources Board.

Two inches of snow greeted both the early and late risers on Sunday. By noon much of it had disappeared, and by evening there was a decided downward trend in temperature. Monday opened with everything gripped in a freeze and snow squalls were the order of the day.

Rev. D. R. Keener and Daniel Daup captured six of the prizes offered by the Spring Mills Fish and Game Association at one of its "shoots" given Friday night of last week. Mr. Daup came home with two first and two third prizes, while the former was content with a first and second.

Mrs. Della Reiber and two daughters, Misses Mary and Ruth Reiber, spent the week-end at Carlisle, where they attended the twelfth annual regimental ball held at the non-commissioned officers' club, of which Lieut. William B. Reiber is a member. Accompanying the ladies was Charles Meyer, a Penn State senior.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran church gave a Valentine social to the ladies of the church on Wednesday evening, in the Sunday school room. The affair was well attended. A short program was executed by members of the Young People's Society, after which refreshments were served.

William Gruenwald had a bit of hard luck in his last shipment of horses from South Dakota to Centre Hall. At Chicago an animal went down and subsequently died. This resulted in a 24-hour delay, and the horses did not arrive at Bellefonte until Saturday p. m. That night they were trucked to Centre Hall. Since the sale was held Monday, Mr. Gruenwald was unable to have the horses in their usual splendid condition at time of sale.

The Winter Haven Daily Chief, published in Winter Haven, Florida, in a recent issue printed a picture of Miss Bettie Runkle, daughter of the late Calvin Runkle, and granddaughter of John Runkle, deceased, a former sheriff of Snyder county. The young lady, who is living in Florida with her mother, was selected from among twenty-four contestants as Queen of the 1935 Florida Orange Festival. She is a second cousin of Miss Laura Runkle, Centre Hall.

So heavy is the demand for Chevrolet automobiles that dealers are finding it impossible to get from the manufacturers anything like the number for which they have orders. Last week a trailer appeared in town with four new Chevrolets but only one car was dropped off here for the Miller Motor Co., disappointing a number of customers who were waiting for their new cars. While such a condition is unfortunate, it nevertheless has a sound ring to it, for it clearly indicates that financial and business recovery are under way.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Up to Wednesday noon there were no indications of a change of postmasters at Centre Hall.

The parents of Keith Daniel Luse are rightfully boasting of the fine development the youth is making.

Prof. Harold B. Shattuck and sister, Miss Shattuck, were guests on Tuesday at the Jacobs home.

Gilbert Neff, Millheim undertaker, purchased the Paul Byers property, in Millheim, at Sheriff's sale, paying $2250 for the same.

George Michael, who had been living in Niles, Michigan, since the fall of 1932, arrived here on Tuesday, and will again locate at Woodward.

The siren shipped here by a western firm on trial was tried out on Tuesday, but was declared not efficient and consequently was returned to the dealer.

At a meeting of the directors of the First National Bank, Centre Hall, on Tuesday evening, it was decided to improve the heating facilities of their building by installing a stoker system.

Miss Helen Neff, a Penn State graduate, came down from Wellsboro for a week-end visit with her mother, Mrs. C. R. Neff, near town. Miss Neff is engaged in extension work in Tioga county.

W. W. Kerlin, of the Kerlin poultry farm, and several poultrymen from Penn State, were in Harrisburg on Tuesday, having been attracted there by legislation affecting the poultry business being before the House or Senate.

Miss Betty Ebricht, a sophomore at Penn State, will attend a Lutheran Young People's conference to be held in Philadelphia over the week-end. She has been delegated to do so by the State College Lutheran Sunday school.

The recommendations for appointment to the positions held by forest ranger Brooks and that filled at the time of his death by W. F. McKinney, continue to hang fire. At least that was the report from a reliable source on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. R. R. Finkle, at Mifflinburg, recently entertained Miss Ruth Smith, of Bellefonte, now teaching in the State College public schools, and Miss Verna Rowe, an operator in the Bell telephone exchange here. The trio during their school days were chums while they lived in Centre Hall.

As has been announced heretofore in these columns, the Rebekah lodge will hold a card party tomorrow (Friday) night in the rooms of the Odd Fellows building. The admission charge is 25 cents. The Orphans' Home in Sunbury will be the organization to profit from the net receipts. This fact will no doubt have a tendency to attract many members of the two organizations—the Rebekahs and the Odd Fellows.

Farmers are beginning to feel the better conditions prevailing among them strong enough to speak of it. The beginning of content is reflected in the scarcity of clean-up sales, while stock sales continue. A further evidence is the small number of shifts among tenant farmers, unless occasioned through the sale of property, deaths, or stated reasons. Among the number of farmers who gave expression to these ideas was James Hoyer, of Old Fort, who ranks among the younger tenants.

The Areme Club, made up of officers of the Eastern Star, was entertained on Monday evening by Mrs. R. S. Hagan and Mrs. Stanley Brooks, at the home of the former. Eight of the members were present, namely, Mrs. D. R. Keener, Mrs. C. M. Watts, Mrs. T. G. McQueen, Mrs. Hattie Hinds, Mrs. J. F. Wetzel, Mrs. Clayton Homan, and the hosts, about one-half of the members. The name of the club—Areme—is a coined word, made up of the first letter of the title of the five leading officers in the Eastern Star.

How to Help Uncle Sam Capture Extortionists

Local officials of the Bell Telephone Company point out that by calling "National 7117," anyone receiving a kidnap threat can start the entire anti-kidnaping machinery of the United States Government into action. "National 7117" is the telephone number of the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the Bureau of Investigation of the U. S. Department of Justice. No matter where the recipient of an extortionist's letter, telegram or telephone call lives, he should immediately apprise the Justice Department by calling this number. Local or regional agents of the Department will at once be directed from Washington to begin an intensive, unremitting hunt for the extortionist and his accomplices.

HER EYES NEED GOOD LIGHTING

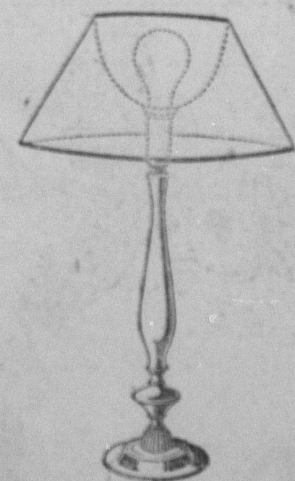

... And Now Good Lighting Will Cost Less Than Ever!

IT doesn't take many months for a busy stenographer to write a million characters in her notebooks. And as she transcribes, she must use her eyes intently. Her day after day task is typical of the strain modern conditions put upon our eyes.

The Better Light—Better Sight movement throughout the country has centered attention on the need for good lighting to protect our eyesight.

The three qualities we should look for in the lighting at our offices and homes are: freedom from glare ... good general illumination in the room ... and enough light focused directly on the task at hand.

Check your home lighting! We will gladly furnish a Sightmeter for this purpose ... and make specific lighting suggestions. Better Light means Better Sight.
