

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

MAKE CHEESE AT HOME—Surplus milk can be used in making American cheese at home. Any whole milk that is perfectly sweet and has no obnoxious flavors can be made into good cheese. Directions may be obtained from your county agent.

REDUCE CHICK LOSSES—Since the Grow Healthy Pullet program was started in Pennsylvania, summaries each year show that cooperators lose, on the average, fewer chicks hatched prior to May 1 than those hatched after that date.

EXAMINE BEFORE PRUNING—Each grower is urged to examine their orchards before pruning to determine the extent of injuries by freezing. The pruning should then be planned accordingly.

AVOID SEEDLING INJURY—Under certain soil conditions red copper oxide used as a treatment to prevent damping off may injure some crops, such as broccoli, carrots, celery, parsley, and turnips. Injury from the dust will be reduced by planting the treated seeds in soil having a good supply of humus and keeping the moisture supply of the soil fairly high for 2 to 4 days after planting.

WORK YOUNG HORSES—Well-brown 2-year-old colts can be broken and put to work. If given some advantage on the eveners and in some cases by alternating, working each of two colts a half-day while the other horses work a full day, it is possible to get along with them and to sell one more mature animal.

POLLINATE WITH BOUQUETS—Extension demonstrations in Pennsylvania during the last four years have proved that the use of bouquets is entirely practical where inadequate cross-pollination previously has been responsible for low yields of apples.
