Except on heavy limestone ridges, corn is coming up nicely.

The Woman's Club of Pleasant Gap will hold a festival Saturday evening.

Dairymen are invited to look over the rich pasture the herd of cattle on the W. F. Bradford farm, at Old Fort, are feeding. It is sweet clover, and needed little preparation of the soil prior to seeding.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Simmonds and son, Philip, of Altoona, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kerlin, on Sunday. Philip and William Kerlin, Jr., are planning to chum together at a camp in Indiana for a few weeks later in the summer.

John W. Hazlett, representing himself as a clothing salesman, fleeced a large number of Penn State students by taking an order, receiving a down payment, and failing to make delivery. He was captured in Flint, Mich., and brought back to State College where a hearing is set for June 21.

Daniel Smith, formerly treasurer of Union county, died in Washington, D. C., aged 83 years. The body was interred in the Laurelton cemetery, near where he had lived for many years. Mr. Smith was a Government employee and was on the retirement list with pension.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Raehau of Farmers Mills, were in town on Friday, and made a business call at the Reporter office. The couple began farming a bit over a year ago on the farm belonging to Mrs. Samuel Raehau, mother of the young man, and are getting along very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Bringer, of McClure, formally announce the birth of a daughter, on June 5th. She has been named Patricia June. The mother will be recalled as Miss Cherry Jodon, and the father is a former member of the Centre Hall high school faculty and later of Jonnstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Jacobs and children arrived here from their home in Steubenville, Ohio, late Friday, and until Monday were with Mr. Jacobs' mother, Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs. The trip was made at this particular time to afford Mr. Jacobs an opportunity to attend the 25th anniversary of his graduating class from Penn State.

During the latter part of the week a large number of State employees were appointed, dismissed or resigned in these departments: Military, banking, agriculture, public instruction, revenue, highway and highway patrol. There was not an appointment, nor a dismissal or resignation, affecting Centre county; no, not one.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Keller with the former's brother, Rev. John H. Keller, and sister, Mrs. F. M. Fisher, as guests, motored to New Bloomfield, on Monday, leaving Rev. Keller with a fellow minister at that place. Rev. Keller and his host will attend a meeting of the synod of the Reformed Church, at Frederick City, Md., from which place the former will go on to his home in China Grove, N. C.

Messrs. T. A. Hosterman and Earl Frazier, Centre Hall, and Lloyd Kerlin, Harrisburg, on Sunday a week went to Havre de Grace, Md., and Monday and Tuesday following engaged in trolling for any game fish footh enough to take spoon bait or some form of spinning tackle, with or without a live lure. Their success was not so great, but they had the satisfaction of catching as many fish as any others who fished in the same way.

A herd of Guernsey Cows developed through breeding from purebred sires are attracting considerable attention in a pasture lot on the Colyer farm east of Old Fort. The animals are the property of George W. Ralston and comprise nineteen cows, all in milk at this time, a few due to freshen shortly, eleven head of young cattle and two bulls. All the herd, except the bulls, is made up of grades. The animals are uniform in color, well formed, and the cows good producers. The average test is four and above.

On driving through Greens Valley the other day, Forest Ranger Brooks, approached a grouse, or mountain pheasant, which appeared not to make any effort to get out of the way of the car. This unusual performance of a grouse caused Mr. Brooks to make an investigation, and it was not until he was about to pick up the bird that it slowly flew away, evidently having been released from the fangs of a rattlesnake. The snake lay coiled on the spot the bird left, and as it started to crawl, one stroke with a shovel completely decapitated the reptile. How the bird was held was not observed for Mr. Brooks had no thought of picking up the prey of a rattler.

C. A. Rice and daughter, Miss Rebecca, of Fairfax Va., were callers on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Fisher. Their friendship was formed about 1910 when Mr. Rice was a young man, and on traveling through Centre county engaged as a farm hand with William Shinkbine at Penn Hall. He was ambitious and desiring a better education decided to take a short dairy course at Penn State, which he did. He is now conducting a stock farm and dairy of thirty cows, shipping the milk to Washington, D. C. He is a breeder of Guernsey cattle, and also a dealer in registered cattle. His mission here was to attend a reunion of his class at Penn State, Miss Rebecca, by the way, is also seeking a college education and is a sophomore in Holland College, Va.
