

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Harry W. Dinges, a guest at the Evangelical Home in Lewisburg, on Monday came to Centre Hall to spend the day among old friends in his former home town.

Mrs. Lou M. Gilbert, of Johnstown, mother of Mrs. F. D. Goodhart, was taken to Lock Haven by Mr. and Mrs. Goodhart, where she has since been employed.

Hale Ross, of Linden Hall, has been at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Durst, in town, for some time. His physical condition is not as good as desired on the part of his family.

Frank White, report has it, is looking about for a larger farm than the one he is now located on. He is at present living on the Jacob Sharer, Jr., farm east of town, along State Highway route 95.

Corporal M. L. Kauffman, a well-known State Highway patrolman, underwent an appendectomy in a private hospital in Lock Haven, on Sunday. His condition since is reported as very favorable.

Mrs. Grace Breon is at her home here and will remain until Penn State opens for the 1935-1936 college year, when she will again return to State College to take charge of one of the many fraternities in the town.

Mr. and Mrs. James Foust, of town, Mr. and Mrs. John Graden and John Graden, Sr. of Spring Mills, on Sunday motored to Sunbury where they dined on strawberry shortcake at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gilbert, a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Jodon and children, Catharine and Bobby, of Millheim, with the former's mother, Mrs. F. V. Jodon, as a guest, motored to McClure, on Sunday, where they visited with Mrs. Hughes Brinsinger, the chief attraction being the latter's baby daughter.

Mrs. Catharine Harpster Moore and Miss Lizzie Harpster, of Harrisburg, visited at the Arney home, coming there from Boalsburg where they were entertained by Mrs. Ella Barr, also a Harpster, and like the other sisters named was reared in Centre Hall.

On Monday afternoon Rev. D. R. Keener left for Camp Mensch Mill, in Berks county, to attend a conference of Classical Committee on Christian Education of the Eastern Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church. At Selvingrove he was joined by Rev. E. G. Kline, another member of the Classical Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Hironimus and children, on Sunday, motored to Woodward, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pressler, uncle and aunt of the former. While there during the evening six deer came into a field nearby and began feeding. The Presslers report that he's numbering as many as twenty-six come into a pasture lot at times. The Pressler place is located at Ingley Gap.

On Friday, Perry H. Luse, while working on one of the buildings on the Huyett farm, west of town, fell from the scaffold and injured his right leg, the leg the bone in which was badly shattered more than a year ago when it was struck by a falling tree. The injuries sustained on Friday consist of bruises and light lacerations, the results from which are not yet fully determined, but it is hoped they will not be serious.

In an automobile drive over large portions of Centre, Mifflin and Snyder counties during the latter part of last week, observation revealed the prospects for a hay crop much below that desired by the farmers. Everywhere there is a fine set of grass clover and alfalfa, but it has attained insufficient length to produce a profitable crop. Alfalfa is being cut, and but one field in view presented the appearance of what an alfalfa field should be.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Lingle and two lovely young daughters, of Kennett Square, who had been in town for a few days, returned to their home Sunday afternoon. Mr. Lingle recently signed a two-year contract to manage the Homestead Dairy Farm, at Salisbury, Md., and is now on the farm getting his bearings. About the first of the month the family will move onto the farm. The business conducted by Mr. Lingle in the Philadelphia suburban town, has been leased.

The first week's activities of the Community Daily Vacation Church School came to a close on Friday with a general staff conference, held in the Reformed church at 11:15 a. m. It was announced in the conference that the registration of pupils for the first week was 151. Two additional workers were reported added to the staff—Miss Elsie Andrews, helper in the Junior Department, and Miss Bertha Bradford, helper in the Beginners Department. Plans were perfected for the conduct of the school during the following week. Visitors are always welcome.

The Mutual Fire Insurance Company Association of Pennsylvania began its 1935 session at noon Tuesday for a three-day period, at Lancaster. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell were present at the opening session and remained until the closing session today (Thursday). Of course, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Mitchell attended the Women's Auxiliary, of which the former is the president. The ladies have an elaborate program, and indulge in various forms of entertainment, sight-seeing trips through the city, and banquets.

LOCALS.

Christ Durst was confined to bed for a few days during last week from a severe attack of lumbago.

On Saturday, Joseph Wagner, of Bellefonte, left for Little Rock, Ark., by plane. He met his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Y. Wagner, at that point, intending to bring them home. While touring through Arkansas, the Wagner car was wrecked, resulting in a compound fracture of the bones in the left arm at two places.

The Grove family will hold its twenty-seventh reunion on Gange Park on Saturday, 22nd inst. The business meeting will be held at 11:00 a. m., followed by a basket picnic in the pavilion. From 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. is the time for organized play for the children, including special music and social activities, followed by reports from the various families represented.

The residence of D. M. Bradford is being repainted in white and will have a touch of green at the windows. The F. M. Fisher home is also booked for repainting on the exterior; that is, the woodwork only. Another structure to have exterior woodwork retouched is the Reporter building the property of the First National bank. The large porch on the W. H. Homan residence is being repainted in white. George Long is doing the artistic work.

Marilyn, aged about one year, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller, living near the P. E. R. station, got mixed up with fighting dogs and was bitten on the left arm below the elbow. The child was at her home, standing in a doorway, when the family dog and another cur got into a scrap and ran into the Keller home. The tot was knocked over, and one of the dogs in its fighting mood nipped her in the arm. The wound was at once given professional attention, and to date there are no ill effects visible.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spangler, of Park Ridge, Ill., are in the valley among friends, their first visit here in four years. Mr. Spangler is a son of the late W. W. Spangler, and has been in Chicago for a number of years, employed by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in the capacity of Chief of the Tariff Bureau. Mrs. Spangler, before marriage, was Miss Wilkinson. The couple are making their headquarters at Pottery Mills. Mr. Spangler, although not in full sympathy with the Roosevelt New Deal, is convinced that business is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rhodes and children, of Bellefonte, were recent guests of Mrs. Rhodes' sister, Mrs. George L. Goodhart, on the Goodhart homestead south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Marshall and son William, also, Samuel Nearhood, all of State College, came to Centre Hall and took with them Mrs. Sarah E. Smith, aunt of Mrs. Marshall, and then went on to Vicksburg where they were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Noll.

Both Mrs. James Searson and daughter, Betty, have had serious attacks of tonsillitis. Later both Betty's ears became affected and required the use of a lancet. She was treated at a private hospital in Lewisburg. Both the patients are improving at present, but are by no means rid of their afflictions.

Word on Wednesday morning from the sick chamber of N. B. Spangler, Esq., was to the effect that he had had a good night and was sitting up at the time of inquiry, all of which will be most agreeable news to the Reporter readers. Mr. Spangler is one of the older attorneys at the Centre county bar and has been in not the best of physical condition during the past few months.

Mrs. Joseph Brooks, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived at Bellefonte on Sunday where she was met by her father-in-law, W. S. Brooks, and was brought to his home in Centre Hall. From here Mrs. Brooks went to Linden Hall to be with her father, John Carper, one of the oldest residents in that section. She will remain in the valley to the end of this month, and on returning home expects to take Mr. Brooks with her for an extended visit.

JUNE

Never yet have we thrown rice at a blushing bride or tied a can to the departing taxi without wondering what the half-frightened little creature would make of the man she has promised to obey.

The best that we could wish for this year's crop of brides is that they may appreciate the seriousness of the responsibility which they have assumed and that they may not only sense the power which they possess but that they may be given the wisdom to wield it wisely.

May we suggest to the bride that she see that all valuable papers and other treasured articles are safely placed in a safe deposit box and that a start is made to build a substantial bank account. Both are wise for the bride of this June or of forty June's ago.
