Small Boy Had Found Perfectly Safe Place

It was the evening rush hour. An intensive throng, regardless of everything but their desire to get home as soon and as best they could, streamed the various entrances to the subway, elevated trains as they pulled into the central city stations.

The stroller was standing in the vestibule of the last car of the train. All seats, aisles and corners were crammed with humanity, a soothing mass. At Eighth street the door opened to permit a few more to crowd in. A transit employee helped by shoveling them along.

"Cut that pushing! There's a little boy here. Ain't you got any better sense?" This from an irate father, who was trying to shield his boy from the straggling mass.

The child, undismayed by all this anxiety and turbulence, smiled at his father.

"Don't worry, daddy; they can't hurt me."

He had crawled under the overhang of his father's stomach.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Samoan Tattooing
The art of tattooing still thrives in the Samoan Islands where the natives tattoo their bodies from the hip to the knee. A tattooer's profession is very lucrative. His instruments resemble combs and are made of human bones of different sizes. The operation takes from two to three months during which time a patient remains in the same retired place. At this time the relatives of the young person bring nuts, money and food, but if the quantity does not suit the tattooer, he "takes on strike," refusing to proceed until sufficient liberality is displayed. The requisite gifts are sure to be brought, for no Samoan could endure going half tattooed.

Odd Methods of Fishing
There are many ways of catching fish, but one of the quaintest methods is that revealed by natives to the administrator of New Guinea, on a tour of the territory. At Hetan the natives gave an exhibition of kite fishing for gars. The kites, constructed of pandanus leaf, and shaped like huge birds, are flown from canoes, the motion of which makes the kites' tails skip along the surface of the water. A "spider" web is attached in which the fish become entangled. Often 50 fish are caught with one kite in a day. The natives also stupefy fish with drugs.

Oldest Dated Statuette
A jade figure in the Smithsonian Institution is said to be the oldest object found in America. It is known as the Tuxtla statuette. This object was found in the state of Vera Cruz, Mexico. It is carved from jadeite, and represents a birdlike deity with human head. On the front and sides are Maya hieroglyphics, including one corresponding to the date 98 B. C., which makes the Tuxtla statuette the oldest dated monument thus far found in America. The institution has thousands without date which are much older.

Oldest Christian Symbol
The fish is considered the oldest symbol of Christianity. When the pagans became Christians they were afraid of being persecuted and put to death by those who still believed in pagan gods; so they invented a secret sign, giving it the form of a fish. When they wanted to make their new belief known to each other and wanted to find out whether the man with whom they associated was pagan or Christian, they drew the sign of the fish in the sand, and if the person responded in the same way, they felt secure to speak of their new faith.

Ideal Sense of Humor
Cultivate a sense of humor—not the harmful humor that only takes delight in the confusion or humiliation of others—but that humor which enables a man to laugh at himself and hold himself in proper proportion, a man who sees the bright side and communicates the brightness to others.—E. W. Reatty.

Modern Ranges Simplify Cooking
Controlled Heat Makes Results Certain

By Louise Brown

Funny thing about ranges! As long as women have cooked and as much as they have had to work with awkward equipment, it was a man who first saw the possibilities of cooking with electricity and who designed the first electric range.

One of the earliest electric ranges was on display at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893, and a peculiar looking device it was, too, compared to the beauty and efficiency of our modern ranges!

As a matter of fact, electric ranges have improved and advanced more in the last five years than they did in all the first 40 years or so of their existence. But even in those early ranges, everyone realized at once the two main advantages of electricity as a cooking fuel—cleanliness and safety. And these advantages have certainly proved themselves. Modern electric ranges are clean beyond any housewife's dream of cleanliness. There's no greasy smoke or soot given off to soil the kitchen walls and curtains, or the range itself. And surely no one questions the safety of an electric range.

MODERN ADVANTAGES
But beyond these advantages, the electric range of today gives the housewife a controlled and measured heat that simplifies her cooking almost unbelievably and gives her one of the most important things in a modern woman's life—time release from cooking duties.

HEAT CONTROL
The heat control of the modern electric range is so accurate that guesswork is eliminated. There's no need to simply hope for the best when you put a cake in the oven of the electric range. You know when you set the temperature control that that same even temperature will be maintained automatically—throughout the baking. You needn't hover about the kitchen to see how things are coming on. And, naturally, if you don't have to watch the cooking, you needn't stay in the kitchen but can go on about your other duties in complete confidence that you will have a perfectly cooked product when the specified time is up.

The heat is accurately controlled and measured not only in the oven of the electric range but in the platform units and the broiler, as well. When the units are switched to High you have an intense heat—at Low, you have a low, even heat.

DOUBLE BOILER ABOLISHED
This controlled low heat has simplified many cooking processes and made it possible to abandon some old-fashioned practices. The double boiler, for instance, can simply be abolished from the electric kitchen. Icings, cream sauces, rarebits and cornstarch puddings can be cooked in an ordinary saucepan directly over the Low heat of the unit.

THE STEAM COOKER
The steam cooker with which most modern electric ranges are equipped is another advantage women are quick to appreciate. This cooker, which is a deep aluminum kettle having a tight-fitting lid, fits into the platform of the range. With its controlled low heat it is ideal for long slow processes such as baked beans, soups, pot roasts and so on.

TIME CONTROL
The time clock is another feature that makes the electric range a boon to the busy housewife. Imagine being able to put an entire dinner, (meat, vegetables, dessert) in the oven, setting the temperature control and the time clock to switch the heat on and off again, at the right times—and then going away and forgetting about it. When you return at dinner time the meal will be ready for you to add the finishing touches and serve. Wouldn't you enjoy your club meeting or a movie more if you knew dinner would still be on time for a hungry family?

No modern woman can fail to appreciate the advantages of a range that cooks so efficiently and perfectly and gives her so many added hours of leisure.

REAL ESTATE for Sale
Dr. O. E. Baker of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicts that there is getting under way a back-to-the-farm movement. He sees, in the reported increase in farms, factors likely to change national conditions and possibly the first stages of a great movement—"A new migration in search of economic security and social welfare."
ALL indications point to HIGHER FARM VALUES WITHIN THE NEXT YEAR—THIS IS THE YEAR TO BUY FARMS. I have on my list a number of very desirable farms, priced right. Also, DESIRABLE DWELLINGS in CENTRE HALL.
