CENTRE DEMOCRATS TO HONOR JEFFERSON, THE LIBERAL

Centre County Democrats will honor Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States, and the most conspicuous of American apostles of Democracy, at the annual Jefferson Day Dinner to be held Tuesday evening, April 14, at the Nittany Lion, State College.

Jefferson, one of the greatest liberals of modern times, was born April 13, 1743 at Shadwell, Va. He began his public career as a Justice of Peace at the age of 26. His political rise was rapid. In 1775 as a member of the Continental Congress he drafted the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson served as Governor of Virginia, Minister to France, Secretary of State in Washington's Cabinet, Vice President of the United States, and in 1800 was elected President and re-elected in 1804.

Jefferson was six feet, two inches in height, large boned, slim, erect, and sinewy. Beneath a quiet surface he was aglow with intense convictions and was not afraid to risk all on the conclusion to which his heart and mind led him. Jefferson had unlimited faith in the honesty and common sense of the people. He knew no social distinctions and all titles were distasteful to him. His importance as a maker of modern America can scarcely be overstated, for the ideas he advocated have become the very foundation of American republicanism. On the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1836, Jefferson died at his home at Monticello, Va. For his tomb he chose the epitaph: "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, or the state of Virginia for religious freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

FISH FOR SPORT, NOT FOR THE CATCH, URGES DEIBLER

O. B. Deibler, president of the Board of Fish Commissioners, and Kenneth A. Reid, a member, urged Pennsylvania sportsmen to limit themselves to one day's legal catch, 15 fish, during the 92-day open season this spring because of the depletion of the streams due to floods.

Addressing a dinner of the Centre County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, at State College on last Thursday evening, they urged fishing for the sport rather than with the idea of killing the limit each day.

Reid said: "Let us help our fellow sportsmen this year and next and let us ostracize from the ranks of good sportsmen the fellow who doesn't play the game. Today we must fish for the sport of it, not for the catch."

Deibler, supporting that argument, urged the fishermen present to coach the younger generation in the principles of good sportsmanship. "We hear a lot of lip service to conservation," he said. "Let us do something about it by teaching our boy and our neighbor's boy how to fish."

Other speakers than Reid were Hon. Oliver M. Deibler, commissioner of Fisheries; George Harvey, Penn State graduate, instructor in fly-fishing; Dr. J. F. Gogardus, of the Forest and Waters Department; President Ralph D. Hetzel; Congressman Don Gingery, and Seth Gordon.

Claude E. Musser, Millheim, president of the County Federation, opened the program by introducing Prof. Edwin H. Rohrbeck as toastmaster. This followed a delicious turkey dinner.

The dinner held in the Sandwich Shop, Old Main, was attended by 236 sportsmen.

Prizes were won by the following: Walter M. Hoy, State College; fly rod; W. S. Wieland, State College, automatic reel; John Shuey, Lemont, tackle box; C. W. Booser, Centre Hall, fishing license; G. A. Brady, State College, subscription to the Pennsylvania Angler; H. B. Musser, State College, fly box; A. C. Hartle, Bellefonte, R. FREIGHT PICK-UP PLAN DEFERRED TO NOV. 1ST

Yielding to spirited pleas of spokesmen for trucking interests, the Interstate Commerce Commission, on March 31, by a vote of 7 to 3, suspended to November 1 of this year the freight pickup plan and reduced truck rates which the Eastern railroads sought to make effective April 1st.

By this action the commission averted a threatened strike of 5,000 New York motor truck operators and their 24,000 employees which, opponents of the railroad tariffs hinted would immediately follow if the proposed rates became effective.

Under the proposed pickup plan and delivery service offered by the Eastern railroads, for application throughout their systems, less than carload freight would be called for and delivered by trucks owned or employed by the railroads, without cost to the shipper. Those who performed this service for themselves would receive a rebate.

THE FIEDLER WAY.

We are truly learning every day, and learning the W. B. Fiedler way of forcing a water pipe through under the roadway for a distance of twenty feet is learning something worth the while. The water line from the main pipe to the Fiedler property froze during the extreme cold weather during February, and later burst. How to run a new line over Pennsylvania Avenue, our main thoroughfare, was a problem. It was solved finally by the construction of a novel and ingenious contrivance in the form of a three-man plunger. An ordinary tripod was set up, and at the top a chain about six feet long was fastened. On this was suspended an eight-inch hickory pole ten feet long, which was pulled back by one of the men and forward by two, the heavy end of the pole striking the two-inch pipe desired to be driven thru the earth. The strokes were always true and each time the plunger hit, the pipe was driven some distance forward toward the opening made in the earth on the opposite side of the road. Through the two-inch pipe, after it had been driven "home," a three-quarter inch pipe was inserted and proper connections made, and then the work was complete.
