

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The repainting of the F. P. Geary home was completed last week, making it one of the outstanding residences in its section.

Mrs. Harold Alexander and two young daughters, of Wenonah, N. J., are at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Huyett.

Rev. Russell B. McGriffin, six years pastor of the Lewisburg Lutheran church, has resigned. He and Mrs. Griffin expect to locate in Michigan.

At least six pure-bred sheep were killed and 75 more injured when a roving band of four dogs made raids on the Penn State College flock of sheep at Spring Creek near the "Hog Farm."

George Sheckler and Ralph Stover, both of Bellefonte, are repainting all road signs between the Union-Centre county line to Bellefonte. On Monday they had reached Old Fort, having commenced working at the eastern terminus.

Two cows belonging to Elmer Dashem, living on the Dashem homestead at Red Mill, were killed by a bolt of lightning early Saturday morning while in pasture. Mr. Dashem carried while in pasture. Mr. Dashem carried insurance on the animals.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wolf of Kansas City, Kansas, passed through Centre Hall during last week and stopped long enough to speak with a few acquaintances. He is the son of the late Hon. Simon P. Wolf, and was reared here.

Misses Miriam Mitterling and Thelma Clark completed their courses in Potts Business College, Williamsport and are now ready to accept positions in their line. They are capable young ladies and will grace any business office in which they may be given a desk.

Monday night dogs killed a sheep for William Luse, east of town. Before the dogs got away, Mr. Luse succeeded in killing one of them and to some extent crippled a second one. Mr. Stover, the county dog catcher, made an investigation on Tuesday.

Buddy Horner, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Horner, of Coyley is a patient in St. Luke's hospital, Philadelphia, awaiting a favorable time to undergo a serious operation for a malignant growth in the head, at the base of one of his eyes.

Robert Foust is a student at Camp Susquehanna for Boys, at Selinsgrove, having been taken to the camp Tuesday morning by his father, James Foust. Rev. Louis V. Leshner, Millheim, is camp director. The camp continues to Wednesday of next week.

Chris Morrow, recently graduated from Centre Hall High and who got the first smell of printers' ink in his nostrils as an apprentice in the Reporter office, is now employed on the Morrison Cove Herald, a lively weekly published in Martinsburg, fourteen miles from his home at Loysburg.

William H. Lingle of near Tusseyville, will become a resident of Centre Hall next spring, provided present plans measure. In the event of his discontinuing farming operations his son, Paul Lingle, now employed at the Kerlin poultry plant, will begin farming. It will be an exchange of residences, too.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, Potters Mills, are Centre County hospital patients, since Saturday at which time Miss Irene, a Centre Hall high school graduate, entered for medical treatment. A son, Paul, became a patient a week earlier, having contracted pneumonia. Both patients are reported to be improving.

J. J. Shields, a PWA auditor, was in Centre Hall for a few days auditing the account of the borough and Potter township school boards, also all accounts and transactions of the contractor, J. H. Henszey. Mr. Shields is a resident of Germantown, Philadelphia, and has been in the service of the National Government since early in the Roosevelt administration.

Elwood Evay, son of Forest W. Evay, Lemont, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Bradford, Centre Hall, was brought to the parental home from the Mercy Hospital, Altoona, where he had been a patient. His condition had been extremely critical, but treatment at the hospital proved very beneficial. The young man is 21 and enters the senior class at Penn State in the fall providing his health permits.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sparer, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Delaney and son John Thomas, were among the 199 members of the Grange who gathered in the Stormstown grange hall to hold a "Neighbor's Night" meeting, on Friday night, Progress Grange was represented by twenty-seven members and it was from these the "chairs" were filled on this occasion. Union Grange furnished the program which was declared to be very excellent. During a social hour at the close, refreshments were served.

The endowment during the past year was increased from $139,888 to $166,005. Bequest came from the estates of George Skyes, $21,680.04, and the Uriah Litzberger Estate, $4,201.47, the Rebecca Hoesetter Fund, $599, and the Dr. Neri Deitrick estate, $698. The Home has over 100 applicants for admission.

Parka Carcass

All jokes aside, a parka is no covering for your carcass on a hot day, so pretty Ruth Dryer is cooling off after making a tour of inspection of Admiral Byrd's flagship, City of New York, docked in Cleveland for the Great Lakes Exposition. The Exposition opens June 27 for 100 days on Cleveland's lake front.
