A gathering of dealers, salesmen, etc., of Chevrolet cars, in the Harrisburg zone was held at Bloomsburg on Wednesday of last week. Among the several hundred who attended were George W. Sweney, James Lutz, and Robert Breen, from the Miller Motor company, and Harold Ard, of Woodward. A very informing program was put on by the heads of the organization, and the banquet was declared a complete topper for such events.

While climbing onto a wagon loaded with wheat sheaves, Maynard Barger punctured his neck under the jaw with a two-tine fork which immediately gave him excruciating pain. A Millheim physician administered antitoxin, following which for a few hours he was unable to speak intelligibly but later all perplexing conditions passed away. Mr. Barger is a farmer and also operates a threshing outfit in Potter township. He reports grain "running" well, and for the first time in some years, he thinks the bearded variety of wheat is yielding the smooth varieties.

LAST-INNING RALLY AGAIN

WINS FOR LOCAL CLUB

Staging one of their well-known last-inning rallies, Centre Hall again put a game on the credit side of the ledger, Thursday evening, when Pleasant Gap was sent home broken-hearted in a 4-3 score. Up to the last frame, the Gap was leading, 3 to 2, and in their half of the last inning, went out without a score. The locals then looked the situation over and decided that Chick Goodhart would do well to pinch-hit for Breen. Yes, Chick did well. He drove a single to left. Packer hit safely, and with Goodhart on third, Spyer ladd down a perfect bunt in a squeeze play to score Goodhart. Emery was out, but Durst dumped one down to Benford at first, who returned to the plate in an attempt to catch Packer, who slid under a high throw to score the winning run.

Manager Durst was on the mound for Centre Hall, and held the Gap to five hits. He pitched a clever game and deserved to win, because his teammates outdid the opposition 2 to 1.

It is noticeable to the fans that the two "youngsters" on the team, namely, Spyer and Packer, are developing into real ball players, and are accounting largely for the team's great success this year. It becomes more apparent with each game that C. H. should be in the Centre County League where stiffer opposition would be more worthy of the team's mettle.

Lemont, 4; Centre Hall, 3.

In a closely fought contest at Lemont Saturday, Centre Hall lost to Lemont, 4 to 3. Another 5th inning rally on the part of Centre Hall came within one of tying the score. Jamison and Breen for Centre Hall, and Foster and Schreck for Lemont were the opposing batteries.
