THE RED-GALLUSED MAN IN GEORGIA DEFEATED 2 TO 1 New Deal supporters crushed Governor Eugene Talmadge and his anti-administration ticket by a margin of nearly two to one in returns from the Democratic primary in Georgia, held Tuesday of last week.

The victory, following earlier primary triumphs over anti-Roosevelt Democrats in Mississippi, South Carolina and Arkansas, was viewed by New Dealers as the last organized campaign against the President within his own party in the South.

Returns from all of the State's 159 counties, some of them incomplete, gave Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., 162,843 against 87,231 for Talmadge, who battled for the nomination for Russell's seat.

Under Georgia's unit system, comparable to the national electoral college, actual nominations are made on the basis of a majority of the 410 unit votes assigned to the counties. On the basis of the returns, Russell was credited with 362 unit votes and Talmadge 63.

Talmadge tried to ape Huey Long, but made a miserable failure.

15-INNING GAME SPELLS 3-2 DEFEAT FOR LOCALS

A smooth baseball team, working as perfectly as the automobile motors they manufacture, defeated the Centre Hall team, Saturday afternoon after 15 innings of hectic struggle, in a 3 to 2 score. The visitors were the Locomotive Motors club from Williamsport, and the show the two clubs put on was about the best exhibition of baseball seen here this year.

It was in the 6th that Centre Hall tied up with Williamsport at 2-2. "Doc" Crawford, who by the way, was the locals' leader on the offense likewise, with half his team's hits, led off with a single; Goodhart passed ball scored Goodhart. From then on it was nip and tuck until the 5th when the Billporters were lucky to score as Jamison uncocked a wild pitch to the batter. Centre Hall failed to come through in their half of the inning. Miller, for the Motors, pitched a fine game, allowing only 6 hits, while Jamison did almost equally well, allowing only 8 hits in the 15 innings.
