SLINGS INK IN THE FACES

OF PARTISAN PARSONS

From the "Ink Slings" in the Democratic Watchman, Nov. 6th: Their congregations might respect them. We hope they do, but the preachers who told their congregations in Unionville and Milesburg, last Sunday, that atheism would be enthroned in Washington if Roosevelt is re-elected and "I would sooner vote for a dog than him," had better get down on their knees and pray for enough wisdom to see that, when politics takes the pulpit christianity flees.

COMMUNITY FARMSTEAD

PROJECT FOR 218 FAMILIES

Checks have been approved for payment of the first three tracts of land to be acquired in Northampton county, Pa., for a community farmstead project designed to accommodate 218 families, according to Dorothy M. Beck regional director of the Resettlement Administration.

With all legal details completed, it is expected the checks will be handed by government representatives to the owners when title transfers are recorded in Easton this week.

The project, officially known as Northampton Farms, is the first of its kind to be started by the Resettlement Administration, in the northeast, Mrs. Beck said. Located in the important, industrial community identified with Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton, it will serve as a demonstration of a balanced agricultural and industrial community. It will cover 736 acres, to be purchased at a total cost of $104,280.

The entire project is estimated to cost $1,500,000. It will give employment during construction to approximately 400 skilled and unskilled workers daily for a period of one year.

Individual five and six room houses each with a plot of ground averaging three acres for subsistence farming, will be provided for 218 families selected from applicants in areas immediately adjacent to the project. In addition to individual farm plots, there will be a community dairy, and provision will also be made for financing a cooperative association to market surplus farm products.

David Lawrence, the columnist, uses the little of gall when he advises President Roosevelt how to conduct his second administration. The windy columnist used every means—fair and foul—not only to defeat but also to belittle the President during the campaign. He, like a lot of the others, almost spit their lungs out in vituperation of the President, without the slightest influence on the vote of the rank and file, and now, after being wholly ignored, offers advice!

BAKE SALE AND BAZAAR

The "Willing Workers," a class in the Lutheran S. S., will hold a bake sale and bazaar in the Fred Homan store room, Saturday, 21st inst.

FRETZ SELLS ALL HORSES

AND COLTS, MONDAY

The entire lot of 32 horses and colts offered by John P. Fretz, Inc., at public sale at the Old Fort stables, on Monday were sold. The suckling colts sold for from $40.00 to $60.00 each; yearlings at $70.00; a yearling and 2-year old, a pair, $260.00; mare, six years old, $260.00.

Mr. Fretz thought he ought to have had a bit more on the average, but expressed himself willing to try again in the near future, at which time sucklings and yearlings will make up the bulk of the animals to be offered.

NO OLD-TIME REPUBLICAN

REGULARS REMAIN IN SENATE

Four successive Democratic victories at the polls have virtually wiped out the Republican "Old Guard" which ruled the Senate during the Hoover administration under such leaders as Watson, Moses, Reed and Smoot.

The once powerful Republican membership, which in 1930 numbered 56 compared to a Democratic total of 29, has been cut to less than 20, but most striking has been the elimination of the Republican regulars.

Most of the survivors of the repeated Democratic hurricanes are original members of that little band of western independents who refused to follow the regular Republican leadership, or senators who frequently voted with the independent bloc.

While the Old Guard leaders have gone down almost as fast as they faced the voters, most of the independents such as Borah, Johnson, Frazier, Nye and Norbeck have kept their seats. Senators LaFollette and Norris, original members of the western independent group, have remained but have changed their party labels.

The first massacre of Republicans, giving only a hint of what was ahead, came in the 1930 Congressional election when the Democrats gained control of the House and almost balanced the party division in the Senate.

The big slaughter came with the Roosevelt landslide of 1932.

There was another Republican carnage in 1934, when Fess of Ohio; Goldsborough of Maryland; Hatfield of West Virginia; Kean of New Jersey; Reed of Pennsylvania; Robinson of Indiana, and Wolcott of Connecticut, were beaten or dropped out.

The Nov. 3rd election completed the job. Down went Metcalf of Rhode Island; Hastings of Delaware; Barbour of New Jersey; Carey of Wyoming, and apparently Dickinson of Iowa. Another, Senator Keyes, of New Hampshire, did not run.

None of the old-time regulars is left. The closest approximation is a small band composed of Senators White of Maine; Davis of Pennsylvania; Austin of Vermont; Hale of Maine and Townsend of Delaware.

The other Republicans still on the job in the Senate are the old independents, and a group of "in-betweeners" who in the past have voted more independently than the old time regulars. This group includes Senator McNary of Oregon, the leader; Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Gibson of Vermont, and Senator Capper of Kansas.

Once out, the old-time regulars have had little luck getting back into the famous debating society. Few have even tried. But two of them did this year and both were beaten—Moses of New Hampshire in the primaries, and Glenn of Illinois, in the election of last week.

Assuming that Father Coughlin is as good as his word, we will never hear him over the radio again. The villifier of the President promised that if his candidate Lemke did not receive 9,000,000 votes, he would "never make another radio speech." Lemke, supported by the Townsend planners, got only a spare three-quarters of a million votes.

"I take this opportunity to thank the voters of Centre county for the support which they gave me in the election on Tuesday, Nov. 3rd, and trust that I may fulfil the confidence placed in me. Sincerely yours, JOHN W. DECKER."

COMMUNITY THANKSGIVING

SERVICES, WED., NOV. 25

Community Thanksgiving services will be held in Centre Hall and Spring Mills, Wednesday evening, November 25, at 7:30.

The service at Centre Hall will be held in the Evangelical church. The Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick will preach the sermon.

The service at Spring Mills will be held in the Methodist church, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. D. R. Keener.

MISFORTUNE NEVER COMES

SINGLY, SAYS YOUNG TAYLOR

The nine year old young, Thomas F. Hedrick, Jr., accidentally hit by a motor car operated by Harry M. Taylor, died in the Lock Haven hospital on Thursday evening. Mr. Taylor was on the way to the funeral of his grandfather, A. M. Riegel when the boy ran from the school playground in Salona directly in line with the approaching car.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Hedrick, of Lock Haven, were seriously injured when on Sept. 2 a hit-and-run driver struck them while changing a tire. Mr. Hedrick lost the left leg at the knee and his wife suffered multiple fractures of her right leg.

The Clinton county coroner absolved Taylor from all liability in the accident.

ROLL CALL AMER. RED CROSS

NOW ON IN C. H. AUXILIARY

The period of the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross began this year on Armistice Day and extends through Thanksgiving. Never before has the Disaster Relief program of the Red Cross functioned so near to our homes here in Centre county. All of us have heard of the work of the Red Cross in these communities nearby.

But not all of us know that the work of the Red Cross continued for many months in large numbers of the flooded towns and cities. In Johnston the Red Cross workers did not leave until the middle of the summer.

During the past few weeks, the State College Chapter of the American Red Cross has sponsored a class in the teaching of First Aid. Dr. J. P. Ritenour was appointed a special instructor by the American National Red Cross to teach and qualify instructors in first aid.

Once this has been accomplished the chapter looks forward to establishing First Aid Stations on highways in its jurisdiction in Centre county.

Your membership in the State College Chapter of the American Red Cross will give you a share in the National work of Life Saving, Disaster Relief, First Aid and in the local work of the State College Public Health Nursing Service in which your community has always had a share.

The local Red Cross Auxiliary is offered by J. F. Wetzel, chairman; Mrs. W. C. Boomer, secretary; Miss Grace Smith, treasurer.

Solicitors for Centre Hall and Potter township are: Centre Hall: Mrs. W. F. Braford, Miss Helen Odenkirk, Mrs. J. F. Wetzel, Mrs. F. V. Goodhart, Miss Elizabeth Bartholomew, Mrs. F. P. Geary. Potter township: Potters Mills, Mrs. G. H. McCormick, Tusseyville, Miss Anne Wert.

METHODIST CHURCH SERVICES

The new chancel and new hymnals were dedicated in the local Methodist church Sunday morning by the District Superintendent, the Rev. J. M. Williams, of Williamsport. The hymnals were used for the first time in this service. The Rev. Mr. Williams preached on the emphasis of religion for the modern day.

The new order of service was used in the evening worship. The pastor, Rev. Seth Russell, brought anniversary remarks on "A Century and a Half of Methodism in Penna Valley."

A sermon on "Symbolism in the Church" was given by the Rev. Robert J. Sudlow, of St. John's Episcopal church, Bellefonte. Both services were well attended.

MRS. T. L. SMITH ANNOUNCES

MARRIAGE OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. Thos. L. Smith, of State College, formerly of Centre Hall, announces the marriage of her daughter, Marjorie Louise, to Thomas C. Reinhard, of Philadelphia. The wedding took place October 12.

VICTORY CELEBRATION

The Democratic victory at the recent election which resulted in completely routing the Republican enemy in National, State, Congressional and district contests is counted a grand success from all points of view. There were numerous floats in the long parade.

After the feature was concluded the marchers and many others assembled on the Bellefonte diamond, where Henry Brockerhoff acted as chairman and introduced party workers.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF SUPPORT

"I take this opportunity to thank the voters of Centre county for the support which they gave me in the election on Tuesday, Nov. 3rd, and trust that I may fulfil the confidence placed in me. Sincerely yours, JOHN W. DECKER."

CONFER—BRADFORD.

A pretty wedding took place at the Reformed parsonage on Wednesday evening when Rev. D. R. Keener united in marriage a young couple—Lee Confer, of Bellefonte, and Miss Evelyn May Bradford, of Centre Hall.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding dinner at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Bradford, at which, in addition to the wedding couple and attendants, sat the immediate families of the principals and a few invited guests.

From the altar where the marriage vows were taken, the young couple went directly to their completely furnished apartment on Logan street, Bellefonte. Both Mr. and Mrs. Confer have been employed in the match factory in Bellefonte for some time and will continue their work there as heretofore.

The Howard street home will be occupied until a proposed home, already under construction, located near Bellefonte, is completed.

The bride is a graduate of Centre Hall high school, class of '30, and later attended Penn State and Juniata colleges.

A coincidence is related here: The groom's birthday was the day prior and the bride's today (Thursday), the day following the nuptial event.

The couple have the best wishes of a large circle of friends in the very important move they have made.

PARENT-TEACHERS FORM

ORGANIZATION AT CENTRE HALL

Friday evening, November 6, some of the patrons of Centre Hall and Potter township and nearly 100% of the teaching staff from both town and township met in the high school auditorium to hear Mrs. R. Meek, a certified State Parent-Teachers Association organizer explain the purposes of Parent-Teachers Association work.

The group deciding to organize a local Parent-Teachers organization elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Bruce Arney; first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Potter; second vice-president, Mrs. J. Fred Slack; secretary, Mrs. Chester A. Spicker; treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Wetzel.

Ronald Meek and Bessie Mae Meek, son and daughter of Mrs. Meek, very ably and delightfully entertained the group with readings.

The number of patrons was small but now that the organization is effected it is hoped an increasing interest in the work may be shown by a large attendance. Much good for pupil, parent and teacher may come from such an organization if the work is taken seriously and without bias.

The dues are 25c a year. Plan to attend the next meeting which will be announced by the president at a later date.

SECOND NUMBER ON LYCEUM

COURSE, TUESDAY, NOV. 17

Sydney R. Montague, Arctic Explorer, will tell of his adventures and the truth about the Eskimo under the captioned lecture, "Upper Northern Lights," in the high school auditorium, Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, at 8:00 o'clock.

Sydney H. Montague was born in London, England. Early in life his parents brought him to America, settling in Boston, Mass., whence he moved to Montreal, Canada.

After two years spent ranching in Wyoming, Mr. Montague led by the spirit of adventure, entered the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Later he was assigned to service in the Arctic regions, and was one of ten men selected for Government service in Baffinland, the vast territory beyond the regularly traveled routes. Of ten men sent, but two returned to civilization.

During this period, Mr. Montague learned that if he was to exist in this country he must adopt the Eskimo's manner of living. Eating their foods, living, traveling, and hunting with these people, he has learned to speak their language fluently and has acquired from first-hand experience a vast store of Eskimo folklore, tribal legends and a vivid picture of the Arctic.

He covered the Arctic by dog breaker, Montcalm, charting unfrequented territory, charting unfrequented territory.

Some of the life experiences of this daring man, gathered from the Arctic, form the subject of Mr. Montague's lecture. He tells of the rare and rich mineral deposits in the Far North which lie awaiting the time when men will surmount the difficulties of transporting them from their native beds.

Mr. Montague has a wonderful stage display of authentic Arctic explorer clothing and equipment.

Single admission will be 35c; children, 25c.

Season tickets for the remaining four numbers may be bought from any of the high school teachers. Adults, for $1.00 and children, 60c.

From now on Democrats will head the column on election ballots. This will, of course, include the party column. The succession of party names is governed by the success of political parties in states at National elections. While Democrats carried Pennsylvania for governor in '34, at the election just passed was the first time that party carried the state in a National election for something like 80 years.

The children of the late William S. Brooks take this means of returning thanks to those who so kindly gave assistance and comfort during his last illness and subsequent death.

SMALL GAME KILLED.

Although not a complete account of the small game killed by hunters in this section on the first day of the season, it is a report gathered in an hour at three points in town where hunting was being discussed:

Clarence Walker bagged a 14-lb. wild turkey; Fred Lutz, a 15½-lb. turkey gobbler; Paul White, turkey; Sidney Riegle, turkey; Curtis B. Reiber, turkey; William Walker, turkey.

Russell Bohn, limit rabbits; John Bohn, limit rabbits; Ralph Homan, ringneck; Donald Goodhart, a junior Jimrod, limit of rabbits.

Ted Hartley, a natural born hunter, did a real day's hunting one day last week. When the day ended he had eight skunks, four rabbits and two grey squirrels.

MISTAKE TAME FOR WILD

TURKEYS; KILL THREE

Three large turkey gobblers belonging to C. S. Thomas, were killed by hunters who presumably mistook them for legal wild game during the first few days of turkey season. The gobblers, together with a flock of hens, "lived" in the wooded section next to the Thomas home.

Several hunters who exercised due care, came onto the flock of birds, but by noting the movements of the birds questioned that they were legal game and before attempting to kill satisfied themselves they were not.

LEIGHTLEY—MARTZ.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Martz of Linden Hall, Saturday evening, October 24, when their daughter, Helen Martz, was united in marriage with Harold Leightley, of Oak Hall, the son of Mrs. Frank Powell.

The attendants were Miss Geraldine Ross of Linden Hall and Harry Leightley, twin brother of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Homan. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Wallace White. The bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets of assorted fall flowers. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers.

The Rev. W. J. Wagner, of State College, officiated at the ceremony. The following guests were present: Mrs. W. J. Wagner, State College; Mr. and Mrs. George Sweeney and children, Betty and Billy, of Centre Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Houtz and four sons, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. William Bal, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White of Centre Hall; Mrs. J. E. Campbell, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Homan and family; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell and daughter, Bonnie, of Oak Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, of Williamsport; Mr. Poorman, Mrs. Ryan and daughter, Ruth, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. Merritt and daughter, Mrs. Fay Dean and Harry Leightley, of Oak Hall, Miss Geraldine Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Homan, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Martz, of Linden Hall.

Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour, Mr. and Mrs. Leightley will be at home to their many friends at Oak Hall where Mr. Leightley is engaged in farming.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST

FROM ALL PARTS

Kana county, in northwestern Pennsylvania, on Thursday, had its first snow—nine inches deep.

Major Lynn G. Adams was re-appointed Superintendent of Pennsylvania State Police by Governor Earle.

The price of the new 1937 Pontiac motor cars are reduced, the change ranging from $5.00 to $100.00.

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Jodon made a business trip to Lock Haven on Thursday of last week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Seibert, of Bellefonte, recently quietly celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary.

Mrs. D. C. Roseman, of Mifflinburg, was re-elected president of the Homemakers of the West, Buffalo Community.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homan, of Ferguson township, motored to Centre Hall on Sunday and called on W. H. Homan, a brother of the former.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seasholtz and children, Donald, Marjorie and Joan, from Beaverstown, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wetzel.

The appearance of a deadly frost on October 28 was the latest in many years, and so was the low temperature, 18 above at Centre Hall, the lowest temperature recorded prior to that date in a long series of years.

Rev. W. C. Dunlap, of Tyrone, was a pleasant caller at this office on Friday. He reports Mrs. Dunlap, the former May V. Rhone, to be improved in health after an illness extending from well through the summer.

William Gruenwald disposed of his carload of South Dakota horses in Centre Hall last week at an average price of $146.90. Mr. Gruenwald stated that if possible to buy another carload of horses in the west, he would return some time before the holidays.

Merrell Heim, of Harrisburg, was a congenial young man to call at the Reporter office on Friday. He was accompanied here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Heim, also of the State capital city. Young Mr. Heim is one of a large number of obliging and genteel employes in the Penn-Harris Hotel.

Penn township was granted the privilege to vacate the township road leading around the first railroad tunnel, south of Coburn. The petition to vacate the road west of Coburn from Penna Creek to Poe Valley was also considered and may be granted later. The road is now being maintained by the CCC camp in Poe Valley.

George P. White advertises his home for sale in this issue of the Reporter. The White home is located a short distance east of Centre Hall borough line on the Conley road and is a very desirable section in which to live. It was formerly the Condo home. Mr. White is employed regularly at Whitlock quarries.

The prospects of a fruitful crop of valuable white pine timber in the Seven Mountains region is greatly improved since the campaign against the gooseberry bush has ended, under the direction of Dayton Akin, of Milroy, who has just completed the eradication of this host plant of destructive white pine blister rust with the help of CCC workers.

Miss Dorothy Anne Finkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Finkel, of Mifflinburg, was hostess to a group of her little schoolmates at a Halloween party at the Sterling-Finkel camp along Penna Creek. A delightful afternoon was spent romping thru the woods and playing games under the supervision of Misses Helen Jean Sterling and Betty Barnitz.

The funeral of William D. Custer, held on Thursday, was attended by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sharer, Jacob Sharer, Mrs. S. E. Sharer, and Mrs. Bruce Sharer, all of Centre Hall. Mr. Custer was a relative of the Sharer families, and died in State College. Burial was made at St. Paul's Lutheran church cemetery, east of the Custer homestead, below Clintondale.

Our friend Lowell H. Alexander was returned to the General Assembly for the second time by the Mifflin county Democrats. His Republican opponent was Lester Schaeffer, of Milroy, whom Mr. Alexander defeated for the same office two years ago, after Schaeffer had been elected for several successive terms. Mifflin county's representative made a good record during his first term, and that, of course, was a large factor in gathering a majority of votes.

A large representation of members of the Methodist church and Sunday school, as well as persons from other denominations, on Thursday evening, were present at a social given by members of the Susanna Wesley S. S. class, taught by Mrs. R. P. Campbell. The class members numbered eighteen, the largest class in the school. The program numbers included two playlets, songs by a group of children from the first and second grades in the local schools under the direction of their teacher, Miss Helen White. The social closed with the serving of refreshments. The affair was also a financial success, netting the class over $50.00. The class is made up of young single and young married ladies and is active in all lines of Sunday school and church work.
