

FARM CALENDAR.

Timely Reminders from Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Kill the Rats—Quick eradication of rats will save grain and other property that the pests destroy. Red Squill is recommended as the poison to use. Baits are prepared by mixing one part of red squill powder in 10 parts of meat, fish, and rolled oats. These three baits should be placed in each rat run in all buildings on the same day.

Strawberries to Plant—For commercial purposes Howard 17, Catskill, Dorsett, and Corsican will be found the most satisfactory strawberries in yield and quality. Aberdeen with adequate moisture supply will be found to be the heaviest yielder. For home use Howard 17, Dorsett, Corsican, and Fairfax will be most satisfactory.

Plan Christmas Activities—Community leaders interested in Christmas parties and programs can obtain from the county agricultural agent or home economics extension representative a mimeographed booklet giving helpful information on these activities.

Control Farm Gullies—This is a good time to look over the farm to see where dangerous gullies are located. One of the commonest methods of control is to fill the gullies with refuse of all kinds. The materials should be placed carefully to give adequate protection.

New Berries Available—Among the new raspberry varieties available are Taylor an Marcy, red berries, and Sodus, a purple variety. All three varieties are said to be worthy of trial planting. Comparison with satisfactory old varieties is a good way to learn about the new kinds.

Gardens Produce Well—Besides furnishing fresh vegetables in season for an average sized family of five, the 138 demonstration farm gardens in Pennsylvania this year also averaged 267 quarts of canned vegetables and 506 pounds of stored crops. The average garden contained 25 different kinds of vegetables.
