BETTER UNDERSTANDING, NOT
AMENDMENT, TO CONSTITUTION
NEEDED, SAYS PRESIDENT

President Roosevelt charged the courts with obstructing and imperiling the peaceful solution of the great economic and social problems facing the country.

Addressing the new Congress, on Thursday, the President, in the severest strictures he has yet uttered against the judiciary, declared the Constitution affords ample freedom of action for coping with the needs of a complex and industrialized nation, but that reactionary and benighted judges are barring the way.

"The vital need," he said, "is not an alteration of our fundamental law, but an increasingly enlightened view with reference to it."

Roosevelt's challenging words were cheered to the echo by the overwhelmingly Democratic membership of the two houses, which heard him in joint session in the chamber of the House of Representatives. It was significant, however, that while the Democrats uproariously thundered their approval, the handful of reactionary Republicans who survived last year's New Deal landslide, sat silent and hostile.

The President minced no words in placing the blame for the existence of low wages, child labor and sweatshop conditions in industry on the doorstep of the courts.

"The statute of the N. R. A. has been outlawed," the President said. "The problems have not. They are still with us."

That the fault is not with the Constitution but with its reactionary and obstructive interpretation by the judiciary was stressed by the President with the categorical contention that it was the intent of its framers that it be interpreted to meet the changing needs of the country. He asserted, to the tumultuous cheers of his listeners, that the preamble of the Constitution and article one empowers the Congress to legislate and not the courts.

"Means must be found to adapt our legal forms and our judicial interpretation to the actual needs of largest progressive democracy in the modern world."

On this point the President further said:

"The judicial branch also is asked by the people to do its part in making democracy successful. We do not ask the courts to call non-existent powers into being, but we have a right to expect that conceded powers or those legitimately implied shall be made effective instruments for the common good."

Throughout his message, President Roosevelt makes one thing crystal clear:

That he is still the nation's liberal leader.

That he intends to honor the people's mandate of November last.

That the New Deal is marching on

A SENSE OF GREATNESS.

It is written of a certain man that his presence in a group, large or small, lent to that group the sense of greatness and the riches of a noble personality.

That sentence made us think of some of those who visit us—men who by their characters and personalities lift us to a higher plane. This they do as unconsciously as a flower gives perfume or as a bird sings its song.

Deaths

DECKER—Sherwood Decker, aged 2 years, 3 months and 25 days, died Tuesday at 5:00 p. m. in the Lewis-town hospital from acute cardiac dilatation following a mastoid operation. The child was the younger of two children of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Decker, Spring Mills, and had been in delicate health for much of his short life. Beside the parents, a sister survives.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock; services at the Georges Valley church and interment in the cemetery nearby. Rev. L. A. Wagner will be the officiating minister.

SHAFFER—Mary Catharine Shaffer died at her home in Madisonburg on Monday of last week, aged 86 years, 4 months and 9 days. She was the widow of the late Uriah S. Shaffer. She was born in Jacksonville (daughter of Henry and Catharine (Linebaugh) Yearick.

Funeral services were conducted from her home on Friday, when burial was made at Madisonburg. Rev. A. J. Miller officiating.

RACHAU—Mrs. Mazie Rachau, 75, the former Mazie Foote, native of Millheim and widow of the late George Rachau, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Marshall Bartholomew, in Bologno, N. Y. Her death was due to a heart attack.

Mrs. Rachau was born at Millheim on December 18, 1861, the daughter of John G. and Amelia (Harter) Foote. In addition to her daughter, she is survived by two brothers and a sister: William Foote of Pittsburgh; Frank Foote, of Milton, and Mrs. Ella Dennis, of Williamsport.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon and interment made at Williamsport.

KEISTER—Thomas Jefferson Keister died in Reading where he had been living with a son. He was born in Aaronsburg and was 87 years old. His wife, Emma, Edward, is deceased, but there survives him a son, Norman, of Reading, and a sister, Mrs. Susan Acker, Aaronsburg. Burial was made at Reading.

GARVER—Mrs. Alice Garver, widow of Anthony Garver, died on Saturday afternoon at the home of her only daughter, Bertha, wife of Oscar Zoug, at Reading, where she had been making her home.

Funeral services were held and burial made at Pleasant Gap on Wednesday.

The deceased's maiden name was Alice Hoffman. She was reared at Pleasant Gap. She survives her the daughter previously named and two sons, Andrew Garver, Lemont, and Willard Garver, Buffalo, N. Y. There are no brothers or sisters living.

Mr. and Mrs. Garver for a number of years lived west of Centre Hall and later at Pleasant Gap, where Mr. Garver died.

The deceased was aged about sixty-five years.

BEEZER—Arthur Beezer, son of the late Philip and Ada J. Beezer, 54, died from a heart condition Friday afternoon, at his home in Bellefonte. There survive him two sisters, Helen and Rose W., both of Bellefonte.

Funeral services were held on Monday, and burial made in the Catholic cemetery.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Russel Lair, Tuesday evening, at the Centre County hospital.

Mrs. Minnie J. Pursley, postmistress at Weikert, Union county, for twenty-nine years, died on Sunday morning, aged seventy-one years.

John Mowery, since discharged from the Centre County hospital, is able to be about. He is at the home of his eldest daughter at State College, one of his ten living children.

Members of the Senior Service class in the Lutheran Sunday school engaged in quilting on Tuesday and Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. E. Zettle, a member of the class.

Representative John W. Decker informs his constituents that he will use every means available to him to oppose a bill permitting fishing on Sunday. The measure, it is claimed, has considerable support.

Dr. Hilarie Bitner, U. S. N., who has been located in the Orient for the past two years, has been transferred to Washington, D. C. He is now visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Bitner, at Watsontown.

Officer C. Roy Held, member of the police force in Lock Haven since December 15, 1934, has resigned to accept a position with the State Liquor Control Board Enforcement group and will report for duty January 25. Officer Held is a resident of Madisonburg.

Mrs. Earl White is substituting in the primary grade of the borough schools for Miss Helen White, who at present is physically incapacitated. Mrs. White is a teacher of experience, having taught in the Gregg township schools for a number of years, both before and since marriage.

On Monday evening Jean Bartholomew, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bartholomew, underwent an operation for mastoiditis in the Centre County hospital. The operation was performed by Dr. J. V. Foster, assisted by Dr. C. H. Light. Report from the hospital Wednesday morning was that her condition was good and that she had a fairly comfortable night.

$205 IS TOP PRICE FOR HORSE
AT WM. GRUENWALD SALE

One of the most largely attended horse sales ever held in Centre Hall was that of Wm. Gruenwald's on Monday, at which twenty-six South Dakota horses were sold at an average price of $166.75. The high horse passed for $205.00, and the low for $140; high team, $420. Total of the sales was $4335.

The buyers are noted as follows: C. O. Walters, Wm. Dreiblebis, Bellefonte; Harry Miller, C. A. Trostle, Mill Hall; John Yoder, J. C. Peachey, R. J. Yoder, Belleville; Charles Rudy, Miles Walker, State College; W. R. Brundard, George A. Long, Rebersburg; Gen. Irvin, Pine Grove Mills; S. C. McMonagle, Port Matilda; G. W. Keller, Petersburg; Claude Lucas, Salona; John Ritter, Manor Hill; M. C. Waite, Tyrone; Andrew Bame, Coburn, John Bloom, Ebensburg.

BASKET BALL, SATURDAY

The Centre Hall Independents will play a team from the Lutheran Sunday school, Milliflung, on the Centre Hall high school building floor on Saturday at 8 o'clock p. m. Admission, 15 and 10 cents.

$10,000 REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF MATTSOON KIDNAPERS

The Federal government has offered a reward of $10,000 for the capture of the kidnap-murderers of Charles Mattsson, 10, whose nude body was discovered near Everett, Washington, Sunday afternoon.

The boy was carried from the Mattsson home on the evening of December 27. The father, Dr. W. Mattsson, made every effort to contact the kidnapers, but failed to do so. A ransom of $25,000 was asked.

85 PWA JOBS IN STATE
VALUED AT $26,500,000

Eighty-five PWA projects valued at $26,500,000 were completed in Pennsylvania during 1936.

The projects swelled the total since the start of PWA to 131, valued at $32,000,000.

The "outstanding" accomplishment was completion of the $12,000,000 high-speed electric rail transit line between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J.

Other projects were 78 new schools and additions, 15 disposal plants and sewer systems, 13 water works, 10 street jobs, 6 municipal buildings, 4 hospitals, a subway, an electric plant, a library, a municipal market and a low-rent housing group.

LUTH. MINISTER RESIGNS AT 90; PREACHED 65 YEARS

After serving as pastor for sixty-five years, fifty of which were as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Milton, Rev. J. M. Reimensnyder resigned on his ninetieth birthday, Tuesday of last week.

During his entire ministry Dr. Reimensnyder was prominently associated with affairs of the Lutheran Synod to which he belonged and was frequently honored by it.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR THE PRESIDENT, FEB. 29TH

Instead of the Birthday Ball for the President, in Bellefonte, being held in one large hall like heretofore, individual dances will be held in three places—Veterans Foreign War Post rooms, Elk's Home, and American Legion home. Tickets will sell for $1.00.

This leaves Centre Hall as the only point, outside of Phillipsburg, in the county, to hold a party or ball on a large scale. At Centre Hall arrangements have been perfected to accommodate five hundred persons.

The Bottorf Orchestra of fourteen pieces of State College, noted for its superior dance music, for both round and square dancing, will be in service during all of the evening, as will also the Variety Quartet and their noted pianist. Tickets will sell for fifty cents. Time, Friday evening, January 29th.

SHUNKWILER CONFECTIONERY BUSINESS SOLD TO EMPLOYEES

S. Will Shunkwiler, whose delivery trucks are frequently seen parked in Centre Hall, has sold his wholesale confectionery business, located at 19 South Brown Street, Lewisport, to three employees with a combined total of 72 years' affiliation with him, in serving the needs of the retail trade throughout Central Pennsylvania. The new owners are Richard Clemens, who has been associated with Mr. Shunkwiler for 20 years; Milton R. Reed, 28 years, and Frank L. Zeller, 24 years. They will continue the business along the same lines as has made it so successful in the past, but have changed the name of their partnership to the Shunkwiler Candy Company. Formerly it operated under the name of the founder and sole proprietor, S. Will Shunkwiler. Mr. Shunkwiler established the business 20 years ago.

T. B. HAMILTON, AT 99 IS COUNTY'S OLDEST RESIDENT

Thomas B. Hamilton, Bellefonte, celebrated his ninety-ninth birthday yesterday (Wednesday). Mr. Hamilton's outlook for becoming the county's only centenarian is extremely favorable, for he is descended from a family long known for their longevity. His brother, Theodosius Rowland Hamilton, late of Bellefonte, was 92 years old when he passed away in 1927. His mother died in her 90th year; his grandfather lived to be 95 years of age, and his great-grandfather is reliably reported to have attained the ripe old age of 105.

General Motors sales of units in the United States, Canada, plus overseas shipments during 1936 were 2,037,690 compared with 1,715,568 the year before. The previous record was 1,977,267 in 1929.

Cabinets for Convenience

By Louise Brown

MODERN kitchen cabinets—compact, and smoothly finished—are a far cry from the old type kitchen cupboards. The new cabinets are available in either wood or metal, the choice is largely a matter of personal opinion. Both have a smooth sprayed-on paint finish that is easy to keep clean. Drawers pull out silently and easily and doors don't warp and stick. Drawer pulls and door handles have attractive permanent finishes.

While in the past each cabinet manufacturer followed his own sweet will as to sizes and specifications, nowadays they have put their heads together and collaborated with equipment manufacturers to standardize on sizes. The result is kitchen equipment that fits together as though it were especially designed for each kitchen, giving smooth, unbroken work surfaces. But when cabinets are built in, all the available space is used to the best advantage.

Color Trends

The color preference in cabinets at the present time is definitely white. This trend has sound reasons—the main pieces of equipment are generally white, and white cabinets fit in with any color scheme when the kitchen is being done over. Of course, many people prefer cabinets in color to harmonize with some particular scheme—and cabinets are available in a wide range of colors.

Storage Space

Briefly, the cabinet needs of a kitchen are these—enough storage space—a place for everything, and everything in its place.

In modern methods of kitchen planning the equipment is grouped according to three work centers:

1. The Refrigerator and Preparation Center.
2. The Sink and Dishwashing Center.
3. The Range and Serving Center.

Each of these working groups is composed of a major piece of equipment plus storage cabinets and work surfaces. Obviously it follows that the cabinets will be determined by the tasks performed at each work center and the storage requirements at that point.

The danger is of having too little storage space rather than too much. Remember that you add equipment and accumulate more utensils as time goes on, so don't figure the storage space too closely, but allow room to expand.

The Refrigerator and Preparation Center in a modern kitchen. The pull-out pastry and cutting board makes a convenient working shelf, too, in removing things from the refrigerator or putting them in.

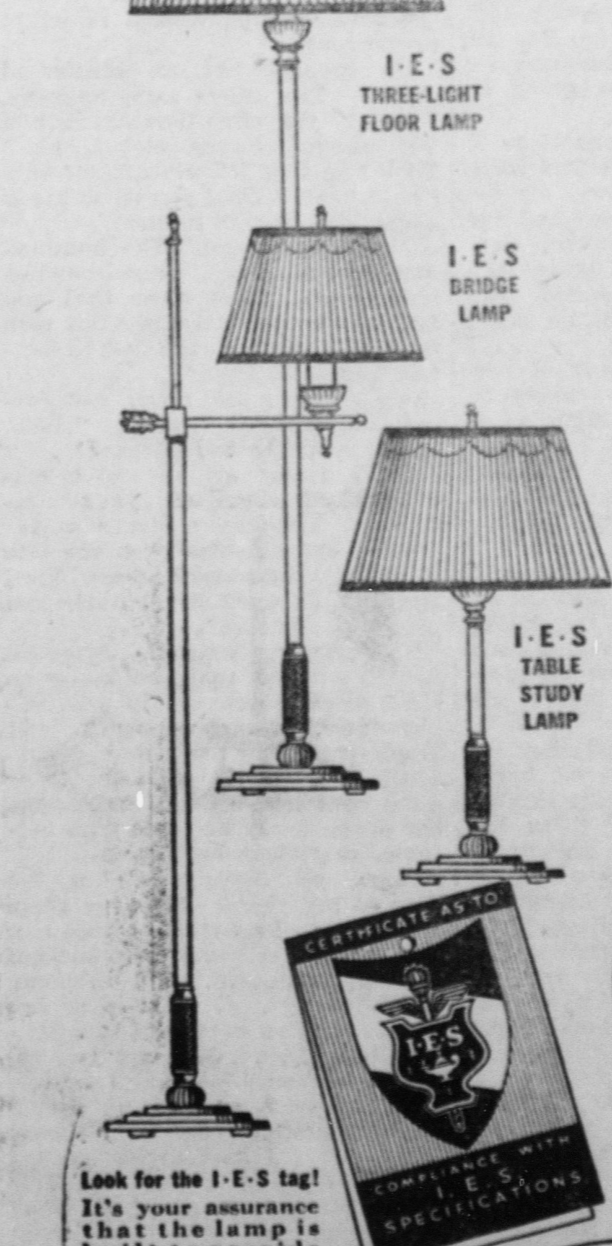

Perhaps the best way to figure out just how much storage space you will need—and where the cabinets should be placed—is to imagine the procedures you follow in preparing food, in cooking and serving, in clearing up, washing dishes and putting them away. Then sketch the cabinets on a sheet of paper—you don't have to be an artist to do this—and indicate on each shelf and drawer what you want to store there.

A Place for Everything
The small things that you use constantly should, of course, be within easy reach. There are a number of handy devices to help you do this. "Step shelves" for instance are placed on the larger shelves to keep small containers such as condiments and spices within view and easy reach. Tray racks are convenient for awkward size trays that don't fit in drawers. Special base cabinet drawers have containers for sugar, flour and corn meal. Cutlery drawers are partitioned off to make the storing of silver and utensils more convenient.

Most of the base cabinets now are built with drawers, rather than shelves as tests show that this gives more usable storage space. Work counters should be 35 inches from the floor. Many women, however, like one lower work surface for rolling pastry, cutting bread, and so on. In order not to break the continuous work surface, this can be achieved by a pull-out pastry board below the work counter. A table will also answer this purpose. Base cabinets are now installed with a toe space, making it easier for the worker to stand close to the cabinets.

Fashion says MATCH-UP
I.E.S. BETTER SIGHT LAMPS
for Home Beauty

"YOU can bring new charm into your living room," say the leading stylists, "with I.E.S. sight-saving lamps that harmonize in general design and lighting effectiveness!"

This does not mean that the lamps must be of the same pattern, but rather that their colors, textures and designs be in harmony so that they blend well into the decorative scheme.

An ensemble such as is pictured at the left is harmonious in color, texture and style. Properly located they insure a soft, even distribution of glareless, shadow-free light, throughout the room. There will be plenty of pleasant, comfortable lighting to prevent strain on eyes and nerves.

Very reasonably priced. Ask your local Lamp Dealer about "Matched I.E.S. Lamps."

CHECK UP!
When you visit the stores you will see that the heart of these I.E.S. lamps is a translucent bowl. Note how restful and soothing this light is to the eye.
