SEE NEW PEACE FOR AMERICAS

First Inter-American Neutrality Pact Signed at Buenos Aires; Value of Peace Propaganda and Women's Work Emphasized.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

THE Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace met in Buenos Aires last month for expressed purpose of laying the foundations of a permanent peace on the two American continents. From the reports of the agreements consummated in the closing sessions of the smooth-working conference it appears that these foundations have been laid.

The conference cannot be looked upon in any light other than that of a complete success for President Roosevelt, for its outcome has revealed the attainment of the purpose for which he suggested it be held.

These are the cornerstones which it has set in place for the banishment of war from the Western Hemisphere—a convention of collective security; a protocol banning intervention an unfriendly act that would bond together all of the American republics in common defense against a country guilty of intervention; a convention requiring common and joint neutral attitude on the part of all the American countries in the event of hostilities between any two of them, and a declaration of solidarity.

This latter declaration will have the effect of a pronouncement by the nations of this hemisphere that an act tending to affect the peace of any of them will affect all, and set in motion consultations provided for in the collective security convention. The word "convention" as it has been used in reporting the activities of the conference assumes the meaning given it in international law—that of a treaty or agreement establishing practices for a group of several signatory nations under specific conditions, such as war.

Pact Unanimously Adopted.

It was the first time in history that the American nations had ever agreed on a treaty which would end war or combat the threat of war by linking the nations of this hemisphere in a joint neutrality program. It was adopted unanimously, a fact which is indeed indicative of the harmony prevalent throughout the entire conference.

In addition to the four cornerstones, the conference produced at least two other suggested features which are destined to play an important part in the determined effort to maintain peace. These two things are an inter-American peace propaganda program of heroic proportions via the radio and moving pictures, and a general movement to afford women full rights of citizenship in the nations which sent delegations.

Other resolutions dealt mainly with standardization and exchange in education and art with a view to strengthening through spiritual and intellectual channels the ties which bind the American nations.

The neutrality convention emerged as a distinct tribute to the statesmanship of the United States delegation. The draft from the committee in charge was actually presented to the assembly as a joint resolution by the 23 signatory nations and not just as a United States project. It had been the most difficult of all the conventions to jam through committee.

The emergent pact was described as "a convention to co-ordinate, ex-according to Cordell Hull, secretary of state of the United States and this country's guiding spirit at the meeting, were ironed out entirely to his satisfaction and without jeopardizing the effectiveness of the convention. The pact provides that the League members shall maintain their full rights and obligations under the Covenant of the League. Further, they shall not be required to give the Inter-American neutrality program precedence over possible application of sanctions imposed by the League of Nations. The conference's standing committee on the organization of peace, headed by Felix Nieto del Rio of Chile, submitted a resolution — which was passed—that the formation of an American League of Nations be discussed in 1938 in the eighth Pan-American Conference at Lima, Peru.

It must not be imagined that the neutrality conventions are hide-bound agreements. They are too flexible and bear too many reservations for that. Rather, they are an initial move toward a co-ordinated Pan-American program which guarantees at least immediate consultation with a view to promotion of peace, probably followed by combined action, in the case of hostilities.

Reservations Limit Effectiveness.

A reservation insisted upon by Argentina makes the effectiveness of any embargoes which might be de-

A resolution introduced by the Uruguayan delegation, condemning the use of poison gas, liquid fire and bacteria in warfare.

A recommendation by the United States that tariff barriers be lowered to give all American nations equal trade opportunities.

A proposal that non-members of the League of Nations, which signed the 1933 anti-war pact prepared by Argentine Foreign Minister Carlos Saavedra Lamas, and the Kellogg-Briand peace pact, co-operate with the League in efforts to prevent and end wars.

A recommendation that all Pan-American countries put in practice the inter-American tourist passport suggested in 1935, and establish commercial boards of arbitration.

Plan Radio "Salesmanship."

The growing importance of propaganda designed to promote international friendships and thus cure the curse of war at its roots was well recognized by the conference. For one thing, it was suggested that all the nations of the Americas pool together in the presentation of a sort of Pan-American radio hour, to further the cause of peace. This program would promote inter-American appreciation of art, literature and the tourist attractions of the co-operating nations.

Here may possibly be seen the influence of the success of President Roosevelt's "fireside chats." It was suggested that the outlets be the most powerful broadcasting stations in each of the countries. Important actions by countries party to the agreement would be announced and patriotic holidays celebrated, but no political comments or reports would be allowed.

In nations where the government's influence over radio broadcasting is not too greatly curbed by law, it is suggested that programs which might stir up enmity between nations or might disturb peaceful relations be banned.

Another resolution involved agreement of the nations to teach in all grades of all schools the principles of the renunciation of war and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration. Arrangements were also made for the annual interchange of students and professors, and for interchange of books and publications through national or official libraries.

The growing importance of moving pictures as media of peace propaganda was likewise recognized. Governments were advised to clamp down on the showing of films which glorified "wars of aggression" or which represented incidents likely to excite the animosity of other nations. By the same token it was suggested that educational films promoting the friendly interest of one country in another, especially by stimulating tourist trade, be allowed freedom of taxes or duties.

See Victory for Women.

The tremendous effect of women's work on behalf of peace was materially acknowledged by a resolution recognizing their efficacy in society and the effect they will have upon the morale of future generations. The resolution said that the time had arrived to enhance their work by granting women of all the American countries citizenship. Miss Doris Stevens, principal champion of the women's cause, who had conducted much of her campaign from a sickbed, saw in this resolution a complete victory; she interprets it to be an official recommendation that women be given the voting franchise in all the American countries, as they have been in the United States.

The tremendous ovations accorded President Roosevelt wherever he visited in South America were evidence of the belief that his "good neighbor" policy had made the thing possible. Tulio M. Cestero, the Dominican delegate, was roundly applauded when he told the conference he hoped the policy "would be a permanent policy of all future United States administrations."

It's Harder to Lose Pounds Than It Is to Gain More of Them

Overweight Generally Has But One Cause and That Is Overeating.

"The slim, the irritable, the hungry woman takes on the proportion of one of our minor menaces," says Fannie Hurst in her amusing little book, "No Food With My Meals." Miss Hurst is writing frankly from her own experience in attempting successfully to lose pounds. She admits herself that although she undertook her reduction program under the direction of the doctor, she was not content with the comparatively slow results and cut still further the low calorie diet which the physician gave her.

It is one of the mysteries of life that it is much harder to lose added pounds than it is to gain them. The bathroom scales, which are now so general a part of equipment, enable us to keep a check on weight. It is not so easy for those extra pounds which creep upon us unaware as it was once upon a time. A few days of dieting in time will save the slender figure. Remember, however, that, in general, the addition of a few extra pounds with the years is an asset. They are usually needed to balance those lines which the years write.

Unless there is some glandular deficiency, overweight has but one cause, namely, overeating. The avoidance of more calories than are needed for use by the body for its own processes and for the activity of our lives may usually be a simple matter if there are no between meal sweets and no over-indulgence in bread, butter, other fats and rich desserts with meals. Not complete avoidance! It is only the second helpings that are usually responsible for undue weight gain. Looking out for that pound in time will actually save nine. Just one word of warning, however, don't advertise publicly your diet program.

Bunyan Created Lakes

Elk and Torch lakes, the beautiful finger lakes that stretch parallel for miles along the shore of Lake Michigan near Elk Rapids, date back to the days of Paul Bunyan, according to the old lumberjacks.

Lake Michigan, they say, was scooped out by the mighty Paul, to be used as a log pond. Instead of skidding the logs into a stream and floating them down to his pond Paul would hitch onto a section of land and drag it over to the lake, log off the timber, and then haul the section back. One day Paul hooked onto a particularly heavy timbered section near the Boardman and started Babe, the blue ox, out to haul it over to the lake. There had been a heavy rain, the ground was greasy, and Babe's feet slipped.

Torch and Elk lakes remain, an eternal testimonial to the blue ox and the time his feet slipped.—Detroit Free Press.

Here's Simple Way to Ease a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever and the pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's — not for "aspirin" alone.
