

COMMENCEMENT, RECEPTION, TRIP TO HERSHEY PARK ENDED HIGH SCHOOL YEAR

Commencement exercises for the senior class of Centre Hall-Potter high school were held Wednesday evening of last week in the school auditorium. The invocation was given by Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick and the benediction by Rev. Delas R. Keener.

The salutatory was delivered by Charles G. Ramer and the valedictory by Donald E. Barger.

The selections were sung by the high school glee club.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. A. B. Van Ormer, doctor of Philosophy and Education at Juniata College, Huntingdon. His subject was "The Distinctive Problem of Youth." In short, he said the distinctive problem of youth was to discover and formulate an ideal, challenging enough to induce him to live for it. He mentioned three elements necessary to achieve this ideal. First, a strong physical body; second, a well trained and disciplined mind; third, a belief in and reliance on a Supreme Being.

The senior class of twenty-one members were presented by the principal, J. F. Wetzel, to Lewis R. Lenhart, assistant county superintendent of schools, who presented them with the new type booklet diploma.

An appreciative audience witnessed the exercises of the evening.

All had a fine outing together, taking in the many amusements on the park and were educationally benefited on their sight seeing tour to the new industrial school where the 993 orphan boys are educated at the expense of Mr. Hershey, and the many home units where the boys live; the modern and elite hotel situated on a knoll overlooking Hershey from the north; the community center which contains the hospital, theatre and all recreational facilities for the community; the 2 1/2-acre rose garden which contains many new choice varieties recently developed in rose culture.
