

Spring Mills

A COLLECTION OF NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND PERSONALS FROM GREGG TWP.'S METROPOLIS.

School Opens 7th—Gregg township school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 7. Miss Florence Daye of Madisonburg, will teach at Decker school this term. She is a new teacher on the staff as is Chester McCall of McAlvey's Fort, who will teach in the high school. Mr. Miller will teach at Penn Hall and Miss Hosterman at Beaver Dam. All other teachers will be at the same schools as last year.

Birthday Party—Sunday of last week relatives and friends of Mrs. Hans LaFlamme gathered at her home in Brush Valley, on Centre Hall R.D., and assisted in the celebration of her 56th birthday anniversary. The party came as a complete surprise to Mrs. LaFlamme whose birthday was Monday August 23. Many fine gifts were presented to the guest of honor, along with a large, delectable birthday cake and other refreshments were served.

Those present were, besides Mr. and Mrs. LaFlamme and Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Boob and family, Charles Frazier and family, H. E. Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Lambert, of Rebersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morey and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taise and child, of Altoona, and Bradley Harpster.

Children in the community who recently underwent tonsilectomies included a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Slack and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Lingle. The operations were performed at a Lock Haven hospital. About forty families from Spring Mills and nearby are camping on Grange park this week. Of course this represents only a small percentage of the residents of this district who will attend the fair for a day or more. A list of the tenters from here and all other points is printed in this issue.

Mrs. W. H. Sinkabine, a former resident of this place now living in Berryville, Va., is visiting among her daughters in this section. She came North with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyer stopping first with Mr. and Mrs. Dean Braucht, at Coalport.

Light and Power Line to Farmers Mills—The other Tuesday the West Penn Power company began shooting light and power over a line leading from the M. T. Zuber farm to Farmers Mills, serving nineteen patrons one of which is the Union church. The first patron on the line is Mr. Zuber, others along the line are given in rotation as the line runs to the north: Carl Long, Harry Corman, Frank Young, John Hagan, Merrill Walker, Arthur Auman, Willard Hettlinger, Harvey Hagan, Mrs. J. W. Foreman, Robert Homan, Charles Eungard, Wm. F. Rishel, Harry Shreckengast, Lee Vonada, Union church, Jay Rachau, Joseph Swabb, Samuel Stitzer.

The line is standard built and carries the current over the modern aluminum twisted cable with a steel center. Most of the farmers served have already arranged to light their barns as well as their houses.

Miss Lona Hanson spent the weekend at the home of her father, Harold Hanson, manager of the Dairy-men's League milk plant in company with two girl friends, Miss Shepard of New Albany and Miss Welt, of Trevorton. The young ladies are students in the school for nurses at the Geisinger Memorial hospital, Danville and are most promising prospects. They joined the throng on Grange Park on Sunday.

The Old Gym Razed—The razing of the old gym at the Vocational School is about completed. The structure was purchased by John W. Hosterman, who will reconstruct it on his farm east of Spring Mills. The lower floor will be used for a garage and implement shed and the upper for housing poultry. The old gym did valiant service during its life. It was a gym of its day but not a present day gym for high school sports. A few steps to the north is a modern auditorium and gym combined and a great credit to the community.

Mrs. Wm. Johnson and two children of Philadelphia arrived at the Bright Bitner home on Sunday for a visit.

Dorothy and Jane Rossman returned to the Masonic home at Elizabethtown after a month's vacation with their mother, Mrs. Pauline Rossman.

Mrs. D. M. McCool is spending a few days in Altoona with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Almond McCool of Akron, Ohio, were visiting the J. T. McCool family over the week-end.

4000 Mile Drive Through the South—Mr. and Mrs. Bjaime Bitner returned home on Sunday evening from an extended trip through the South. The 4000 miles traveled took them into a number of States. As a whole the South did not have anything like a strong appeal to the couple, although they experienced a thoroughly enjoyable trip, good health and no mishaps.

Mr. and Mrs. H.W. McCool and Miss Lottie McCool of Millheim, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McCool and son Robert, of Altoona, visited with Mrs. D. M. McCool on Sunday.

Mrs. Grace McCool is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Emory Zerby cousins, of Illinois. They also visited with an aunt, Mrs. Ellen Heckman, at the Edward Zerby home at Penn Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Gentzel and children visited with Mrs. Carrie Long.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rokey and children, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Finkle and daughter Dorothy Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Sterling and young son, of Millinburg, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Condo at their tent on Grange park. Mr. Sterling is foreman of the Millinburg silk mill.

H. W. Fetterolf and family expect to occupy the John W. Zerby home as soon as it is vacated by the Watts family.

G. H. Slegal last week returned from a vacation spent with his son and daughter, Eugene and Kathleen in Bridgeport, Conn. Both young people are teaching in the same school. Eugene is a graduate of Susquehanna University, and later took post graduate work, while the latter is a graduate of Penn State. Mr. Slegal declares he behaved like a man at all times while on vacation.

Russell Condo is about to open the fifteenth term of school in Gregg township grammar grade. In addition he has three more years of teaching experience—one year in Penn and two in the rural schools of Gregg. Mr. Condo, his pupils declare, "makes them come up to the scratch," but there is no resentment.

The Slegal brothers, Fred and Robert, plasterers, have contracted to plaster five houses in State College and one in Spring Mills. G. H. Slegal, father of the brothers, is also one of the crew.

Buyers Myers Incomplete Home—The home on the south side of Long street, but partially completed, was purchased recently by Prof. C. M. Watts from Ardel Myers. The structure is brick, designed on modern lines and is nicely located. The Watts family will occupy it as soon as it is completed.

Chester, McCall and bride of McAlvey's Fort will begin housekeeping in the Royer home. Mrs. McCall is a native of South Williamsport. Another new family to locate here is Mr. and Mrs. Henry Matter who come here from Womelsdorf. Mr. Matter will be the miller for A. J. Herbster. They will occupy the W. H. Fetterolf home as soon as the family can vacate it. In the meantime the Matters will board.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garvell and daughter, Miss Hazel, of Lewisburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Martin, of the same place, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Condo. Mrs. Garvell is a sister and Mrs. Martin a niece of Mrs. Condo. Miss Hazel is musically inclined and is attending a conservatory of music in New York City.

Dan Smith, Clarence Smith and Archie Confer, with their respective families, on Sunday made a sight-seeing motor trip to Watkins Glen.

Harry Condo, beginning of the week, was again chauffeur for the Bernsteins on a New York City motor trip.

Miss Esther Gessmeyer, of Pittsburgh, was a guest of Mrs. Pearl Decker, and on Monday returned home by train. Mrs. Decker taking her to Bellefonte.

Mrs. Vera Myers is back from Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leitzel, of Lewistown, were motor guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy.

Mrs. Warren Jones and son Blatr, of Millroy, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Hoekenbury and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heckman. They all camped over the week-end on Grange Park. Other guests of the couple were Mr. and Mrs. William Langle of Millroy.

Thirty Lb. Turkey at 4th Anniversary—The fortyfourth anniversary of the marriage of John C. A. and Margaret (Emerick) Heckman was duly celebrated during last week at their farm home. A thirty-pound turkey reared and fattened for the occasion on the Heckman farm, furnished the substantial dish for the elaborate dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Heckman spent their married life on the farm and proved that farming is a profitable vocation.

Guests in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Heckman who sat around the table included Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Breon, daughter May and son John; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lingle, Mr. and Mrs. Foster A. Breen, Isabel and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Heckman, Dorothy Mae and John; Mr. and Mrs. Garman Matter, Margaret, Robert, Kathryn and Richard; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heckman, William Heckman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Breen, Henry and Betty; and Cleveland Zerby.

A. L. Alexander moved from the Royer house near Bressler turn, to the toll-gate house on the William Stover farm, east of Penn Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray and daughter Esther, of Lewisburg, were guests of Mrs. Sylvia Greshole.

Miss Jean Rishel Entertained—Miss Jean Rishel was the charming hostess at a party given at her home Friday evening, in the form of a wafel roast with trimmings. The guests included Miss Mae Breen, Mable Eungard, Rosella Hettlinger, Bernice Barger, Cora McCool, Bernice Smith, Evelyn Brooks, Herbert Breen, Robert Henschen, Bernard Confer, Kenneth Eungard, Charles Dressa, Eugene Zerby, Paul Homan, Spurgeon Condo, Robert Corman and Dean Hettlinger. Miss Rishel is a student at Penn State and her abilities as a student have been recognized in various ways by the Institution.

State Highway Inspector Dies Suddenly—Ralph Andrews, a State highway inspector, on the Spring Mills-Centre Hall road, died very suddenly. He is resident of Salona, and Saturday attended a family reunion there. He was driving home a brother-in-law when he became ill, turned the wheel over to him, and on reaching Mill Hall died before treatment could be administered for a heart attack superinduced by indigestion. He was married and was 42 years of age. While at Spring Mills he gained many friends due to his jovial disposition.
