THREE SLAYERS EXECUTED AT ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY

There were three executions in the Rockview Penitentiary electric chair early Monday morning. The victims were Ralph E. Hawk, 21 of Marion; Fred Reibald, 27, of Philadelphia, and Albert W. Gregg, 31, a Chicago gangster. The three executions were performed in less than fifteen minutes.

Hawk burned two women to death in a wild attempt to avoid marriage. Reibald shot to death a policeman, and Gregg, in robbing a department store in Philadelphia, shot and killed a socialist while shooting his way to freedom.

Young Hawks was the first to die. He walked the few paces from the death house to the brilliantly-lighted execution chamber with a smile on his lips. He said not one word, but looked steadily upward until the black death mask was slipped over his head. Two ministers accompanied Hawk to the chair. One was a friend of earlier days, Rev. Clyde Meadows of Chambersburg, near Maryland, and the other was Rev. C. F. Lauer, chaplain at the prison.

The chargestruck Hawk at 12:31 1/2 a. m. He was pronounced dead at 12:34.

Reibald walked into the execution chamber as soon as Hawk's body was removed. He was accompanied by Rev. F. P. McCreesh, Catholic chaplain, who said a special prayer for the dead. Palefaced, Reibald wet his lips with the tip of his tongue as his gaze rested upon Deputy Warden Frank Craver of Holmesburg county prison, Philadelphia, where Reibald had been held for weeks.

"So long, Warden, good luck to you. That's all," he said simply.

"So long, whispered Craver."

SPECIAL REGISTERING DAYS FOR SOUTH SIDE VOTERS

Four employees of the Centre County Registration Commission were named by the commissioners at their recent meeting to serve in the capacity of special Registrars for the nine-day registration period beginning April 4th and ending April 14th. At the present time the ladies are doing research work for the Registration Commission at the Court House.

Personal applications for registration, applications for changes of party enrollment and removal notices from electors of the several boroughs and townships will take place between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. and 7 p. m. and 10 p. m., on the following dates and places:

DUTCH CHARLIE IDENTIFIED MILROY BANK ROBBER

Pennsylvania's Motor Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation joined forces in an effort to solve a three-month-old Milroy county bank hold-up. The state force put into effect for the first time its month-old "co-operation pact" with the federal investigators by submitting the name of Charles Rickels, alias "Dutch Charlie," 46, of New York, as a suspect in the robbery of the Milroy bank which netted four bandits $6,300.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, deputy commissioner, said a bank employe identified Rickels as one of the robbers. The robbery comes under federal jurisdiction because the deposits are insured under the federal plan. Wilhelm said Rickels now is held at Riverhead, N. Y., on a bank robbery charge.

John W. Decker's announcement of his candidacy to succeed himself in the lower house of the State legislature assures Centre county of being represented for the third successive time in that body by a Democrat. During the two terms he already served he was appointed and did valiant service on a number of important committees, and his vote on all questions was in the interest of the citizens of Centre county without regard to politics. He is the long candidate of his party.

Wheat plants in many fields are looking quite promising. The plants are ample in number to produce a crop above the average. Where the plants had a good growth last fall the prospects for a good crop are the most promising.

RELIEF WORKERS ABOUT TO GO UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

Officials of the Department of Public Assistance said a few days ago that a system of civil service for 5000 relief workers in Pennsylvania will be put into operation this week.

Hugh P. Dolan, secretary of the Employment Service, said that the department will start certifying lists of applicants for jobs as supervisors, visitors and clerks to the various county assistance boards.

The relief employes were placed under civil service by the new assistance act, which became effective on January 1.

In the present organization of the State Assistance Administration are 5,975 employes, including 67 executive directors, one for each county; 385 supervisors and junior supervisors, 3,224 visitors and interviewers, and 2,299 others, including clerks, stenographers and receptionists.

All are on a temporary employment basis. It was pointed out, each liable to be supplanted by job applicants who might have obtained higher ratings in civil service examinations in January.

Oral examinations of those who passed the written tests are being completed this week, said Dolan, to be combined into a total grade that will determine final ranking of the applicants which the Employment Service will certify to local assistance boards for hiring.

The Centre County Relief office employs twenty-six persons.

GINGERY VOTES FOR WAR WIDOWS BILL

Congressman Don Gingery voted for the passage of H. R. 9725, a bill to liberalize the provisions of existing laws governing death compensation benefits for widows and children of World War veterans.

Under the present law the widow of a veteran must show that he had a 20 percent, service-connected disability before being entitled to a pension. This new bill reduces the service-connected disability to 10 percent.

Under existing law, in case the veteran should die without having filed or received disability, his widow or other dependents must complete their claim and the filing of proof within three years. The new bill removes this time limitation, and allows the widow to file a claim at any time she is able to prove a service-connected disability of her deceased husband.

This bill had the approval of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled War Veterans of America.

FARMERS HEAR SOIL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The meeting of the Centre County Agricultural Conservation Association held in the high school auditorium on Thursday evening was more largely attended by farmers than meetings of that class heretofore. The large percentage of the farmers were of middle-life age or younger, and appeared much more interested. There were no criticisms, they were present to learn more of the details of the program. Prof. W. B. Nissley, State College, was the speaker.

The program last year included forty practices; this year there are but sixteen, under:

1. Farm Woodland Improvement.

2. Establishing New Seedlings.

3. Green Manure and Cover Crops.

4. Mulching.

5. Soil Erosion Control.

6. Applying Lime and Fertilizer.

Most attention was given to subjects two and six, Establishing New Seedlings and Applying Lime and Fertilizers.

Not a few of those who listened to the explanation of these practices and the requirements by the farmer for collecting the cost of fertilizer and seed, were much confused. In reality the problems are easily worked out if the farmer presents his individual problem to someone acquainted with the work, and that is what he should do.

The whole program is for the benefit of farmers in communities like this and the requirements on his part are easily fulfilled once he gets an understanding of them.

HELD ON INVOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Bryron Bartley of Port Matilda is held under $500 bail on the charge of involuntary manslaughter.

COLOR INDICATES WHEN CLOVER SEED IS FOREIGN

Colors are used to identify imported clover seed, explains J. B. Dickey, extension agronomist of Pennsylvania State College.

Seed from Italy is stained 10 percent red. It is not hardy and is not recommended for sowing in Pennsylvania. Most other imported is stained one per cent green. This is often called "adaptable" or "adapted" seed but Mr. Dickey says that such terms mean little.

Green stained red clover seed is better than none, according to Mr. Dickey but he states that is never wholly reliable. Canadian red clover seed, coming from a rigorous climate, may be used without hesitation.

Snow fences along the State highways were removed at many places during last week. The snow fence did but little service during the winter just passed, but no one knew whether the snow fall would be much or little when the fences were erected. There is nothing like being prepared for emergencies.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Bible and daughter, Miss Emma, formerly of Potter township, last week moved from their farm at Fiedler to Aaronsburg into a home purchased a short time ago. Governor George H. Earle has named Keeme, Runkle, Middleburg, as prothonotary, clerk of the court of quarter sessions, clerk of the court of oyer and terminer and clerk of the orphans' court of Snyder county, succeeding the late Ira A. Loe. The appointee is a cousin of Miss Laura Runkle, in Centre Hall, whom she frequently visits.

While it is not too late to sow clover seed, seed sown at an earlier period will have some advantageous conditions not to be experienced by the seed sown from his time on. The advantage of early sowing is that freeze and thawing covers the seed and gives the plant produced a root system that will withstand the hot sun. Clover seed will sprout lying atop the ground, but a hot sun will wither it.
