Treatment For Anemia

DR. JAMES W. BARTON

WHEN an individual is said to be anemic—has thin blood-the first thought for a' great many years was to give "iron" pills, because anemia really means lack of iron. And even today the anemic individual is still given iron pills, iron tablets, iron capsules and even iron injections. These methods of giving iron are all helpful in anemia.

Then when Drs. Minot and Murphy, Boston, were able to show the medical profession

the wonderful results of feeding liver to patients with the formerly fatal type of anemiapernicious anemialiver in some form became the common method of treating all cases of anemia. Later extract of hog's stomach instead of liver began to be used with the same success. While this treatment by iron, liver or liver extract and hog's stomach helps most patients, it should not prevent the patient, or, in cases where the patient is under treatment, the patient's physician, from finding out the cause of the anemia and trying to correct it. Prevention and Cure.

Dr. H. K. Speed Sayre, in Oklahoma State Medical Association Journal, mentions dental sepsispoisoning from the teeth-and anemia due to lack of vitamins and minerals in the food eaten.

"The treatment of anemia may be divided into three divisions: Prevention, the general treatment of anemia and treatment by specific or special remedies."

Prevention of anemia would include a general examination by the physician and dentist so that any slow infection that may be destroying the red corpuscles or reducing the iron in them would be readily discovered. General treatment includes bed rest, rich, nutritious foods, especially meats, green vegetables and fruits.

Special or specific treatment would be the use of liver, liver extract, extract of hog's stomach and, in certain cases, the transfusion of rich blood from a healthy individu-

The Failing Heart.

The heart was meant to do a certain amount of work, according to the size of the body. However, if infection in the body affects the lining or valves of the heart, or affects the power of the heart walls (which pump the blood), it would then not be able to do its "normal" amount of work. It could, however, do half (or even more) as much work as it was able to do before it was damaged.

The point then for those with heart disease—a failing heart—to remember, is, that having such a heart does not mean that they are doomed to early and sudden death. It means rather that they will have to learn just what "load" their heart will carry without putting extra strain on it. It is the extra strain that undermines the heart's strength (uses up its reserve).

Not getting enough rest, taking more exercise or doing more work than the heart can stand are some causes of strain.

An important cause of strain is the eating of large, heavy meals. Emotional disturbances also put much extra strain on the heart.

Six Lives Lost Heeding

False Distress Signal One of the worst disasters on the Great Lakes in 1880 wiped out the crew of the Pointe Aux Barques coast guard station near here, which recently was discontinued, recalls a Huron City, Mich., correspondent in the Detroit Free Press.

Following the mandatory weather report for April 23, 1880, in the station's log is the notation, "Crew all cold in death with the exception of keeper," written by Capt. Jerome Kiah, the first commander.

On that day, Captain Kiah said later, a scow flying a distress signal was seen. The crew of six and commander launched a boat and headed for the scow. Several hours of battling the heavy surf took them three miles out, a quarter-mile from the scow.

A heavy wave swept up on the boat and capsized it. Twice the crew righted it, each time to see it capsize again. For a time they clung to the boat, then one by one they slipped away into the icy wa-

Captain Kiah, who was not overheated from rowing because he was in command, alone survived. He was found unconscious on the beach. The report notes that the six lives were lost needlessly. After the coast guard boat overturned, the scow sailed away in no apparent difficulty and its identity never was

NOW YOU TELL ONE

Two hired hands from neighboring farms were telling each other their troubles. One was complaining about not getting enough to eat.
"Just this morning," he said, "the cook says to me, 'Do you know how many pancakes you've et already this morning?' I told her I didn't have occasion to count 'em. 'Well,' says she, 'that last one was the twenty-sixth.' And it made me so hot I got up from the table and went to work without my breakfast."-Indiana Farmer's Guide.

The Last Straw

He pulled into the garage with a horrible grinding of brakes and, descending from his ramshackle twosenter, asked to be shown some second-hand cars.

"Got tired of the old bus, I suppose?" the salesman inquired. "No, not quite," replied the mo-torist, "but every time I park this thing, along dashes a policeman to make sure I've reported the accident."-Stray Stories Magazine.

The teacher was lecturing the class on birds and their young ones. "Now, children," she said, "you must imitate the young ones when they come out of the shells."

The children started waving their arms, except one little lad, who sat quite still.

"Why do you sit still, Johnny?" said the teacher with surprise. "Because I am a bad egg," was the startling reply.

JEARS ago, when the "Amos I and Andy" craze started, enthusiasts used to defend themselves against skeptics by saying that they liked the radio program because it was so human.

Now the movie-goers, in droves, are saying the same thing about the pictures based on the lives of the Hardy family. The latest one, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," is making plenty of friends for the series, and may lead to demands that earlier Judge Hardy and Family pictures be revived.

The cast is good; Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Anne Rutherford, Lana Turner, Ross Clark, Raymond Hatton. You'll feel that you know them as well as you know your neighbors.

Mickey Rooney is superb. His performance might well be listed as among the best of the year. Don't miss "Love Finds Andy Hardy."

Gary Cooper is perfectly happy, now that he is making "The Cowboy and the Lady" and wearing the kind of clothes he wanted to for his role; not the expensive togs that the studio's wardrobe department picked out for him, but the kind that a cowboy really would wear.

They are telling an amusing story It happened when he and Frances Langford were honeymooning there, and were guests at a lake not far from the city. Hall took a canoe out one day, and the attendant stopped him, saying that he couldn't do that until he'd taken the canoe test. So Hall, who grew up in Tahiti and of whose skill in the water you know if you saw "Hurricane." took the canoe test as obediently as if he hadn't practically lived in one from the time he was born.

The new Boyer picture, "Algiers," has been the inspiration for a new dance, a slow fox-trot very much like the tango. Kay Kayser, whose radio popularity is spreading rapidly, played with his orchestra when it was introduced in New York.
