CRUEL DELUSION OF OLD AND DESERVING PEOPLE

Plagued by an influx of poverty-stricken wanderers from other states, attracted to it by reports of its salubrious climate and easy living, California found itself forced, in recent years, to set up a system of control of immigration. It established a border patrol to keep outside its boundaries persons unable to afford some evidence of ability to sustain themselves. Even so, it was unable to keep out of its territory many thousands of unfortunates from other states, who flocked to it as a haven of safety and security.

If California was attractive with little to offer but the mildness of its climate, what will it be now that so many of its voters have given their endorsement to a proposed state law to provide pensions of $50 "every Thursday" in state warrants, to any person who is over 50 years of age and unemployed?

Governor Merriam had better act before it is too late and call out the National Guard to man the border, for when this California scheme gets noised around the country, "California, Here I Come" will become the theme song of an army moving to the Sunshine State.

Sheridan Downey, who defeated Senator McAdoo, the presidential favorite, for the Democratic senatorial nomination over his success in his advocacy of the pension plan. He tested the political power of Utopian promises in 1934, when he ran ahead of Upton Sinclair by 125,000 votes when they ran for lieutenant governor and governor, respectively. As Democratic candidates on their "End Poverty in California" platform. He served under Dr. Francis E. Townsend, of $200-a-month pension fame, as chief strategist. His present pension scheme is a modification of the Townsend Plan.

Under the circumstances, while a victory for Senator McAdoo would have rated as a victory for the President, those who take no pleasure in presidential victories would have found in it more cause for satisfaction than is contained in the Downey victory, for while running as a New Dealer, Mr. McAdoo was actually the conservative in that California contest, refusing to bid for votes by endorsing a fantastic pension scheme he called a "cruel delusion of old and deserving people."

Deaths

CUNNINGHAM.—Mrs. Mary A. Cunningham died Friday morning at 3:40 o'clock at her home in Bellefonte from complications following a five-year illness. She was 79 years of age.

Mrs. Cunningham was born in Benner township, a daughter of Henry and Rebecca Kline Houtz. She was twice married. Her first husband, George H. Swabb of Linden Hall, died in 1918. Her second husband, John Cunningham, of Bellefonte, died in 1932. A son and daughter, George H. Swabb of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Clyde Charington, of Akron, Ohio, are surviving children to the first union.

One brother, Elmer Houtz, of Bellefonte, and a sister, Mrs. William Houser, of Centre Hall, and a niece, Mrs. Mary Allen of Washington, D. C., raised by Mrs. Cunningham, also survive.

Funeral services were held from her late home on Monday afternoon with the Rev. Clarence E. Arnold officiating. Burial was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

MARTZ.—Mrs. Catharine Martz, mother of William S. Martz at Tusseyville, died at her home in Altoona on Thursday. Funeral services were held on Saturday at 2:30 p. m., and burial made in the Fairview cemetery, Altoona.

Mrs. Martz was born at Tusseyville, June 9, 1845, a daughter of William and Hannah (Spangler) Boal and at death was aged 93 years, one month and 22 days. She was the last of her generation.

Mrs. Martz was long a member of Grace Methodist church in Altoona, where she had lived for fifty-six years. Although she had acquired an age much over the allotted time, she was well able to care for herself until the last few months of her life. She also continued her interest in current events and the welfare of her children until the close of her life.

The children of the deceased are: Edward, the eldest (deceased); William S., Tusseyville; Mrs. Mollie Smith (deceased); Sarah, at home; Mrs. Annie Lucas and Dillman, at home. Her husband, Adam Martz, well known in Penna Valley, is deceased.

There also survive seventeen grandchildren, twenty-four great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

SHULTZ.—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Shultz died at her home in Bellefonte on Thursday night from complications following a four-year illness. Mrs. Shultz had been confined to bed for the past three years.

Mrs. Shultz was born in Boggs township 67 years ago, a daughter of George and Margaret Wetland McKinley. In 1895 she married Miles Shultz, who survives with the following children: Elwood, Mrs. George Brown, Leslie and John, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Fredrick Schulz and Miss Margaret, at home, and Mrs. Erma Gee of Monongahela. One brother, Daniel McKinley, of Milesburg.

Funeral services were held from the home and burial made in Bellefonte, on Sunday.

PACKER.—Thomas A. Packer, born at Axemann, a son of Richard and Catharine Mallory Packer, died at his home in Boalsburg, on Monday, aged 49 years. He is survived by a wife, formerly Virginia Hummer, and these children: Mrs. Jean Ripka and Miss Ruth, at home, and Ralph Packer of Bellefonte.

Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:15 o'clock; burial at Pleasant Gap.

FREE SPEECH NOT THREATENED BY NEW DEAL

Judging from some of the remarks made on the Grange Fair rostrum by Republican candidates for State office, "free speech," especially by politicians, is not being interfered with by the New Deal. Many of the remarks were so extravagant that no one considers them to have been uttered with any degree of sincerity.

Such little matters lie the $165,000,000 in the red left by the Republican State administration when Governor Earle went into office are now not deemed worthy of mention, especially so when it is known that the Earle administration made up the deficit and today has a balance of $11,600,000 to its credit.

Recently returning from Europe, the scholarly Nicholas Murray Butler, who has been an influential delegate to every Republican national convention in the last half-century, offered this advice to his party: "First, get some ideas and then some votes." Glenn Frank, who also has been a college president, has been running to and fro in quest of any kind of ideas for nearly a year, with a very large committee at work. But he has had no success. The party, in fact, is helplessly reactionary—and Dr. Butler, of course, would have it so. It would reject any ideas that could attract votes.

Not a word from Judge James, Republican candidate for governor while on the Grange Fair rostrum in explanation of his demand for a guarantee of $90,000 before he would resign as a State Superior Court Judge. The State party managers will not guarantee a sum equal to the Judge's five-year salary, consequently he refuses to resign. This at least indicates he has slight hope of winning over candidate Jones on November 8. He at the same time smears the judicial robes.

HUNTERS PREPARE FOR OPEN SEASON ON VARIOUS GAME

The vanguard of a half-million hunters in Pennsylvania, anxious for the first gunning of the Fall, saw the opening of the initial season on rails and gallinules, dun-colored marsh birds, on Sept. 1—a mere warm-up for succession of game seasons in the state.

On Oct. 1, the season will be open on woodcock, another migratory game bird, controlled by federal law.

Other seasons the state and federal commissions have decreed for Pennsylvania sportsmen this year are:

October 15 to Nov. 25—ducks and geese, jacksnipes and coots.

November 14 to 19—Bear season, with Game Commission reports indicating bears are plentiful in the North Central mountain counties, from Snyder, Centre and Clearfield, to the Poconos, and north to the New York line. Limit—one to a person, two to a party of five or more.

Oct. 31 to Nov. 12—Small game, with the following limits: Ruffed grouse, 2 a day, 6 a season; bob white quail, 4 a day, 12 a season, and snowshoe rabbits, or hares, 2 a day, 8 a season.

Oct. 31 to Nov. 26—Small game, with these limits: wild turkey, 1 a day and 1 a season; ringneck pheasants, 2 a day, 10 a season, for males only; rabbits, 4 a day, 20 a season; squirrel, 6 a day, 20 a season.

Oct. 31 to Dec. 10—raccoons, 2 a night, or 10 a season.

Nov. 28 to Dec. 3—a one-week open season on antelope deer only (does and young bucks) in all counties. Limits, one a season to a hunter, six to a party of six or more.

"The indications for deer season are very good for the hunters," said Gordon. "There are deer in every county of the state—we're trying to get the hunters to concentrate on taking them out of the agricultural sections to relieve the damage to farmers."

Trapping seasons are:

Nov. 15 to Jan 31—Minks, opossum and skunks.

Dec. 1 to Jan 31—Raccoons.

Dec. 1 to Jan 31—Trapping in these counties only for otters and beavers: Otter, Monroe, Pike, Susquehanna and Wayne; beavers, Centre, Clearfield, Jefferson, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Susquehanna and Wayne.

GRAND JURY PLACES COSTS ON 9 PROSECUTORS

In ignoring nine bills brought before the grand jury the body placed the costs on five of the prosecutors.

With John B. Wert of Centre Hall foreman of the grand jury in its report on the conditions of the jail had this to say:

"We have visited and inspected the county buildings and find that the jail building is in good condition with the exception of the roof which should be repaired or a new roof installed. The cornice around the entire building should be repaired and painted and the porch and walk on the south side of the building is in very bad condition. We recommend a new porch and walk, also two new screen doors on front of the building and one on the south side; two new swivel chairs in the sheriff's office are needed; toilets should be replaced and kept clean.

"The members of the Grand Jury realize that finances are a deterrent to the building of a new jail. Neither is it our intent to suggest luxuries for county prisoners, but as so many of our Grand Jurors have done before, we wish to go on record as reporting that the Centre county jail is outmoded, out dated, and not properly fitted to be used as a house of detention for prisoners. Ventilation, sanitation and the general atmosphere is extremely bad. We recommend that the jail be landscaped, which can be done without expense to the county."
