PENNS VALLEY, LONG THE STRONGHOLD OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN CENTRE COUNTY

The fall missionary institute of the West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed and Evangelical Church was held at Lock Haven on Saturday. Mrs. E. G. Kline of Selinsgrove is the president of the body. An accomplished guest speaker was Miss Carrie Kerschner of Philadelphia. From Centre Hall the gathering was attended by Mrs. F. M. Fisher and Mrs. W. P. Bradford. The paramount function of the regional homemaking education supervisor is to plan for the improvement of teachers. It is her responsibility to cooperate with the State supervisor in working with the teachers in service within the region in order to help them to improve their methods of instruction and to supplement their previous preparation for teaching, especially in part-time and evening classes. The supervisor also studies the needs of the region and the local communities in regard to homemaking for various groups of home makers and prospective homemakers, and organizes classes and courses to meet group needs as to age, experience, and ability. However, not more than about twenty-five per cent of her time is devoted to teaching day-unit courses. Miss Geer was formerly a member of the faculty in Harris Township Vocational school. For more than a year, E. C. Seagr, nationally known cartoonist and creator of the famed comic figure, "Popeye the Sailor," died at Santa Monica, Calif., on Friday. He was 43 years old. TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Mrs. Harry Weaver of Altoona was among friends in Centre Hall during last week. A McCormick-Deering corn picker was purchased by William Campbell, manager of Penns Cave farm. The four hundred public school teachers in Centre county will attend the annual institute today (Thursday) and tomorrow. W. E. Boob of Anaronsburg, who became ill while in his cornfield, is improving. A daughter, Mrs. Edgar Sover, of Tower City, was called home. I. C. Yoder, a Kansas horse dealer, is having the A. A. Frank barn in Millheim repaired and fitted up suitably to accommodate the sale of horses. T. C. Henney and daughter, Mrs. Anna Erb, and the latter's daughter, of Latrobe, were week-end guests of the former's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucy Henney. S. Ward Gramley and Windom C. Gramley have been appointed administrators of the estate of their father, Titus M. Gramley, late of Millheim borough, deceased. All candidates for State office on the Democratic ticket gave honorable service in the World War, while none on the Republican state ticket did so. That is something to think about. Unemployment compensation checks in the Bellefonte area were issued to 329 persons for the week ending September 20. The total of the checks amounted to $3,592.20. The average per check was $10.91. The old vocational school building at Boalsburg will be the scene of a square dance this (Thursday) evening, under the auspices of the senior class of the Harris Township Vocational school. Ralph Beahm, of Anaronsburg, has been appointed to a position as a junior clerk in the unemployment compensation division of the Department of Labor and Industry, at Harrisburg. The job pays $1020 annually. The seniors in East Penns Valley high school decided that at the close of the present school term the custom of former classes will be followed by taking a trip to Washington, the National capital, in preference to visiting the World's Fair in New York. Mrs. Roxanna Robertson and Mrs. Beulah Boone, living at 190 Whiting Lane, Hartford, Conn., suffered some damage during the flood period in that city. Their home was out of the main flood district, the damage being to the house roof and windows. By this time everything has been righted, all of which is pleasant news to give Reporter readers. Mrs. Joseph W. Brooks of Cleveland, Ohio, who has been spending the past few weeks at her native place, the Carper home at Linden Hall, in company with her sister, of the latter place, was a caller at the Reporter office last Friday. Mr. Brooks, who is a railway fireman, was also here for a short time, but his work permitted only a short stay. Mrs. Brooks contemplates returning home soon. Miss May Martin died at Mooresville, Huntingdon county, at the age of 76 years. She is referred to in an obituary notice as having possessed superlative vocal gifts. She will be recalled by the older readers of this item as having been a leading soprano vocalist at one or more annual conventions given in the old Reformed church, fifty years ago. The fall missionary institute of the West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed and Evangelical Church was held at Lock Haven on Saturday. Mrs. E. G. Kline of Selinsgrove is the president of the body. An accomplished guest speaker was Miss Carrie Kerschner of Philadelphia. From Centre Hall the gathering was attended by Mrs. F. M. Fisher and Mrs. W. P. Bradford. Penns Valley, long the stronghold of the Democratic party in Centre county, has an opportunity in November to re-elect John W. Decker to the legislature where he will again be able to serve those engaged in agriculture as he did during the two terms served in the past. He was instrumental in passing much legislation of direct benefit to the farmers of his district, among which was an increase in reimbursement for cattle destroyed under the Bangs disease measure to rid herds of infected cattle. Mr. Decker has never let an opportunity go by to aid in passing legislation of benefit to the farmer. About fifty-three years ago John Ream and his wife, Mary Barree, both of Gregg township, set up housekeeping in the property on Church street now occupied by James Fouast. Mr. Ream was employed then as a track hand on the L. & T. He continued with the Pennsy for 44 years, working his way up. For thirty-four years he was an engineer and was retired as such. Mr. and Mrs. Ream and their sister-in-law, Mrs. William Ream, of Spring Mills, were in Centre Hall, on Friday and renewed their acquaintance with some of the older residents here. Mr. Ream is a son of George and Lucy A. Houtz Ream. The family now consists of Mr. and Mrs. Ream and the former's mother, formerly Lucy A. Houtz, who has attained the age of ninety-five years, but continues active, and live at 2414 North 6th street, Harrisburg.
