SHALL THE UNDERWORLD RULE PENNSYLVANIA?

[Editorial, Philadelphia Record, October 241 Is the underworld to govern Pennsylvania?

The voters must answer that question November 8.

The issue is plain and clear. with the underworld, or who derive their income from the underworld:

We would not make such a severe accusation were it not based either gipon court records or upon the sworn testimony of the parties concerned. confessed under oath by recognized Republican leaders.

James' campaign hinges on four

Grundy, Ernest Weir and G. Mason died several years ago. Two sons and never racketeers or the allies of rack- er, J. W. Auman, of Lewistown.

Now let's look at the records: On October 12 Jerome H. Louchheim confessed in open court that on the strength of his party contributions he approached Mayor Wilson in effort to "fix" a gambling house for his friend, Charles Kaelker. He told the court that he had asked Wilson to jet the house run, that he had been "taking care" of Kaelker, a notorious fore, the court could not, to quote gambling promoter, for "many years." That's what Louchheim said about Louchheim. John J. McClure was CONVICTED by a Federal jury, sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary for a conspiracy which involved not only liqnor law violations but which revealed McClure as a collector for gambling dens and houses of ill fame.

After the Volstead Act was repealed, McClure escaped his penitentiary term through a Department of Justice ruling. We've never understood that ruling. But even less have we understood why such a man was honored by being named head of the then Republican Senate Finance Commit-McClure's connection with the underworld is a matter of court record. M. L. Annenberg is the operator of a service which sells racing information to illegal betting establishments.

At this very moment he is fighting a State investigation of that business, which is his chief source of income.

It reaches around the world

... but it's part of your own home town

Almost anyone you know, anywheré in the world, is within reach of your telephone voice. Telephone service is state-wide, nation-wide, world-wide.

Yet your telephone service is largely a home-town service. Most of the calls you make are to people nearby. And most of the telephone people who serve you live in or near your own home town. Some of them are your friends and neighbors.

 This company must be big to serve 1,220,000 Pennsylvania telephones. But after all it is simply a large number of home-town people, working together to give all the people the finest telephone service in the world at the lowest possible cost.

. . . Is your home or office equipped to take full advantage of modern telephone service? An extension telephone saves time and steps; affords extra protection, privacy and convenience. Ask the Business Office or any telephone employee for further information. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.
